Revolution? Leave Out the R.

So Floats the Macon.

$2,000,000 Criminal.

The Squeal and Holler.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT knows how to put what people want to hear in few words. He says they want "evolution," and don't want "revolution." That word has one letter too many. The President thinks we need to "use gray matter," whether "brain trust" or otherwise. In other words, we need to think.

WE DO NEED to think, and we might start with this:

"Is it wise to discourage efficiency by b ing farmers to keep down production and taxing consumers? Could we not apply part of our gray matter to the problem of DISTRIBUTION instead of concentrating on restriction?

Would not the angels, looking down "with eternal lids apart," prefer to see superfluous little pigs, cotton and wheat divided among the hungry and naked of the world, somehow, even by subsidizing "dumping," rather than see the cotton plowed under, the wheat not planted, and little pigs unborn thrown into the cold Mississippi?

THE BIG AIRSHIP Macon floats in Florida sunshine, moored to a slender steel mast at Opalocka, Miami suburb. Crowds visiting the giant silver ship wonder that the slight mooring mast can hold it. But the ship is always pointed into the wind, and its streamline, fish-like shape offers little wind resistance. The mast, sunk deep, is braced all around by heavy steel cables, stretched out in all directions, fastened to heavy blocks of reinforced concrete.

THE GIANT AIRSHIP is a "marsupial," wide open underneath, with an arrangement for taking in and dropping out swift pursuit planes. The ship needs them for swift distant observation, and for her own defense against the enemy. One fair hit from a bomb or explosive shell, and there would be no more Macon.

FLOATING WITH her keel barely thirty feet above the ground, the great dirigible as the sun goes down casts to the east a wide cool shadow that covers acres of well-kept, close-cropped grass on the government airfield. In the shadow, the crew of the dirigible, in their oily blue working overalls, play baseball enthusiastically.

Innumerable small boys, highly honored, are allowed to pick up the ball and throw it in, when it goes too far astray. Two or three of the bigger boys are even allowed to play.

Everything is in admirable order, the little tent village for men, the government air reserve fences and machinery. What the Army and Navy do is done well, and neatly.

JOHN DILLINGER continues his adventures. Citizens report having seen him within twenty-four hours in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois. Few men have been in so many places at once.

However, to save Dillinger from the sin of vanity, it should be mentioned that there is nothing wonderful about escaping the clutches and poor marksmanship of 5,000 or more officers of the law for a week or two.

In Corsica, the island that produced Napoleon, Dillinger would learn about bandits that committed crimes and roamed the hills in freedom for long years, with not only police but soldiers hunting for them.

CORSICAN AND other European bandits often made themselves popular by taking from the rich and dividing with the poor. It is too late for Dillinger to borrow that idea, United States government tax collectors having borrowed it already.

AUTHORITIES ASSERT that Dillinger has cost the country about $1,500,000, not counting $500,000 in loot taken from the banks that he has robbed. The only cash reward for Dillinger thus far is $25 offered automatically by the state of Indiana for each violator of a parole. Under our amusing system of justice it appears that Dillinger had been paroled on his statement that he was not a habitual criminal. He is certainly "habitual" now.

HIS FATHER says: "I think John would make a good policeman if they'd give him another chance," and there is no doubt about that if a good policeman is one who hits and catches others, and is himself hard to hit.

Unfortunately for Dillinger, thirteen have been killed, six officials, six bandits, one bystander, along his trail since he broke parole. That would make it difficult to adopt his father's suggestion. If Dillinger has really cost the country anything like $2,000,000, shall we consider a fund to pay criminals for crimes not committed, as we pay farmers for wheat not planted?

HIS NEIGHBORS testify that a Missouri farmer can judge the weight of the hogs merely by hearing them squeal.

It is not necessary for him to see them or put them on the scales. Tax collectors report that they are similarly gifted, in another direction. They can tell the financial weight of their victims by the "holler."

ACCORDING TO the Associated Press, Japanese newspapers are amused by "the American fleet's failure" to take one hundred and eleven warships through the Panama Canal in 24 hours. It did, as a matter of fact, take about 48 hours to get all the ships

RAILWAY PAY SLASH TO BE RESTORED

Wages to Reach Old Level Next Year; 2½ Pct. July 1

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—Railway labor and managements agreed today to a restoration of the full pay of the workers on April 1, 1935.

In compromise agreement after a long series of conferences between the Railway Labor Executives' Association and the Conference Committee of Managers it was agreed that the 10 per cent deduction from checks of the workers which has been made for the last two years should be gradually restored during the next year.

The employes will receive a restoration of 2½ per cent on July 1 of this year; 2½ per cent on January 1, 1935, and the remainder on April 1, 1935.

The agreement came after negotiations started March 15 apparently failed and Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation, had announced that his efforts at mediating the situation had failed. Eastman withdrew last Saturday and on Monday the managers and labor got together unexpectedly and worked out the compromise.

A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executive Association, said:

"We have joined in this agreement to comply with the wish of the President of the United States in the interest of national recovery."

A statement was issued by W. F. Thiehoff, chairman of the Conference Committee of Managers, said:

"We faced the choice of reaching a settlement with employes or of carrying the wage controversy to a conclusion under the law with its attendant uncertainly and disturbing effects."

A British Protest

A NOTEWORTHY fact in English history is that invariably when the government has taken a false step, embarked on a mistaken policy, or assumed a discreditable attitude on a question of high principle, it has not been necessary for England to await the censures of other nations. She has been sure of castigation in her own tongue, uttered to her face by sons of her own, who care more for truth than the favor of ministers or the patronage of parties.

Chatham was such a man, and so was Burke. From an earlier period the names of Pym and Hampden come to mind, and earlier still, that of Sir Thomas More, the foremost Englishman of his time, who preferred death to a cringing oath of false allegiance.

It would be strange if so disgraceful an action as the repudiation of the British war debt to the United Sates could be committed without a word of British protest against so grievous a hurt to Britain's pretensions to faith and honor in her dealings with other nations!

THE CHANCELLOR of the Exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, in his budget speech last week, boasted of his country's business recovery and pointed, with a satisfaction that none begrudged, to a national surplus for the year of 39,000,000 pounds.

He announced that this surplus would enable the government to reduce the income tax and many other taxes weighing heavily upon the British people.

But he did NOT say that, concealed in the budget and passed over in silence was a piece of fraudulent deception!

He did not point the attention of an applauding House of Commons to the fact that he had omitted from the budget any reference to the unpaid instalments upon England's debt to the United States, to her actual default on the debt, although by a technicality she has managed to escape, as yet, being stigmatized with the term—DEFAULTER!

HEIRS REVIVE HARTJE ROW OVER FUND

Three Seek to Break Trust to Pay 'Alimony'

Recalling Pittsburgh's most sensational divorce case in 25 years, the heirs of Augustus Hartje, one-time millionaire paper manufacturer, have instituted action to dig into a $103,000 trust fund for the payment of $6,000 a year alimony to Mrs. Mary Hartje Howard, his former wife.

The millionaire paper maker, when his divorce suit against Mrs. Hartje failed a quarter of a century ago, set up the trust fund from which a $6,000 annuity was to be paid her.

Following Mr. Hartje's death in 1922, the heirs contested his will, and in settlement of the contest, Edward G. Hartje, a brother, and John Scott Hartje and Mary Louise Rambach, children of Augustus Hartje, agreed to make up any difference if the trust fund failed to yield the $6,000.

The action instituted by the heirs before Judge H. Walton Mitchell seeks to set aside the agreement, and to permit the use of the principal of the trust fund to make up the $6,000 annuity.

Typist Sues Berlin For Back U. S. Pay

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 26.—(AP.)—Magdalen H. Woods, of Greensburg, today filed suit against Representative William M. Berlin to recover $910 she alleges is due her from federal pay checks.

The suit sets forth that Berlin hired her as a stenographer for federal duty and certified to the government she was to receive $95 monthly, but that "agents" for the Representative paid her only $25 per month over a period of 13 months.

The three girls captured by U. S. agents and vigilantes as machine-gunning John Dillinger and his henchmen broke out of a backwoods trap with a toll of two dead, four wounded. Federal agents report that the names given them by the three girls are fictitious. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

AID TO BAND COSTS JOB OF DOCTOR

Today's Dillinger trail:

1—While hundreds of federal agents, state and city police were concentrated in St. Paul in a frenzied manhunt for John Dillinger, "phantom desperado," kidnapers seized a 5-year-old girl playing near her home.

2—St. Paul's health officer was suspended when it was learned that he had treated both Dillinger and his companion, John Hamilton, for wounds suffered in a bank holdup March 13.

3—Formal request was made that Gov. Floyd B. Olson declare martial law and call out troops to capture Dillinger, as criticism of the Department of Justice continued to grow.

ST. PAUL, April 26.—(AP.)—Mary L. Carline, 5 years old, was kidnaped shortly before noon today while playing near her home.

Neighbors told police a man in a large sedan stopped at the curb, bundled the girl into the car and drove off rapidly. All police cars in the city were warned to be on the lookout for the car.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Carline, could give no reason for the kidnaping.

St. Paul Doctor Ousted For Aiding Dillinger

ST. PAUL, April 26.—(AP.)—With the suspension of St. Paul's health officer today, it became known that both John Dillinger and his first lieutenant, John Hamilton, were shot and wounded while raiding the First National Bank of Mason City, Iowa, last March 13.

The officer, Dr. N. G. Mortensen, was suspended by John McDonald, commissioner of public safety, after federal agents disclosed Dr. Mortensen had been forced to dress wounds Dillinger and Hamilton suffered in the Mason City robbery.

Both Dillinger and Hamilton have been sought for various crimes, but this was the first time they had been definitely connected

Donnelly Sailing For Swindling Trial

HAVRE, France, April 26.—(INS.)—In custody of two New York detectives, Stewart Donnelly, alleged international swindler, sailed for the United States today. He is being taken back to New York to face charges of operating a confidence game.

Reports that Donnelly, when arrested last summer, had in his possession some of the ransom money paid by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, had previously been investigated by the French and American police and proven untrue.

Police Here Seek Armed Auto Trio

Highways in the district today were being watched for the occupants of a black sedan, bearing Indiana license plates, that drove away from an Ellwood City service station last night without paying for a tank of gasoline.

County detectives were notified that the car contained three men with a covered object, believed to be a machine gun.

U. S. PONDERING JAP CRISIS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—The Japanese situation was up for discussion today by President Roosevelt at a luncheon conference with Secretary Hull.

Mr. Roosevelt arranged to acquaint himself intimately with the new moves by Japan toward China.

The Secretary of State turned toward the White House after a thorough study of the latest announcements by the Far Eastern government.

Meanwhile, it was said authoritatively that the United States had sent no official communications to Japan or any of the nine-power treaty nations concerning Japan's "statement of policy toward China."

Definite confirmation that the State Department was still making a careful study of available "texts" of the Japanese declaration, the provisions of the nine-power treaty and other pertinent data, and that no immediate definite action was contemplated by

Judge Patterson Quits Race, Glick Out for Shannon

By MARK SHIELDS

Two developments today in the Republican gubernatorial primary campaign materially enhanced the political fortunes of Lieut. Gov. Edward S. Shannon.

One, state-wide, was the withdrawal of Judge Marion H. Patterson, of Blair County, as a candidate for Governor, which was followed by a statement by his campaign manager, Attorney Peter Glick, of Pittsburgh, urging the Patterson supporters to be for Shannon.

The second, developed in Allegheny County, involved the formal merger of the Shannon forces with those of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, seeking nomination as Republican candidate for the United States Senate. This move will be formally announced tomorrow.

PATTERSON SILENT

Patterson, in withdrawing, declared for no candidate, but pleaded for the nomination of a man who could win at the general election in November.

Glick, who was Secretary of Labor and Industry in the cabinet of former Gov. John S. Fisher, quickly identified such a man with

King Alfonso Veils Moves in Mystery

FONTAINEBLEU, France, April 26.—(INS.)—The whereabouts of former King Alfonso, of Spain were a mystery today. He left here yesterday.

No one in the entourage of the former monarch would discuss the situation in Spain, where the resignation of the cabinet of Premier Alejandro Lerroux has precipitated a serious crisis and aroused rumors of an impending monarchist revolt.

SCHWAB BACK, SEES RECOVERY

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP.)—Radiating his usual optimism, Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, returned on the liner Rex today after a brief vacation on the Riviera.

He declined to comment upon recent business and industrial developments, explaining that he had tried to forget about such matters on his trip.

Schwab said he was certain the complete recovery of business was not far distant. He added:

"The whole structure of business seems to have changed, and to an old fellow like me such changes always seem radical. But I am right behind the administration in its business policies. We had our chance to help conditions and did not succeed. Let's give the administration an opportunity now."

Schwab said he was "anxious to see opportunity as the incentive for the development of business." He added:

"I want to see young men have a chance."

Pajama Party Ends In Shots, Girl Dying

UPPER DARBY, Pa., April 26.—(INS.)—Clad only in pajamas, a woman believed dying from a bullet wound in her breast was found by police early today on the doorstep of her home.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Fontaine, 32, was taken to Delaware County Hospital where doctors said she probably will not recover. When informed that she was about to die, Mrs. Fontaine admitted she had been shot during an early-morning party at her home attended by two men and a girl.

Child Heiress Kidnaped, Cowboys Search Hills

Angry Mob Gathers At Jail Awaiting Arrests

TUCSON, Ariz., April 26.—(AP.)—Kidnaped and held for $15,000 ransom, 6-year-old June Robles was sought today by the same police who captured John Dillinger and they were aided by scores of ranchers and grim-faced cowboys with six guns.

Meanwhile, groups of people, talking freely of a lynching if and when the kidnapers are arrested, assembled around the Pima County Courthouse.

The little girl was abducted yesterday afternoon as she was returning from school. A man drove up beside her in an automobile, called to her and then speeded away when she entered the car.

Two hours later Rosalio Estrada, a small boy, brought to the girl's father, Fernando Robles, member of a wealthy old Arizona family, a roughly printed note which demanded $15,000 for the release of his daughter and warned the father not to report her abduction to authorities.

Disregarding the threats, Robles called in authorities and word of the girl's kidnaping spread quickly.

The girl is a granddaughter of Bernabe Robles, wealthy Spanish rancher of a family that has lived in this vicinity since the Spanish land grant days.

With every road in this vicinity watched, authorities searched every corner of the city with the same determination that a few months ago they captured Dillinger, notorious Mid-Western desperado, and three of his companions.

Officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and representatives of Division No. 85, Street Car Men's Union, met again today in an effort to reach terms for a two-year contract and wage scale to replace one which expires next Monday.

A conference yesterday was adjourned after it was found that neither side would agree with the other. About 1,800 men are involved in the demands, details of which have not been made public.

NEW LINDY CLUE RENEWS HUNT

International News Service.

BOSTON, April 26.—Reports that theh ideout of a gang suspected of complicity in the abduction and fake ransoming of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was the goal of a small army of federal agents spread throughout New England today as between 30 and 40 agents, moving with utmost secrecy, concentrated in the vicinity of Rutland, Vt.

Thed rive was led by Clarence D. McKeaen, head of the Department of Justice's New England bureau of investigation.

First indication of the agents' activity came when a squad of 20 appeared at Rutland late last night, unannounced.

Without consulting local authorities, they questioned about 100 residents there, then left as mysteriously as they arrived.

All trains arriving here from Northern New England were under the surveillance of the federal operatives today.

River Gives Up Suitor, Suicide in Love Spat

The body of Anthony Stukas, 22, of 225 Clover street, who ended his life in the Monongahela River after a quarrel with his girl friend April 12, was recovered from the river today.

In his wallet was found a girl's photograph inscribed:

"Darling, please keep this picture.

"ELINOR."

Police say the photograph was that of Miss Elinor Benotatis, 16, of 48 South Twentieth street, with whom he had been keeping company before he leaped to his death from the Twenty-second Street Bridge.

The body was churned to the surface of the river today near South Eighth street by the wheels of the river boat Crucible.

DEFEAT FACES SUPER-INCOME TAX CLAUSE

Senate Scores Victory In Conference; Bill O. K.'d by Leaders

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The House will reject the 10 per cent super income tax—described as "a tax upon a tax"—which the Senate wrote into the new $470,000,000 revenue bill, Democratic leaders predicted today.

The 10 per cent super tax was sponsored by Senator Couzens (Rep.) of Michigan, and was estimated to draw from $55,000,000 to $75,000,000 additionally a year from income tax payers. The House will vote on Monday.

OPPOSITION LOOMS

Vigorous opposition to the entire measure was expected, however, because of the heavy burdens placed on business, and other taxes affecting virtually every person in the country.

The administration was said by leaders to have approved the measure, including publicity of income tax returns, higher income and estate taxes, a capital levy, the cocoanut oil tax and other revenue raising provisions.

House conferees said the action of Congress in overriding President Roosevelt's veto of the federal pay restoration and veterans provisions of the independent offices bills largely influenced the House to accept the Senate's boosting the original bill from $258,000,000 to $417,000,000.

CHAIRMAN'S REASON

Chairman Doughton of the Ways and Means Committee said:

"I think that was one reason why we were willing to make some concession to the Senate and provide more revenue."

Representativve Treadway (Rep.), of Massachusetts, member of the Conference Committee, after Doughton said that the overriding of the veto was one reason for boosting taxes, stated:

"That's no reason at all.

"Figures have been compiled showing that overriding of the veto actually saved the government money because otherwise many features of the economy act would not have been continued for another year.

"If that is the excuse of the Democratic members of the Conference Committee, they are embarrassing over two hundred of their members who voted to ride the veto. No word hed the conferees that the inistration desired higher s for that reason."

President Roosevelt, it was disclosed, made a proposal to Congressional leaders in an effort to avoid mandatory publicity of income tax returns.

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, Democratic House leader, said he believed the House would reject the Couzens amendment but approve other features of the legislation. He said:

"I think the House conferees did a pretty good job."

REED ASSAILS TARIFF POWERS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—Republicans and Democrats on the Senate Finance Committee engaged in an old-fashioned tariff joust today, with the latter contending high tariff advocates were attempting "partisan political heckling" of Secretary Hull.

Hull was advocating passage of the administration bill giving the President authority to negotiate reciprocal tariff agreements when Senators Reed (Rep., Pennsylvania) and Hastings (Rep., Delaware) sought the particular articles on which duties might be reduced.

After Senator Connally (Dem., Texas) had made the accusation against the Republicans, Hull said it would be dangerous to mention any items in advance because of the rapidly changing currency and exchange situation.

this government, came from high official sources.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt's move to expand the Navy was linked today with Japan's "hands off China" policy.

Although officials gave no basis whatsoever for the connection, administration aides were informed that in London and other world capitals the two developments were mentioned in the same breath.

In accordance with the plan to increase the Navy to full treaty strength, the White House looked to the drafting of a $1,500,000,000 request to Congress, a "carry-all" appropriation, which informed quarters said would start construction within four months of 20 ships of war.

Other developments in the Far Eastern situation today were:

United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew conferred with Foreign Minister Hiroto in Tokio under instructions from Washington.

Indications in Geneva were that China may appeal to signatories of the nine-power treaty against Japan's Asiatic policy.

In Nanking, authorities denied a report that China would negotiate a $100,000,000 loan with the United States.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, former Governor General of the Philippines, asserted there was danger to the islands' economic independence in Japan's policy. He said the United States has never realized the significance of Philippine independence.

through, but even that is a considerable improvement on going around the horn.

BY THE WAY, this trip reminds you of the fact that the United States built the Panama Canal, paid for it, and foolishly allows ships of other nations to use the canal on exactly the same terms as American shipping. Changing that arrangement might cause some of our foreign friends to contribute something on bad war debts that represent their welching. Why not let each foreign ship pay about half what it would cost to go around the horn for use of the Panama Canal? That would be a fair, "fifty-fifty" arrangement.

BRITAIN AND the United States, requesting from Japan some "clarification" of that "Japanese Monroe Doctrine for Asia, please keep out!" warning, get no clarification, but, instead, a typical Asiatic reply, "Our statement has been made. Let others read it as they will."

THE BIG TELEPHONE company announces a new wage code establishing a forty-hour week for the parent company, a forty-eight hour working week for the 6,000 so-called "independent companies." In cities above 2,500 population, pay will not be diminished with diminished hours, and the company says the new plan will "add thirty million dollars to its annual payroll, without increasing charges to the public."

It takes a big corporation, and one "doing pretty well," to add thirty million dollars a year to its payroll without increasing charges.

Alderman Freed In Racket Trial

CHICAGO, April 26.—(AP.)—Alderman Oscar Nelson, labor leader and announced candidate for mayor of Chicago in 1936, was freed by a directed verdict of not guilty today in the racketeering conspiracy trial of 19 defendants.

The decision came toward the close of the marathon trial which started last January 4. The defendants were charged with attempting to enforce a huge racketeering plot on four Chicago industries, including the cleaning and dyeing business, and thereby profit by hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Apollo Steel Strike Negotiations Fail

APOLLO, Pa., April 25.—Fifty-five employes of the Pittsburgh Steel Drum Company entered the second week of strike today after negotiations sponsored by the Apollo Luncheon Club had failed.

The company offered a 15 per cent pay raise, but refused union recognition. The United Steel Drum Workers Union is asking union recognition and a 40 per cent increase.

FLEET GUARDED AGAINST PLOT

COLON, C. Z., April 26.—(AP.)—As the United States Navy fleet of 111 vessels completed its 48-hour transit through the Panama Canal yesterday it was learned that warlike conditions obtaining during the movement were made necessary by fears that attempts might be made to interfere with the maneuver.

Authorities received information from the Army Intelligence Service several months ago that a conspiracy seemed in progress to thwart the swift passage of the flotilla through the locks.

Consequently heavy guards of soldiers patrolled the locks during the transit and a smaller force will remain indefinitely, it was said, to supplant guards stationed at the vital parts of the canal late in March.

In view of the reported plot naval officers withheld their announcement of plans to send the ships through in a hurry until the last moment. Censorship was invoked as an extra precautionary measure.

MACHADO FLEES U. S. ARREST

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP.)—Gerardo Machado, deposed president of Cuba, who fled from the death threats of his countrymen last August, was a hunted man again today—hunted by American authorities on Cuba's request for his extradition on murder charges.

A general police alarm was sent out after United States marshals failed to find Machado at his New York apartment. They were told by his secretary, Julio Fernandez, that the former Cuban president had left Sunday without saying where he was going.

Federal port authorities and border officials were asked to watch for Machado.

Long Foe Upheld By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, April 26—(INS.)—Senator Huey Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, received a severe setback today when the Senate Finance Committee again voted to recommend Senate confirmation of the appointment of Daniel D. Moore ac collector of internal revenue for the Louisiana district.

Charging that Moore was backed by New Orleans "political racketees and gangsters," Long made a strenuous fight against confirmation.

Auto Striker Dies Of Knife Wound

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—(AP.)—Leo Stanford, a striker at the Chevrolet Motor Company died early today of a knife wound in the left breast. Three hours later, Thomas Ottinger, a working employe, surrendered to police and was quoted as admitting he stabbed Stanford in a fight Monday.

BRIDGE LOOTING JAILS 5 BOYS

Five McKees Rocks youths under 16 years and one man, a junk dealer, were taken into custody by County Patrolman Martin J. Tanner, in connection with the smashing of aluminum doors and other fixtures on pylons of the McKees Rocks Bridge, Tanner said today.

The County Commissioners recently offered $1,000 reward for the capture and conviction of the perpetrators, after being informed that more than $300 damage had been done.

Peter Blumin, of Linden street, McKees Rocks, is in the County Jail awaiting a hearing on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Two of the boys declared, Tanner said, that in exchange for the metal they got 18 cents each, and four said they got 29 cents each.

The boys were taken to Juvenile Court. On since escaped, and is being sought, Tanner said.

STATE SCANS WAGE SCALES

A study of existing wage scales for Relief Works Division workers in the Pittsburgh district today was being made by two investigators from the Pennsylvania Relief Works Division in Harrisburg. The probe is an aftermath of a mandatory order issued this week in which union wages were specified exclusively for all skilled labor.

County Administrator James L. Stuart previously told officials that if the union scale were applied in this district it would be necessary, with the shortage of funds, to lay off about 5,000 men. There will be no replacement of the 100 workers in the offices of the RWA in the Oliver Building, Stuart said. The cut was made on orders from Harrisburg.

STEEL WAGES UP FOR ACTION

Recommendations that steel and tin workers demand wage increases of 15 to 40 per cent were scheduled to come up for action today at a convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

Meeting in Elks' auditorium, the convention yesterday went on record in favor of a wage increase of about 15 per cent for iron workers.

Six Ask Divorce; Two Get Decrees

Two divorce decrees have been granted and six new suits were on file today in Common Pleas Court. The suits were filed by Ruth M. Dix against Lynn P. Dix, Ellen M. Truemper against Henry C. The decrees were granted to Helen Fintor from Stephen Fintor and to Louise P. Bailey from John F. Bailey.

SNELL ATTACKS 'NEW DEAL' IN HOUSE DRIVE

G. O. P. to Fight State Socialism, He Says In Opening Campaign

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—Representative Snell, of New York, House Republican leader, last night charged that the Roosevelt administration was retarding private enterprise and said the "New Deal's" philosophy and policies were "dangerous."

Sounding the keynote for the congressional election campaign in a radio speech, the New Yorker said the Republicans "stand steadfast against any attempt to make the various emergency measures and setups" of the administration permanent. He also denounced any move toward a socialistic state. He said:

"The Republican Party is not willing to assist in wrecking the economic system upon which our country is erected, by reason of which we have developed as a nation and prospered as a people to a degree not equaled by any other people of any other time or place. We do not admit that a federal bureaucracy can excell the people in the wise direction of their own affairs."

"Dangerous as is the threat of the 'New Deal's' philosophy and policies to America's economic structure and the material welfare of our people, the threat it carries to America's political institutions and the liberties of our citizens is even more dangerous.

"For the first time in our history, an administration in power at Washington has challenged our form of government and those occupying high official and advisory positions in this administration are making a concerted and persistent attack upon American ideals and institutions."

J. C. Wedgwood, a member of the House, took occasion TO DEPLORE the fact that the instalment on the British debt due the United States on June 15th and amounting to $85,000,000—was NOT SO MUCH AS MENTIONED in the budget.

It was not reckoned at all in the calculation of the surplus which had been so exultingly acclaimed.

It was to be added apparently to other defaults of like amount in the past—AND IGNORED.

AN EASY way, indeed, for a debtor to strike a favorable balance!

"After all, it is NOT the case," said Col. Wedgwood, "THAT WE CANNOT PAY.

"We CAN pay, but we DON'T WANT TO.

"I hope the Chancellor of the Exchequer will assure the House tonight there is some prospect of OUR HONORING our debt and PAYING BACK WHAT WE OWE to a people who lent us the money when WE WERE IN SO DIFFICULT A POSITION."

It is said that this blunt and evidently honest man spoke "with biting sarcasm."

AND WHY NOT?

There must be many in England who wince at finding the government's attitude toward the most important debt on her books that of a WELSHER and REPUDIATOR!

And yet the world is told that this is true by responsible ministers, such as Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, and Neville Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

IT CANNOT, however, long continue to be true!

Gains got by cheating—success that rests upon fraud—credit built upon repudiation — are not things which even the momentary beneficiaries of the cheat, the fraud and the repudiation like to contemplate.

"I would sooner lose sixpence on the pound," said Col. Wedgwood, "and be able to look America in the face."

"The Chancellor has realized a surplus of 39,000,000 pounds," he continued, "and it would have been a great thing, THOUGH NO DOUBT UNPOPULAR, if he had paid the money over to the people to whom it rightly belongs."

UNPOPULAR—unpopular with the present generation of Englishmen — THE POLICY OF PAYING HONEST DEBTS?

THEN ENGLAND IS INDEED FALLEN! FALLEN AND DISGRACED!

Roving Envoy Talks On Arms With Hull

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—Norman H. Davis, ambassador-at-large and American delegate to the disarmament conference who returned last week from Europe, discussed the European disarmament situation today with Secretary Hull and Undersecretary Phillips.

Davis said he would remain in Washington for several days conferring with officials about proposed plans for arms reduction.

Celebrate Bonus; Two Men Killed

MONONGAHELA, Pa., April 26.—(AP.)—Two men, who police said had been celebrating with proceeds of a state soldier bonus check, were burned to death last night in a fire that destroyed their small hut in Nelson's Hollow. They are Jacob Ketzer, 61, and Aaron Conley, 42, who was reported to have cashed his bonus check yesterday. Firemen found the bodies huddled beside a stove.

WIRT WRONG, INQUIRY FINDS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—The Bulwinkle Committee today adopted a report to the House holding unfounded the claims of Dr. William A. Wirt that administration "brain trusters" were working for a "revolution."

The vote was 3 to 2, the majority of Democrats agreeing to the conclusion that Wirt, a Gary, Ind., teacher, had not proved his contentions.

The two Republican committee members, Representative McGugin of Kansas, and Lehlbach of New Jersey, reserved the right to file a minority report contending the committee had not made a thorough investigation of Dr. Wirt's allegations.

SENATE PASSES HOME LOAN BILL

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP.)—Congress sent the bill guaranteeing home loan bonds to the White House yesterday without the amendment which President Roosevelt had indorsed to outlaw politics in selecting Home Owners Loan Corporation employes.

An effort by Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, to save the amendment lost by a vote of 40 to 30. All Republicans voted with him, but the Democrats, with five exceptions, solidly opposed him despite his warning that their action "comes mighty near condemning Roosevelt."

SENATE FIGHT ON AIR MAIL BILL NEAR

M'Carran to Launch Drive for Ban On Politics

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A final drive for Senate passage of the McCarran bill to take airmail out of politics and place it under immediate control of an independent federal commission was expected to break in the Senate today.

Senator McCarran (Dem.), of Nevada, a member of the airmail investigating committee, planned to take the floor at the first opportunity to lead the drive.

McCarran is openly supported by Senator King, of Utah, another Democratic member of the investigating committee. Others also may speak for the McCarran bill.

McCarran expressed confidence his bill would replace the McKellar-Black bill, which provides for one-year contracts, with a temporary research commission to report on permanent legislation later.

McCarran's bill makes no discrimination against the former contract holders, nor does it grant them any favors. It provides a permanent federal airmail commission, named by the President, to take over aviation and regulate it at once.

New Air Mail Network To Add Mileage

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP.)—Postal officials planned today the creation of an air mail network larger than that which spread-eagled the nation prior to the cancellation of previous contracts—but at about half the authorized cost.

Bids for 21 routes now are under consideration and proposals for four additional runs are to be received today. Specifications for seven or eight more will be published within 10 days.

Official figures disclosed the total route mileage for this service will be 26,429. This would compare with the 25,248-mile web that disintegrated with Postmaster General Farley's annulment of contracts. The Army, since its resumption of service March 19, has flown a 7,457 mileage route.

Postmaster General Farley indicated that should the low bidder in any instance be found irresponsible there would be a resolicitation of proposals in order to forestall any charge of favoritism.

CANNON TO HEAR FATE SOON

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—A Criminal Court jury—a woman and 11 men—prepared today to pass upon the guilt or innocence of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and Ada L. Burroughs.

A bit more argument and the judge's instructions were ahead of the jury deliberations on whether the 69-year-old church leader and his feminine prohibition aide conspired to conceal money donated to defeat Al Smith for president.

Making the final defense argument, Robert H. McNeill today told the jury,

"I am talking not only for a verdict, I am talking to preserve a name that has been a ousehold word for 40 years."

Recalling the presumption of innocence under the law, McNeill said that when Cannon "came to meet the hatred of his enemies he came in here innocent." He added:

"Miss Burroughs was not only innocent but she was the victim of the hatred of the enemies of a friend."

Going to Cleveland? Carry Gas Aplenty

Take enough gas to carry you both in and out of Cleveland if you're driving there in the next few days, the Pittsburgh Motor Club warned today. A strike of gasoline station workers has tied up most of the pumps in Cleveland, the club is advised.

Divorces Club Woman Blaming Roomer in Suit

Wife Went to Movies With Other Man, Mate Charges

Fifteen years of happy married life ended when his wife took in a roomer, John M. Labberton, an electrical engineer for Westinghouse Electric Company, testified in winning a divorce today from Mrs. Mary Holton Labberton, a clubwoman.

The engineer told how he was moved into the attic when his wife took in the roomer two years ago. He said:

"She not only moved me into the attic and gave the roomer my bedroom, but she sewed on his buttons, went to the movies with him and put him to bed when he came home drunk."

Labberton described a Southern Club dance at the Schenley Hotel which all three attended, but his wife danced only with the roomer, the husband said.

MRS. JOHN M. LABBERTON

After considering Labberton's sorrowful story, Judge Frank P. Patterson signed the decree.

The Labbertons, who live on Bayard street, have a daughter, 12.

MISS JEAN BAUR, 21

Policeman's Bullet Blasts Romance in East Liberty

The role of an ardent wooer led to the shooting of William Briston, 28, of 7041 Frankstown avenue, early today.

Briston was shot in the forearm by Patrolman Charles Cribbs, who, while patroling his beat, heard a girl screaming at Larimer avenue and Winslow street.

The patrolman saw Briston running away, ordered him to halt, and, when he refused, fired one shot which struck Briston in the arm and brought him to a stop.

Before Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Morals Court today the girl, Jean Baur, 21, of 525 Larimer avenue, testified that she had had a date with Briston, and while he was taking her home early today his attentions became too ardent and she screamed.

Briston, married, said he had been drinking. He was fined $2 on a disorderly conduct charge.

DAVIS BOY CALM AS JURY HEARS ALLEGED CONFESSION

'FATAL NIGHT' DETAILED BY WITNESS

Mothers of Defendant And Victim Among Spectators

The confession to the murder of State Highway Patrolman Herbert Brantlinger attributed to young Tom Davis, the high school boy, was recited from the stand in Criminal Court today to a jury of 10 men and two women and an audience that included the mothers of both victim and defendant.

The 19-year-old boy sat expressionless as Lieut. Charles C. Keller, of the state police, told of obtaining the confession, after a three-hour examination, in the Clinton County Jail, Carlyle, Ill.

Keller told of taking Davis, with three other officers, to a clubhouse eight miles out of Carlyle, where Davis agreed to sign a statement.

COULDN'T PROMISE

Keller testified:

"He said he was ready to talk. I told him what the verdict might be, life or death. He sat for 15 minutes in thought. Then he asked me if I could promise he would not be electrocuted in Pennsylvania. I told him I couldn't promise that."

The pale-faced schoolboy then told of his movements on that September night when Brantlinger was murdered at the Melrose filling station near Bridgeville, Keller said.

DENIES "TORTURE"

He was quoted as admitting that he had just stolen gasoline and oil for his car when the motorcycle bearing the highway patrolman approached:

"I was on the right running board as the motorcycle came into the drive and grabbed the rifle out of the car. I was blinded by the headlight and fired blindly at the front wheel. Then I drove away."

Cross-examining Keller, Attorney Robert Ivory, Sr., was met with denial of his accusation that young Davis' arms had been held over a hot stove until they were burned—to obtain the confession.

WESTERN TRIP BARED

Keller testified that Davis at first denied the killing and insisted that he had spent the entire day of the killing putting down a concrete floor for a neighbor in Banksville road.

And when he made his wild trip through the west, a fugitive, he drove a stolen car and took along a Boy Scout book, Keller added. A friend had stolen the car, Keller quoted the defendant.

NIGHT SESSIONS LOOM

Presentation of the state's testimony will continue through today, possibly winding up tomorrow, Prosecutor Roy T. Clunk said.

Tracing by the prosecution of the 19-year-old defendant's "career of crime" progressed at a fast pace in yesterday's testimony through two gun-battles and the "kidnaping" of W. S. Reynolds, of East Peoria, Ill.

Going on the stand late yesterday, Reynolds told of being forced by Davis, at the point of the gun, to drive 50 miles following a gun-battle at a filling station between Pekin and Peoria, Ill.

Six Attorneys Help In Eviction Fights

State Representative Max G. Spann announced that six members of the Allegheny County bar have volunteered their services to conduct litigation in behalf of the 50 families on relief seeking to avoid being evicted from their homes May 1. Their names are withheld for the present, Spann said. The Allegheny County Relief Board announced that it was conducting an investigation of families to determine the most "meritorious cases." The board lacks sufficient funds to stay the evictions.

Nell and Her Piano Player's Wife

MRS. LEO MURSCH NELL CALLAHAN

Generous Nell and her piano player's wife—after they had patched things up today by agreeing that hereafter Nell will pay her piano player's salary not to her piano player, but to her piano player's wife. Thus came to a close action against Nell through Alderman Thomas M. Geary. The next act: A beer party to celebrate. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Confession Laid to Davis In Death Trial Bared

'Fired Blindly, Drove Away,' Document Declares

Here is the confession which State Police today testified young Tom Davis, charged with murdering State Highway Patrolman Herbert Brantlinger, signed:

"I, Thomas A. Davis, Jr., do hereby make the following confession of my own free will, without any force, fear, threats or promises of reward, and in so doing realize that this confession may be used against me.

"On September 3, 1933, Sunday before Labor Day, I finished supper about 7 p. m. and then I got washed and dressed and left the house about 9:30 or 10 p. m. and went to my garage on Broadway avenue, under the Crestmont apartments in Dormont. There I took my car and went out West Liberty avenue and then turned right at the blinker and on Bower Hill road I turned right at stop light and took road from Eddie Ray's Fern Garden to Bridgeville. Went through Bridgeville and turned left at forks of road and continued on to gasoline station opposite cemetery.

"I seen the station was darkened and circled in next to building and stopped car. I entered and turned on the pump switches and then went out and drew gas to fill gas tank from front pump and filled three five-gallon cans in rumble seat, from pump in rear of car.

"Then I went in and shut off the switches and found four quarts of oil in glass jars with filler spouts and put them in rumble seat. Then I broke lock on battery shed and went in and looked around, didn't find anything, came out and started for car as a motorcycle pulled in the driveway to the rear of my car. I was on right running board as the motorcycle came into the drive and grabbed the rifle out of car

"I was blinded by the headlight and fired blindly at front wheel. Then I jumped behind the steering wheel of my car and drove away. After traveling a short distance I heard a shot fired and sped car on faster. Turned left at the "Y" and drove past the race tracks and then turned right on the Presto road. I followed the Presto road onto the Carnegie and Bridgeville road. Turned right at county home, across the bridge and stopped on other side of bridge. Filled crankcase with oil from the jars and poured rest of oil in can, then threw jars in the creek, and continued to my garage in Dormont. Locked garage and then went home, arriving home about midnight. The Kraig rifle that I had in the car was left there from previous use in target practice. This rifle was left behind by me in Peoria, Ill.

Trotzky in Hiding, Seeking Sanctuary

BARBIZON, France, April 26.—(AP.)—Leon Trotzky has been spirited away from his forest villa near here. He is in hiding pending word from some other country willing to accept him.

The Russian exile's secretary revealed that both Trotzky and his wife had fled, but declined to say where they went or when.

Township Firemen Hear Candidates

Members of the Ross Township Volunteer Firemen's Association last night heard candidates for state legislative and senatorial offices present their platform in the Fairview fire house. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern was guest speaker.

NOW NELL PAYS PIANIST'S WIFE

Our Nell did right by her piano player's wife today.

Generous Nell Callahan, with a heart as wide as Plush way, promised to pay her piano player's salary—not to the piano player, but to the piano player's wife.

And that squared the rap.

It seems that Leo Mursch's wife went to the District Attorney's office and complained about Leo's salary being absent. So before Alderman Thomas M. Geary, Nell was charged with something or other.

But it all was straightened out today and Nell and Leo's wife made up. Nell paid $24.80 costs.

BULLET LINKED WITH MILLENS

International News Service.

DEDHAM, Mass., April 26.—A machine gun bullet, extracted from the body of Patrolman Forbes McLeod, spoke accusingly at the murder trial of Murton and Irving Millen and Abe Faber.

In his effort to link the killing of McLeod and Patrolman Fran Haddock to the youthful defendants during the holdup of the Needham Trust Company on February 2, District Attorney Edmund Dewing began parading ballistic and medical experts to the witness stand.

Dr. Frederick A. Stanwood, of Wellesley, associate medical examiner, who performed the autopsy on Patrolman McLeod, identified a bullet as having been in a vital organ of the policeman.

Murton Millen has been identified as the man who swung the machine gun during the bank raid.

DOLLAR-A-YEAR SALARY DRAWN BY ORTALE

Bank Head Accused In $106,700 Theft Waived Pay

W. P. Ortale, the accused president of the Bank of America Trust Company, was a dollar-a-year man!

Ortale, now under arrest on embezzlement charges, two years ago offered to continue serving as the bank's head for a dollar a year because the bank wasn't making much money, a director, R. D. Thomas, said today. The directors accepted the offer.

Last month Ortale told the board his income was all but exhausted and he needed a salary. So the directors told him to name his own figure, and he named $200 a month, Thomas said.

All of which is little comfort to him today. He is charged with embezzling $106,700 from the bank; he is ill, and the bank is operating under a restricted basis.

Thomas said the directors would hold a bank reorganization meeting tomorrow or Saturday. He added:

"We are almost certain we can reorganize the bank and will do everything in our power to do so. Our depositors are not the least bit panic-stricken."

VINCE BARNETT AIDS MORAN

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—(AP.)—Vince Barnett, Pittsburgh film comedian, has testified that George Moran, member of the once famous theatrical team of the "Two Black Crows," has been "a grouch" since he was injured in the automobile accident which took the life of Charles Mack, his stage partner. Barnett said:

"I worked with Moran on the stage for eight years and all that time he was a human library of gags and lines but after the accident he couldn't memorize well and became grouchy and morose."

Barnett testified yesterday as a witness for Moran, who is suing Mack's widow, Mrs. Myrtle Mack, for $34,500 damages. Mrs. Mack was driving the automobile which overturned, killing Mack and injuring Moran.

Attorneys for Mrs. Mack previously cross-examined Moran on his "private life," endeavoring to establish whether or not he was a heavy user of liquor. Moran said he "had not been drunk for years."

Denied Divorce Here, He Files Nevada Suit

Walter G. Swaney, of Pittsburgh, has filed a suit at Las Vegas, Nev., asking a divorce from Flora S. Swaney on a charge of desertion.

Mr. and Mrs. Swaney were refused divorces by Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court here February 14, 1933. Both had charged cruelty.

It's astounding how little some people think of $2,000 in cash.

There's B. E. Livingston, of Greensburg, who 13 years ago posted $2,000 as cash bail for an employe involved in a liquor case. He forgot all about it until checking over his records a few days ago he found the $2,000 still unaccounted for.

So, Mr. Livingston got busy, and yesterday, by order of Judge Harry H. Rowand, he received a check from Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, along with $330.95 as compensation for his faulty memory.

BEAUTY'S LEGS FIGURE IN SUIT

PAWHUSKA, Okla., April 26.—(AP.)—Thomas Gilcrease, wealthy oil man, testified yesterday that the twinkling legs of his wife in an impromptu dance before one of his prospective customers was a contributing cause for his seeking a divorce from pretty Norma Smallwood Gilcrease, 1926 Atlantic City beauty contest queen.

The customer, Gilcrease said, was Bardero Muller, French oil man. The husband, a half-blood Osage Indian, testified:

"After this exhibition, in which Norma raised her skirts and whirled about the room, Mr. Muller left the house and I never heard from him again."

Gilcrease also told of his breaking into a locked room in their Tulsa home when his wife had refused him admittance, and said she pointed a pistol at him.

He told of a succession of minor incidents here and abroad which irked. Her close friendship for Charlton Genet, Tulsa young man, was the cause of several unpleasant discussions, Gilcrease testified.

Several witnesses, most of them relatives of Gilcrease, have linked Genet and Mrs. Gilcrease.

In talking of divorce, the oil man said his wife remarked that after the separation "there's no reason why we could not be wonderful sweethearts." Gilcrease declared:

"I told her that was absurd."

Mrs. Beery Dying Of Heart Ailment

HOLLYWOOD, April 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Rita Beery, wife of Wallace Beery, motion picture star, was near death today at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where she has been confined the last two months with heart disease.

Beery was at his wife's bedside constantly.

Poundman's Loan, Boys Dollar, Restore Pup

DENVER, Col., April 26.—(AP.)—Everett Hawkins, 13, and "Carlo," his terrier pal, have been reunited, but it took all of Everett's business ingenuity, $1 (all he had) and about a 10-mile walk to accomplish it.

Because "Carlo" had no license, a dog-catcher took the animal to the city pound. Everett heard about it. After school he walked to the pound five miles from his home—and began negotiations.

He had $1 and the license "Carlo" needed cost $2 and there was a 50-cent pound fee, besides.

Henry G. Luhrs, city poundmaster, agreed to let Everett pay $1 down and the remaining $1.50 in two weeks, after he listened to the boy's plea to release his dog.

BROWNSVILLE PUPILS STRIKE

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 26.—One hundred students were on strike from South Brownsville High School today because the school board had failed to rehire John Sepsi, a teacher and assistant athletic coach.

Some 40 of the students walked out late yesterday and today their numbers were swelled to 100, who were parading the streets and shouting their demands.

Sepsi is a graduate of Duquesne University.

'DEAD' DOG EATS MEAT, BARKS FEEBLY

Revived Animal's Gain 'Startling,' Says Experimenter

International News Service.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 26.—"Thirteen," the small fox terrier asphyxiated with poison gas Friday, April 13, and brought back to life several minutes later by Dr. Robert E. Cornish, University of California research biologist, in a bizarre experiment, continued to gain strength today.

The animal displayed its first signs of consciousness yesterday and ate a half-pound of liver.

Dr. Cornish reported the dog licked the hands of an assistant feeding it, barked feebly and growled a bit. The doctor said:

"The dog shows starting improvement. He tried to climb into the lap of my assistant, Roderick Krider, but couldn't make it, because his hind legs are still useless. We believe he may recover completely, but it will be a slow process."

The animal was resurrected from death by means of adrenalin and heparin injections.

At one time during the feeding operations today the dog attempted to jump out of its "crib." It rose on its front paws and then lapsed back, almost exhausted, at the exercise. Dr. Cornish commented:

"The dog's right front leg, stiff until now, apparently because of paralysis brought on by brain injury, has limbered up."

The young research biologist, who has devoted his life to experiments designed to resurrect the dead, believes the dog eventually will gain enough strength to walk about the laboratory room.

He was unable to predict whether the nerve centers of the animal's brain ever would be fully restored to normalcy.

FAZIO'S HEARING IN BOMBING SET

Held as suspects in the bombing of the home of Dr. George C. Seitz in Swissvale, Philip Fazio, reputed racketeer, and Nick Consolo, 23, of Wilkinsburg, will be given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace S. H. Wilson in Swissvale.

The doctor's home was bombed late Tuesday night after he had received three threatening letters, warning him to cease interference in racketeering activities in Swissvale. He is a member of the Swissvale council.

The bomb exploded while Dr. Seitz was away on a hospital call. No one was injured.

Fazio, who was acquitted four years ago in the William J. Gregory "barrel murder," and young Consolo were seized as suspects by county detectives.

Former Film Queen, Uncle Settle Suit

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., April 26.—(INS.)—Attorneys for Clara Kimball Young, queen of silent picture actresses in the days before the World War, today announced she had agreed to settle a $6,500 suit against her uncle, Arthur J. Aylesworth, of Lakeside, Mich., for $4,200.

Miss Young, now the wife of a Los Angeles physician, sued Aylesworth last November, claiming she had lent him the money and was holding his note as security.

TRUCK CRASH KILLS AUTOIST

One man was dead today and three others were recovering from injuries suffered last night when an automobile and a truck collided in the McMurray road, near Colonial, Bethel Township.

Monty B. Murray, of Kansas City, Mo., driver of the automobile, was dead when the truck crew pried open the doors of the overturned machine. Murray and his three passengers were en route to Pittsburgh to attend the convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

The injured, all taken to the General Hospital, Canonsburg, were Charles Davis, 35, of Houston; George J. Williams, of Canonsburg, and Carl Heaton, of Granite City, Mo.

Neither the driver of the truck, August Gatto, of 1024 Spring Garden avenue, nor his helper, Herbert Dalton, of 1100 Spring Garden avenue, was injured.

Mrs. C. V. Berner, 41, of 105 Carrick avenue, was injured yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding, driven by Mrs. Theresa Fischer, 36, of the same address, collided with another machine driven by T. R. Gracie, 56, of Churchview avenue. The crash occurred in Brownsville road, near Carrick avenue.

MEASLES CASES 40 PER DAY

Measles cases within the city continue to be reported at the rate of from 40 to 50 a day, according to Dr. H. J. Benz, Superintendent of the Bureau of Child Welfare.

The epidemic is expected to wane with the arrival of warmer weather, Dr. Benz stated.

He warned that the most serious danger from the disease is the complications which may follow, such as pneumonia or mastoid infection.

The measles outbreak in Pittsburgh is part of a general epidemic which is sweeping the country, he said.

Man Accusing Son Accused as Drunk

Found at Forty-seventh and Harrison streets, bleeding from lacerations to his head, William J. Lennox, 57, of 4212 Post street, was taken to West Penn Hospital. Police said they disproved his story that he had been beaten by his son. They lodged a charge of drunkenness against him.

Kentucky Avenue Man Hurt in Crash

James W. McFarland, 36, of 5434 Kentucky avenue, driving in Saw Mill Run boulevard early today, struck a pole and upset. He was taken to South Side Hospital suffering bruises and lacerations.

Wife Brings Arrest Of Man, Woman

Facing moral charges, Nell Callahan, 39, of 218 Sandusky street, North Side night life queen, and Leo Mursch, 31, 513 Union avenue, were at liberty under $1,000 bond each today awaiting a hearing tomorrow before Alderman Thomas M. Geary.

The two were arrested yesterday by County Detective Walter Monahan on warrants sworn to by Mrs. Matilda Mursch, 28, wife of Leo.

Wilkinsburg Board Chooses Officers

'SILVER SHIRTS' BANNED IN PA.

HARRISBURG, April 26.—The Silver Shirts Legion of America, Inc., will not be registered to do business in Pennsylvania, Secretary of the Commonwealth R. J. Beamish indicated this at a hearing.

Several days ago Beamish received a telegram from counsel for the Silver Shirts asking to withdraw the application.

Protests had been received from the American Legion, State Federation of Labor and numerous Jewish groups. These organizations appeared before Beamish yesterday to present their protests. They signed a perpetual memorial to state authorities against the registration of any organization designed to promote "intolerance and bigotry."

HUSBAND FAILS TO GET DIVORCE

Denied a divorce because he tried to force his wife to confess indiscretions, if any, with other men, Wilbert H. Pfeifer, of Peralto street, had an appeal on file in Superior Court today.

Mrs. Gladys Pfeifer, the wife, contested the suit, charging that Pfeifer had wanted her to go before a notary public and sign a statement containing the names of other men.

In denying the divorce in Common Pleas Court, Judge Thomas M. Marshall said:

"The conduct of the libellant, in our opinion, is anything but praiseworthy and the trial judge, with considerable pleasure, refuses to sign a decree."

Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat
WHEREVER the finest tobaccos grow—in our own Southland, in Turkey, in Greece—all over the world, we gather the very Cream of the tobacco Crops for Lucky Strike. And that means only the clean center leaves. The center leaves are the mildest leaves—they taste better and farmers are paid higher prices for them. These clean center leaves are the only ones used in making Luckies. Then "It's toasted"—for throat protection. And every Lucky is fully packed with these choice tobaccos—made round and firm, free from loose ends—that's why Luckies "keep in condition"—why you'll find that Luckies do not dry out—an important point to every smoker. Naturally, Luckies are always in all-ways kind to your throat.

VOTE OFFICERS TO ATTEND 'SCHOOL'

Elections Director John M. Henry will conduct a school for election officers in the county's 954 districts.

Henry suggested scheduling classes Monday for election officers of boroughs; Tuesday for first class townships; Wednesday for second class townships; May 3 for the first 16 wards of Pittsburgh, and May 4 for the rest of Pittsburgh and third class cities.

Sessions will be in the evenings in the assignment room of Criminal Court, with Henry and Election Buerau officials as instructors.

The move is an innovation in election preparation, officers previously having had to rely chiefly on their "Voters' Guides."

Thirty to 40 truck loads of ballots will be delivered to the Elections Bureau beginning May 9, Henry said. There will be 675,000 Republican and Democratic ballots printed, 32,000 for minor parties and as many sample ballots.

CALL HUNDREDS IN VOTE TRIALS

Summonses are being served today by deputy United States marshals on hundreds of persons wanted as government witnesses at the trials of 38 defendants in five election vote cases, scheduled for the May term of the Federal District Court, who are under indictments charging them with conspiring to violate the election law at the November, 1932, general election.

State Senator James J. Coyne and 11 co-defendants are to go on trial May 23 and State Legislator Dr. Joseph G. Steedle and 11 co-defendants are to go on trial May 14. The other 14 defendants are officials of election boards in the Third District, Third Ward, to go on trial May 7; Second District, Second Ward, May 3, and First District, Fourth Ward, May 21.

In this latter group is Thomas O'Malley, brother of Patrick J. O'Malley, Republican chairman of Second Ward. "Pat" O'Malley is a co-defendant with Senator Coyne and 10 others, including Alderman John J. Verona. Attorney B. Robert Averbach, counsel for the county Republican organization, is named in the same indictment as Dr. Steedle.

Duce's Arms Plan Held Only Solution

LONDON, April 26.—(AP.)—Fulvio Suvich, the mouthpiece of Premier Mussolini of Italy, ended his visit to London today convinced the only solution of the disarmament problem lies in the proposals of his chief.

These, embodied in what is known as the Italian plan, call for limiting armaments at present levels—rather than reduction—and granting Germany the right to rearm on a moderate scale.

Celebrating 20 Years of Progress with Pittsburgh

Throbbing City of Industry

Ammunition for Anthony Wayne! Ropes for Perry's ships! Way back in 1812 Pittsburgh began to take a leading part in the nation's industry. Since our founding 1914, we've watched her strengthen her position as the first city of the coal and iron industry . . . contribute a richly varied list of products, from the airplane propellor of Lindbergh's famous Spirit of St. Louis, to a stoker that automatically fills a furnace . . . aid in the emancipation of women from household drudgery by miraculous labor-saving devices; electric washers, refrigerators, ranges, irons . . . further aid women by a famous line of prepared foods, eliminating long hours over a hot stove.

We've watched this newly freed woman, tried to anticipate her next needs. To celebrate our twenty years of progress with her . . . help her make the best use of her time and money . . . we offer next month's great event . . . with savings even we could not duplicate during the rest of the year.

GEN. SHANNON, PINCHOT UNITE IN COUNTY

an announcement for Shannon. He said:

"Judge Patterson has decided to withdraw as a Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania. His friends in the central counties among the farmers and throughout the rest of the state will rally to the support of Gen. Shannon, who is the free choice of the people.

"Gen. Shannon will not be controlled by any reactionary or anti-social groups. This is what the people want and they are determined to have it.

"The Republican party can win the election in November with Shannon as its candidate. Otherwise defeat is invited."

The Allegheny County alliance will be made known through statements by County Controller Robert G. Woodside, Shannon leader, and Judge Ralph H. Smith, head of the Pinchot forces. Each will go all the way in his statement, establishing a firm principle of political reciprocity between the two factions.

Woodside is empowered to speak for County Treasurer Robert S. Cain, County Recorder Samuel D. Foster and the bulk of the Shannon group, while Smith will represent all of the Pinchoties except those who follow County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and Senator Frank J. Harris. McGovern already has declared for Shannon, independently of Smith, and Harris favors Attorney Charles J. Margiotti for Governor.

PINCHOT TO SPEAK HERE

Announcement of the pact will precede by only a few hours the appearance of Gov. Pinchot on the stage at North Side Carnegie Hall, where he will open his western campaign against Senator David A. Reed. As a part of the accord, reached in a conference yesterday afternoon, one of the recognized Shannon leaders is scheduled to make a speech for Mr. Pinchot.

The Governor himself will carefully shy away from any indorsements, it being expected he will seize the occasion to emphasize that he is not committed to the gubernatorial candidacy of any of the 15 aspirants still in the race. In many sections of the state some of the most active Pinchot leaders are backing Attorney General William A. Schnader for the governorship.

Announcement of the Allegheny County manager of the Sannon campaign also is expected tomorrow. It is certain that the choice will fall upon a man identified wit the Pinchot campaign, emphasizing the offensive alliance of the Shannon-Pinchot combination not only against Schnader, but Senator Reed.

Agreement on all of these points was reached yesterday at a meeting between Judge Smith, Woodside, Cain and Foster. No other county officers took part in the meeting, but overtures are being made to District Attorney Andrew T. Park and Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley. Coroner W. J. McGregor and Prothonotary John Vogt are understood to be for Shannon, but not for Pinchot, the position adopted by City Controller James P. Kerr.

County Commissioner William D. Mansfield also will be invited to join the coalition, it being reported that Mansfield feels that he has been slighted by Schnader. Mansfield had left the city for a few days before yesterday's conference concluded. The Commissioner is reported to be displeased that an opponent to Representative James H. McClure, being backed by Mansfield for the Senate in the Forty-fourth District, was placed on the Schnader committee, implying a reciprocal arrangement with the Schnader forces.

MARTIN 'ON FENCE'

Republican State Chairman Edward Martin, who is torn between his friendship for Shannon and his allegiance to the state organization which has indorsed Schnader, conferred with the Attorney General in Washington last night, where a meeting in Schnader's behalf was taged. Last Saturday Martin conferred here with the Lieutenant Governor.

In Pittsburgh yesterday Martin said he was observing the rules of conduct laid down for state chairmen, non-participation in primaries. If he adheres to the regulation it will be the first time he has observed it since assuming party leadership.

Benjamin G. Eynon, of Scranton, another candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday, and last night and today was busy trying to line up support. Eynon is counting heavily on backing from automobile groups on the basis of friendships formed when he was registrar of motor vehicles.

SCRAMBLE MARKS PACE

Former Senator Horace Schantz, of Lehigh County, a Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, spent yesterday in Pittsburgh seeking aid, it being recognized that the fight for second place on the ticket is even more of a scramble than the governorship.

Senator Harry B. Scott of Center County, running for lieutenant governor on the same ticket with Schnader, left Pittsburgh this morning for a tour of western counties after a busy time here. He was visited by many members of the old Republican organization. Friends of Scott predicted that within a week he and Schnader would be campaigning together, thus unmasking an alliance which up to now has not been put on view through a public fusion.

Headquarters here of David E Kaufman, Towanda, a third candidate for lieutenant governor, issued a statement by Clerk of Courts Topley, indorsing Kaufman. Topley was quoted as saying:

"His record for eight years as the U. S. Minister to Bolivia and Siam under three presidents was an outstanding one which led to commendation not only from our secretary of state, but also from every source in the foreign lands in which he represented our country. As an outstanding lawyer and also a man of great business experience and free from any political entanglements, he is an exceptionally well fitted candidate for the office of lieutenant governor."

TAYLOR ASSAILS PINCHOT RECORD

Attempting to throw a monkey-wrench into the friendly relations between forces of Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Lieut Gov Edward C. Shannon, Robert G Taylor, candidate for the United States Senate, issued this statement:

"In 1930 Gen. Shannon referred to Pinchot as a carpet-bagger, neither a true Pennsylvanian nor a true Republican."

Then Taylor had a word himself:

"Pinchot's platform reads like an alibi, an attempt to prove that the things which Pinchot might have done as Governor, had he used ordinary tact and intelligence, should be done by the federal government."

PARK AIDE JOINS BACKERS OF PINCHOT FOR SENATE

Although District Attorney Andrew T. Park has not committed himself to any political banner, evidence that he has freed his staff came today with the announcement of Assistant District Attorney James A. Geltz for Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Geltz was joined in his indorsement by Robert Waddell, insurance man and independent who ran for Council last fall. Waddell declared:

"Gov. Pinchot has for more than a quarter of a century been outstanding in his leadership for social legislation and for everything designed to protect the interests of the small business and the average man against the large corporations and utilities.

"He consistently fought for clean elections and has justly earned the hatred and contempt of political gangsters who have used public office for private gain. He has repeatedly demonstrated his fitness to represent the people."

Geltz said Senator David A. Reed's record proved that he was the trained mouthpiece of the great corporations and special interests.

Revealing a widely-distributed political following, the Governor's headquarters committee for his campaign for Republican nomination for the United States Senate has also been made public.

Attorney Edward O. Tabor, independent, who teamed with Waddell in the Council race, heads the list of vice chairmen.

Three men with affiliations with Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, gubernatorial candidate, were on the list—Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, war-time commander of the 80th Division; Maj. John H. Shenkel, national president, Society of the 28th Division, and Frank Gangwisch, county commander, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Attorney Joseph Reich, identified with State Senator Frank J. Harris, and Attorney Charles Prichard, who has been connected with the regular Republican organization, were named.

Horace Thomas, Jr., is chairman; Dr. William D. McClelland, boxing commissioner, secretary, and Henry J. Yute, post cammander of American Legion Post No. 31 and treasurer of Syria Temple, is treasurer.

Others on the Pinchot committee are William Connelly, past commander, KKnights of Columbus; J. Clifford Franz, past monarch, Islam Grotto; Attorney Leon Tolochko, district superintendent, Bnai Brith; Attorney Gregory Zatkovich, president, Central Council Allied Slavic League; Stewart Vockel, president, Waverly Oil Company; Attorney George Wasser, secretary, speakers' committee; Thomas M. Brown, vice president, Duncan Porter Company; Franklin Blackstone, president, Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution; Attorney W. Wendell Stanton, Negro, president of the Colored Lawyers' Association; Attorney M. Stancati, Attorney Joseph Rosenfarb, chairman, research committee; William A. Storer, field representative; David Roberts.

Mrs. Lois D. McBride, candidate last fall for judge of Juvenile Court, is chairman of the women's division. Mrs. Marion H. Coslowsky, past president, Congress of Clubs, is vice chairman. Others are Mrs. Harry Faust, Kathleen Wall, and Ruth Forest.

Ellenbogen Runs For Congress Again

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—Representative Ellenbogen (Dem.), of Pennsylvania, formally announced his candidacy for re-election today, stating his record in Congress would be the basis of his platform.

GUFFEY BACKER CLAIMS FARLEY

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—(AP.)—John B. Kelly, Philadelphia Democratic leader who is supporting the Guffey-Earle ticket in the primary election campaign, says Postmaster General James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, "is with us 100 per cent."

But to State Senator Henry L. Snyder, opposition candidate for Lieutenant Governor, efforts "to convince the Democrats of the state that President Roosevelt wishes the Guffey slate to succeed" are "amusing and desperate."

Joseph F. Guffey, Roosevelt leader in Pennsylvania, is seeking the nomination to the United States Senate, and George H. Earle, former minister to Austria, is out for the governorship.

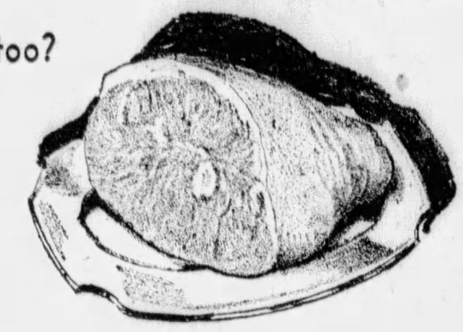
FRESH HAMS



"Why don't you advertise fresh hams?" asked Mrs. X. "Those small lean ones that taste like chicken," she elaborated and thereby hit the nail on the head. We have a reputation for selling the best of everything and "those small lean" fresh hams are not always available in large enough quantities for McCanns to feature. Yes, we could run in some big ones cut from grandfather pigs but McCanns don't do things that way. If you're hungry for a pork roast that will be deliciously tender, buy one of these little fresh hams while the opportunity is here.

DOCTOR OUSTED FOR AIDING DILLINGER

with the Mason City holdup which netted seven machine gun bandits $52,344 and resulted in the wounding of a bystander when the raiders sprayed the town's main street with bullets in their getaway.

SHOT IN SHOULDERS

It was learned today that Dillinger and Hamilton suffered shoulder wounds during the Mason City raid.

Dr. Mortensen told authorities that a day after the robbery early on March 15, three men came to his home. He said one carried a machine gun and told him they wanted him to dress wounds two of the men had suffered.

Dr. Mortensen said that Dillinger and Hamilton had been treated for shoulder wounds. He said he changed the bandages and told the visitors to meet him at his office the next day. They did not do so. Dr. Mortensen told authorities he had planned to notify them when the outlaws came to his office.

Thus Dillinger, the phantom outlaw whose latest escapade occurred Sunday night when a large force of federal agents trapped his gang in a Mercer (Wis.) summer resort, has been shot twice within six weeks. The desperadoes shot their way to freedom, killing two men and wounding four others.

SECOND WOUND

Dillinger's other wound was suffered March 31, when he and at least two associates blasted their way out of a police and federal trap in a St. Paul apartment. Dillinger was shot in the leg and later attended by Dr. Clayton E. May, Minneapolis physician. May and his nurse are now held on charges of harboring a criminal.

One of the Dillinger gang was believed wounded several hours after the Mercer escape, when three men in a car stolen at that time were fired on by three deputy sheriffs guarding the southern approach to St. Paul. One bullet ripped through the back of the speeding machine. The car was abandoned two hours later and bloodstains were found on the seat cushions.

LEGION LEADER

Dr. Mortensen, who is prominent in American Legion circles, and is president of the state board of health, was named city health officer about two months ago.

With establishment of Dillinger's connection with the Mason City robbery, authorities sought to link him with the raid on the Security National Bank raid in Sioux Falls, March 8, five days earlier. George (Baby Face) Nelson, named by federal men as the slayer of the federal agent in the Mercer gunfight, is sought by South Dakota authorities for the Sioux Falls holdups.

Demand Made for Troops To Go After Dillinger

By THOMAS F. CULLEN
International News Service.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 26.—While John Dillinger, the desperado extraordinary, continued today to evade the man-hunt waged by hundreds of federal, state and city police, a formal request was made of Gov. Floyd B. Olson to declare martial law and mobilize state troops.

State Senator Robert Marshall called on the Governor to declare a virtual state of martial law, order out the militia to block all highways and search all automobiles entering or leaving St. Paul and Minneapolis.

His request followed a growing wave of criticism of federal authorities who were charged with "stupidly bungling" the Dillinger hunt.

The gigantic manhunt still was being waged unabated in six states today, with Dillinger or his followers being reported sighted at widely separated points. Authorities were still convinced that one segment of the gang still lurked here.

All officers engaged in the search were kept busy running down one clue after another and covering hundreds of false reports as to Dillinger's whereabouts.

A daring raid by four heavily armed gunmen and two women on the farm home of August Oberg 37 miles north of St. Paul supported the theory that part of the gang was still in the St. Paul area. The crew sped away in a black sedan after ransacking the house and taking $13.

Five men riding in a green sedan near Freeport, Ill., waived a machine gun and sped away when a beer truck driver offered his assistance after their car nearly tipped over.

SHADED TRAIL PATTERN 552

Four Pattern Pieces Make Quilt

Shaded Trail, a quilt simple to cut, easy to make and effective when done, is unusual in the color arrangements that can be achieved. As a number of the pattern pieces are strip-like, cutting of the patches can be simplified by cutting the material into strips and then snipping off the patches to the size needed. This quilt is usually so arranged in color that the two materials that form the trail are two shades of one color and those that form the cross two distinctly different colors.

Pattern 552 comes to you with complete simple, instructions for cutting, sewing and finishng, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

PUBLIC DEBUT FOR NUDISTS

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25.—Invitations to attend a formal opening in June of a nudist colony at Rose Lawn, Ind., have been received by several state officials here, it was learned today.

At the same time it was learned a Porter County club incorporated here recently was in reality a nudist organization.

These developments marked a revival of the nudism movement in Indiana with the arrival of warm weather.

The nudist colony that showered statehouse officials with bids to come to its "coming out party" was believed to be the same one that battled with the law in Newton County last summer. The invitations, neatly typed, bore the signature of Alois Knapp, believed to be an attorney of Chicago.

Flower Tossing Banned for May Day

VIENNA, April 25.—(AP.)—Flowers must not be thrown from windows during Vienna's festival of rejoicing May 1, replacing the Socialist May Day, the Official Gazette warned today.

Apparently the government remembered that a bomb was effectively concealed in flowers in a recent attempt on the life of Vice Chancellor Emil Fey.

Fifty thousand school children will participate in the exercises celebrating a "New Austria."

Many members of Vienna's elected government, including Dr. Karl Switz, Socialist and deposed burgomaster, will be able to hear the band music from their cells in prison.

PINCHOT NAMES 'BROTHER DAY'

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, April 26.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today urged all Pennsylvanians to join in the celebration of Brotherhood Day next Sunday. He said:

"We need Brotherhood Day every day in the year, but Sunday, April 29, will be an occasion when throughout the nation—through united action—a strong blow can be dealt against bigotry and intolerance.

"There is no reason why differences of belief should blind us to the vast field of common ground upon which Jews, Catholics and Protestants can and should work together for a better America."

PARIS HOTELS ASK RELIEF

Universal Service.

PARIS, April 26.—Unless taxation is reduced, more than 30 Paris hotels which in the past have been favorite resorts of money-spending Americans are threatening to follow the example of the palatial Plaza Athenee, and close their doors.

Numerous visits of the hotel representatives to Minister of Finance Germain-Martin, requesting relief, have not yet produced results, and the problem has now been tossed in the lap of Premier Doumergue, it was stated reliably today.

It was pointed out that the hotels are being asked to cut their rates 40 per cent, in the hope of attracting Americans to Paris, but must pay a 17 per cent tax on receipts to the government.

AN ORDINANCE—Regulating and granting of permits to play golf and lawn tennis within the public parks of the City of Pittsburgh.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That on and after the passage of this ordinance, permits to play golf and lawn tennis on the golf courses and tennis courts within the public parks of the City of Pittsburgh shall be issued by the Director of the Department of Public Works, under the following regulations and requirements.

Permits for the use of golf courses may be issued, upon payment of the required fee or fees, only to residents of the City of Pittsburgh and whose identity and residence therein shall be evidenced, for the purpose of granting said permits, by showing a certificate of last registration by said residents from the Board of Registration of the City of Pittsburgh, or a tax receipt for the current year showing residence within the City of Pittsburgh. Children of such residents may obtain permits by the payment of the required fee or fees.

SECTION 2. The schedule of fees to play golf shall be as follows:

Season permit $5.00
Locker fee 5.00
Greens fee per day ..... .50

except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, when the fee shall be $1.00.

SECTION 3. Residents of the City of Pittsburgh and their children, and non-resident guests of residents shall have the right to play on the tennis courts within the public parks, upon obtaining a permit therefor from the Director of the Department of Public Works, for which permit the payment of a fee shall not be required.

SECTION 4. The Director of Department of Public Works shall have the right to make other regulations consistent with the provisions of this ordinance, and specific regulations as to the playing of golf and lawn tennis by children under the age of sixteen years, prohibiting them from playing except on certain days as may be specified in the particular regulation, the fees to be charged said children to be one-half of the regular fee as provided in Section 2 hereof.

SECTION 5. That any ordinance or part of ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE—Creating a Police Research Commission to study and investigate police affairs, activities and the personnel of the Bureau of Police, to determine facts with reference to police matters and to recommend to Council appropriate measures to correct the evils and the abuses for the improvement of the police service; providing for its appointment; conferring powers on said Commission, and imposing duties on officials and employes of the Bureau of Police.

WHEREAS, Great concern exists among the citizens of the city as to their safety and welfare due to a Bureau of Police that appears to be functioning unsatisfactory; and

WHEREAS, The great majority of the police personnel is known to be honest, capable and efficient and anxious to perform their duties in the public interest but are hampered by an inherited police system and by the acts of a minority who have brought the entire police system into disrepute; and

WHEREAS, A number of superior officers have attained their position solely through political influence while many patrolmen of greater merit and ability have remained in the ranks through the lack of an honest merit system; and

WHEREAS, It has been charged that certain officials have supressed lawful assemblages and interfered with the civil rights of the people; and

WHEREAS, It has been charged that some police have countenanced the operation of unlawful enterprises which could not exist except through collusion of police in unholy partnership with politicians; and

WHEREAS, An honest, capable and efficient police bureau, undominated and uncontrolled by politics, and functioning through a progressive merit system, is vitally imperative to the good government and safety of the people; Now, therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That there is hereby created a Police Research Commission, to be composed of five members, to consist of at least one educator, one social worker, one police officer who shall have had at least ten years police experience, and two other reputable citizens.

SECTION 2. The members of the Police Research Commission shall be selected by City Council and shall serve without compensation except for actual and necessary expenses incurred.

SECTION 3. The Police Research Commission is authorized and directed to study and investigate the activities, affairs and personnel of the Bureau of Police; to conduct examinations, hearings, investigations and studies of all matters relevant to the administration of the Bureau of Police; to study police systems and law enforcement problems of other cities and to have the power to do all things they may deem necessary to determine facts with reference to police matters and to recommend to Council appropriate action for the correction of evils and abuses and for the improvement of the police service.

SECTION 4. The Director of the Department of Public Safety, his subordinates and all other employes of the Bureau of Police are hereby directed to make available, furnish and supply the Police Research Commission with all records, books, reports, data, memoranda, and all other papers and information the Commission may require in the form and at such times as demanded by the Commission.

SECTION 5. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Cool Frocks Make a Cool Summer

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

There is no denying the fact that nice frocks go a long way towards making a nice summer. That is something to keep well in mind whether you are planning to be right here or go somewhere else. And there is another thing to remember—when the weather really gets warm, you will want to be wearing the frocks—not making them. Now look at the design we show today—if it isn't just the model you would like for that chic printed dimity you picked up for next to nothing yesterday, it is surely just the thing for the blue and white foulard you bought last week. The ruffling may be lace or fabric.

Pattern 1831 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 3¼ yards 39-inch fabric and ⅝ yard lice. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

FASCIST CHIEF WINS CONVERTS, KNICKERBOCKER REVEALS

CHEERS GREETING MOSLEY RECALL CAMPAIGNING DAYS OF HITLER

(Editor's Note: British audiences are taking Sir Oswald Mosley and his British Blackshirts seriously, H. R. Knickerbocker writes in the fourth article of his series on Fascism in England. Even audiences hostile at the start are responding to Mosley's speeches with enthusiasm ominously reminiscent of the German cheers that met Adolf Hitler in the early days of his campaigning, Knickerbocker states.)

International News Service.

BRISTOL, England, April 26.—British Blackshirts are still laughed at by many British intellectuals. But British audiences are taking them seriously.

Fascism is still declared an impossibility by British Liberals. But the British Parliament has taken the threat of Fascism seriously enough to propose police measures to suppress the movement.

Sir Oswald Mosley, head of the British Blackshirts, is still sniffed at by his former Tory and Labor party colleagues. But Mosley is speaking today in every part of Britain to audiences that have long outgrown the smaller halls, and that respond to him with an enthusiasm ominously reminiscent of the German cheers that met the ears of Adolf Hitler in his early days.

Few of Mosley's intellectual critics have heard Mosley speak. Few of those who take the menace of Blackshirt Fascism lightly in Britain have had a chance to compare the early days of the Mosley movement in this country with the early days of the Hitler movement in Germany.

MAKE RECRUITS OF HOSTILE

It is much too early to say whether Mosley will be the Hitler of Britain. It is not too early to say that under certain conditions he could be. These conditions do not now obtain. But already Mosley and his Blackshirt bodyguard are able to penetrate the very headquarters of their worst enemies, the Labor party, address hostile audiences and go away admitted victors with numerous recruits.

Bristol, the ancient port, a worker's town with its 400,000 inhabitants, most of whom are employed in the chocolate, tobacco and shipping industries, is a stronghold of left-wing Socialism. The Labor Party vrebrand, Sir Stafford Cripps, holds his seat in Parliament from this district.

The Bristol Socialists are the type of reds who take the place of Communists in the political philosophy of the Blackshirts. For Mosley to appear here was as though Hitler, in the infancy of his movement, should have come up from Munich and dared to try to hold a meeting in front of the Communist Karl Liebknecht house in the heart of one-time red Berlin.

Before the Colston hall, largest auditorium in the city, a crowd had gathered to wait the coming of Mosley. They waited to give him an unpleasant reception.

The crowd grew to several thousand. Police herded them patiently. Up and down marched two men bearing sandwich boards. The boards bore the slogans: "Flee from the wrath to come!" "No man can serve two masters!" "After death the judgment!" and "God says the wicked shall be turned into hell!"

THRONG PAYS TO HEAR

The sandwich-men were merely taking advantage of the crowd to make a little religious propaganda. Every now and then someone yelled:

"Down with the Fascists!"

Presently the lone yells grew to a roar. The Blackshirts marched up. Police cleared a way for them.

Behind them, into the hall poured the multitude. The advance guard climbed over seats. The hall holds 4,000. The cheapest seats cost 25 cents, but it was jammed full and police closed the doors long before time for the meeting to start.

Of the 4,000 persons present, certainly 3,000 or more came to jeer Mosley. Against the 3,000, mostly workmen eager for a row, Mosley had his Blackshirts, numbering not more than 300. They were ranged around the hall after the traditional fashion of Hitler's black-coated guard.

From a loud-speaker came the old familiar pot-pourri: Blue Danubbe, March from Carmen, ancient favorites. Girls in black blouses, gray skirts, moved through the audience selling Blackshirt literature. Around the walls hung posters: "Fascism is practical patriotism;" "Fascism stands for king and empire;" "Fascism demands justice for unemployed!" These thin slogans underline the attempt of the British Blackshirts to appear, above all, British and respectable.

MOSLEYS QUIETS HECKLERS

Every fourth Blackshirt had a Mosley mustache, grown or growing. A few Blackshirts wore war decorations. Most Blackshirts, however, were twenty to twenty-five years old, too young to have been in the war.

Besides the uniformed Mosleyites, only a few score people in the whole audience wore the party emblem. On the ground floor the more expensive seats were occupied by the middle-class folk who smiled in a superior manner as Mosley appeared and the galleries broke out in an avalance of jeers. The Blackshirts raised their stiff-arm salute. The galleries booed still louder.

For two minutes Mosley stood and let them yell. He was dressed as usual in the black jersey, black trousers, broad black leather belt of the movement. Like Hitler, he wore no insignia of rank. He stood, tall, robust, his shoulders back in military fashion, chest out, head up, hands on his hips and, tilting his head back, regarded the crowd through arrogantly lowered eyelids.

He began to speak. He spoke at first in a coldly menacing tone, as though he were speaking with gritted teeth. The menace had a curious effect. In two minutes he had reduced the tumult to scattered shouting. In ten minutes with the help of his Blackshirts who threatened individual hecklers, he had perfect quiet.

DEFENSE CORPS MEMBERS AT LONDON'S "BLACK HOUSE"

His voice had something of the penetrating quality of Trotzky, the greatest Russian orator. His opening style was reminiscent of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, the best Nazi speaker.

Toward the close, as he felt the audience growing less and less hostile, he worked himself into the fury of Adolf Hitler. He is definitely a better speaker than Hitler. He is at least as good as Goebbels. Britons who hate him admit he is the best platform speaker in these isles.

TELLS CORPORATE STATE PLAN

He developed his program for a "corporate state" to make Britain economically self-sufficient. He told them Britain still was dependent on foreign countries to take 30 per cent of her production. Foreign countries were ceasing to buy. They were putting up tariff walls to keep out British goods. Behind these walls they had already substituted their own factories for the British factories that had formerly supplied them.

He asked:

"Are we to believe that foreign countries will undo all that, that they will ruin themselves to save us? Do you think we can increase our export trade to give work to 2,300,000 men? No, our only salvation is to substitute the home market for the foreign market.

"To do that we must exclude all foreign goods that can possibly be produced in this country. No fooling with tariffs and quotas. We stand on the clear-cut platform of complete exclusion plus planning and regulation to prevent price rise and exploitation.

"But to consume these goods we must have increased purchasing power. That is impossible under the present system wherein if one individual raises wages and salaries another does not, but undercuts him. We must put up wages and salaries over the whole field of industry."

Here Mosley got his first ringing applause. He declared:

"We are convinced that the 200,000,000 pounds worth of foodstuffs we now import yearly from abroad can be produced in this country. To do this we must give the farmer a fair price, with a stable currency, and cut out the middlemen. So under Fascism you raise wages in town and give the farmers higher prices."

STRIKES AT JEWS

Applause grew. It swelled higher at Mosley's anti-Semetic references. He never referred to Jews by name, but used phrases such as a few British patriots from the Orient who are making enormous fortunes on the stock exchange," or "those patriots with foreign names in the city of London," or "those great interests in the city of London, largely in the hands of men without a drop of British blood in their veins."

A government of authority, he insisted, was necessary to carry out a program that would mean the loss of profits to the "powers" now controlling British politics. But, he protested:

"Our dictatorship will not mean government against the will of the people. We intend to get a Parliamentary majority. On that mandate we do mean to dictate."

Fist driving powerfully through the air, he wound up with a peroration:

"We are the greatest economic unit on earth. What we can't produce ourselves we can get from our empire. Within the borders of this great civilization we can establish a standard of living such as has never been experienced in history."

Applause swept the house. Yells from the galleries showed some were not convinced. Scuffles, the sound of a falling body, and a little knot of Blackshirts indicated the silencing of one heckler. A young man announced that contributions would be taken. Baskets passed through the audience.

ANSWERS QUESTIONERS

While coins clinked, Mosley did something Hitler never did. He asked for questions, first written, then oral. Slips of paper poured in. He took them all in a heap, and without looking at them in advance, read them out to the audience, and answered each. Sample answers:

"Fascism does not mean war. It means reduction of the struggle for markets, chief cause of war."

"We are for giving England an air force equal to the strongest on the continent."

"We are not anti-Semetic, but we will judge Jews on their merits as Britons."

"We would give Ireland a chance to stay in the empire, but if she wanted to leave we would exclude her goods from the empire."

"Every Blackshirt subscribes one shilling a month if employed or fourpence is unemployed."

"Jews are not admitted to our party because they have announced their hostility to us and a man would be a fool who would admit avowed enemies to his ranks."

His answers were not always satisfactory to a critical listener, but the audience cheered nearly every one. The oral questions and answers brought storms of handclapping. Two hours after the meeting opened Mosley said:

"And now we will sing the national anthem!"

Like a church congregation, the Bristol reds stood to a man, and sang. Mosley disappeared.

VARIETIES -:- Waring, Whiteman Railroad History -:- ON RADIO

Rudy Vallee, Iron Horse On Radio

Debonair young Roland Young of Hollywood, heads the list of guest performers on Rudy Vallee's Variety Program, heard over WCAE tonight at 8 o'clock.

The history of railroading, including the era when a flagman walked in front of the train to warn horses and buggies away, is dramatized in the second of the new KDKA series, "This Wonderful Age," at 10 o'clock this evening.

SHOW BOAT

Song hits from the new musical movie, "Melody in Spring," are featured in the Show Boat performance on WCAE at 9 o'clock.

An actual demonstration of New York's radio police patrol system, pretending that a crime has been committed in th radio studio and calling police to the scene, is heard during Fred Waring's broadcast over WJAS tonight at 9:30.

What lies ahead for war veterans is predicted in a talk by Joseph W. McQueen, National Commander of Disabled Veterans, over WCAE at 11:15 p. m.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Of course many of you are reading the love letters of Charles Dickens. This series in the paper has prompted Mrs. George Spielvogel to write of a set of Dickens' works in her possession. She has the complete works of Dickens, including his unfinished novel, bound in five volumes of very ancient vintage. Now she would like to know whether the set has any special collector's value.

I don't know much about old books. I did find out, though, that there are quite a few old Bibles around. I though I had something unusual when I announced a German Bible printed in the early years following the invention of the printing press, but after mentioning one or two I found almost every family had an old Bible.

Oh yes, I almost forgot to say that the jail needs several dictionaries. They have quite a lot of books, but not one word speller and definer. Will you dig up an old dictionary or two for me? I'll take them over to Librarian Goslin, who might be persuaded to write a personal "thank you" note.

Lieut. Guy Griffith said that he wouldn't dare come back to the radio until those questionnaire forms for veterans' dependants had been mailed out. They have been promised for some time now, but I gather that printing difficulties have held them up. They are on their way, and soon Lieut. Griffith will come over to explain how to fill them out.

It might interest you to know that all the veterans whose checks the postoffice couldn't deliver were located and the checks handed over, except one for John Rochiskie, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Thomas Tells World About Pittsburgh Industries

By AIRCASTER

Lowell Thomas, whose round-the-world broadcasts have done much to publicize Pittsburgh industries, goes on the air tonight at 6:45 from the United States Bureau of Mines on Forbes street.

He gives a graphic account of the Bureau's activities in the development of mine rescue apparatus and—what is little-known—the work of Pittsburgh scientists in deep sea diving experiments at the Bureau.

If any doubt lingers that comedians are going out of style, let us note:

1—Although he may not know it yet, Al Trahan has been dropped from WEAF's Saturday night auto show.

2—The Marx Brothers, Groucho and Chico, are not with us any more.

3—Ed Wynn and his patrons, so the stars read, call it a day after May 29.

4—Most of the comics now on the air are working out contracts signed before the new trend developed.

IMPERSONATORS

Many of the successes believed to be comics, like Amos 'n' Andy, the Goldbergs, and Gene and Glenn, are not comics at all, but character impersonators.

An excellent method of interpreting trends is to watch the search for talent by the originators of the magic carpet idea.

They glorified dance music when the time was ripe; they went for comedy when its star was rising; they went for commentators when they were popular, and now they are going to Vienna for musical dramas hitherto unheard here.

Musicians Ask $5,000 To Finance Concerts

The Pittsburgh Musical Society has asked City Council to appropriate $5,000 to pay for concerts in the city parks. Clair Meeder, president of the society, told Council yesterday that 80 per cent of the musicians of Pittsburgh are unemployed. Danny Nirella declared that the depression, sound motion pictures, radio and high school orchestras have hit the musicians hard.

REWARD THEIRS -IN 18 YEARS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Uncle Sam has instructed the police chief of Glassport, Pa., and two of his policemen that they'll have to wait a while for a reward he promised them—wait, to be exact, at least 18 years.

Chief D. J. George, Lieut. Pat McClafferty and Sergt. Jack Lees last September arrested Raymond Patrick and John Giles for the theft of postal funds from the Portvue postoffice.

But before they were tried in the Federal courts Patrick and Giles were convicted of robberies in the state courts. In Fayette County Patrick was sentenced to 18 years, in Allegheny Giles was penalized 20 years.

And the Postmaster General's office has advised the Glassport police that the reward, which ranges from $200 to $1,000, cannot be paid until the state sentences are served and the prisoners then tried in federal courts.

PWA AID HERE PETITIONED

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Representative Clyde Kelly, on behalf of Pennsylvania Senators and the Western Pennsylvania delegation in the House, yesterday presented a memorial to Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes urging favorable action on the application of the Allegheny County Authority for PWA funds to carry out $30,000,000 improvement projects. The petition states:

"The projects included in the application are constructive and wealth creating. No more worthy allotment of PWA funds can be made. We believe Western Pennsylvania is justly entitled to this consideration."

Signers to the petition are Senators David A. Reed and James J. Davis and Representatives Kelly, Matthew Dunn, M. J. Muldowney, Twing Brooks, T. C. Cochran and J. Banks Kurtz.

Rushmore Contest Help on Radio

Clarence Klein history instructor at Fifth Avenue High School, interviewed by the Mt. Rushmore Memorial Editor, discusses the great stone face project and gives contestants some helpful information over WCAE this afternoon at 5:45.

"Manhattan Merry - Go - Round" is a WCAE feature tonight at 7 o'clock.

The Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter's afternoon schedule is changed for today only, from 2:15 to 2:30 when he is heard over WCAE.

Choose a Laxative that Does Not Irritate!

NATURE'S WAY—a gentle flush
Pluto Water is a saline mineral water—not a medicine-laxative. It does not irritate the digestive tract, as do most medicine-laxatives. Instead, it promptly flushes both intestines gently and completely. That's why Pluto Water cannot give you the laxative habit.
The proper dilution—one-fifth glass in four-fifths glass hot water—is practically tasteless. The same dose—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. Two sizes: Splits (8 ounces), 25c . . Large bottles (3 times as much), 50c. At all druggists.

30 DEMOCRATS SIGN IN M'LEOD PAYOFF FIGHT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 26—More than 30 House Democrats today had signed the petition to bring the McLeod bank depositors pay-off bill to a vote despite administration opposiiton.

With the petition virtually half compleed in less than three full legislative days, sponsors of the measure were making an especial appeal to Democratic members to aid in their fight.

While the movement for the measure was bipartisan, it also was confronted with bipartisan opposition. Some of the Republican leaders were aiding the Democratic House chieftains in their effort to prevent consideration.

'BACK HOME' PRESSURE

Pressure from "back home" for relief to bank depositors who kept their money in banks because of the government's appeal, was expected by sponsors of the measure to exert a strong effect on the House.

The City Council of historic Cambridge, Mass., and three Michigan public bodies sent in petitions to be added to others already on file. Petitions came from the City Commission of Pleasant Ridge, City Council of Detroit and supervisors of Oakland County, all in Michigan.

FAILS TO SATISFY

The assurance of Chairman Steagall (Dem.), of Alabama, of the Banking Committee, that he favors legislation to aid depositors was unsatisfactory to sponsors of the McLeod bill.

Representative McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, has asserted that the Banking Committee had adopted parliamentary maneuvers in an effort to defeat the best chance of getting action on the bill in both the Senate and the House.

Representative Brown (Dem.), of Michigan, author of the amendment which the committee tacked to the original McLeod 100 per cent payoff bill, declared:

"Some kind of bank relief measure will pass this session."

77 NAMES NEEDED

Encouraged by these indications of growing sentiment for the legislation from quarters hitherto hostile, the McLeod bloc forged ahead to complete the petition to discharge the Rules Committee from further consideration of the bill.

Sixty-eight names are on the document, with only 77 more needed to force a vote May 14.

Whether the weakened McLeod bill or the Steagall committee bill reaches the floor first, the payoff leaders expect that any measure could be amended to provide 100 per cent relief for all state, national and federal reserve banks.

FADDIS SURLY ON HIS M'LEOD VOTE

Not Your Business, He Replies to Quiz On Position

An inquiry from a representative of the Philadelphia Bank Depositors' Association as to why Congressman Charles I. Faddis, representing Washington and Greene Counties, had not supported the McLeod bill petition today had brought this reply:

"Why I did not sign the petition to discharge the committee handling the McLeod bill is none of your business."

Faddis bitterly assailed Charles P. Bloome, of Philadelphia, secretary of the Depositors' Protective Association.

Congressman William Berlin, represeting Westmoreland County, yesterday revealed that political ties had caused him to oppose the bill after he had promised constituents interested in the McLeod bank pay-off legislation that he would support it.

Bloome had written to Congressman Faddis as follows:

"We find many names of Pennsylvania Congressmen on the petition to discharge the committee handling the McLeod bill. Your name is not on the petition. Why not?

"Your constituents, in common with 10 million depositors in closed banks, demand immediate constructive Federal relief. They do not want degrading food orders. Give us back our bank savings. This must become part of the 'New Deal.'

"It is your sacred duty to support to the limit the McLeod bill."

Faddis replied in part:

"However, in view of your EVIDENT LIMITED INTELLIGENCE I will explain to you that I recognize in legislative matters a certain parliamentary procedure necessary to the conduct of such affairs.

"You sign yourself as Secretary Depositors Protective Association Closed Banks Philadelphia Region. You are a type of the most reprehensible lobbyist of today who is endeavoring to secure legislation by threats. You evidently have secured this idea from those so-called protective associations who exact tribute from merchants, contractors, etc., by threats of bombing their property if their demands are not acceded to.

"By such tactics you only harm the cause you represent yourself at supporting. Very likely if your connections were properly investigated it would be found that you have an axe of your own to grind which far outweighs any of your own concern for the good of the people in general.

"You may publish THIS LETTER in my district if you wish. I intend to publish it in connection with your's myself."

CONGRESSMAN FADDIS' LETTER . . . IT EXPLAINS ITSELF

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urge passage of the bill introduced by Representative McLeod, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end we urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

Herron Aid Sought by Shannon and Schnader

By MARK SHIELDS

Former Mayor John S. Herron is being sought both by the forces of Attorney General William A. Schnader and Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon as an asset in the gubernatorial primary campaign which is rending the Republican party.

Mr. Shields

And Mr. Herron doesn't know which way to turn, the considerations on either side being worth attention, but difficult of an analysis as an asset in the former Mayor's political future. It is no secret that Mr. Herron wishes to be a candidate for County Commissioner next year. To that end he would like to make a decision now which would be beneficial in 1934.

If he goes for Shannon and the Lieutenant Governor carries the county, even though defeated in the state, there are advantages.

Should he go for Schnader, even though the Attorney General loses the county and carries the state, there also are assets. Mr. Herron is recalling, no doubt, the fact that James F. Malone was up political Salt Creek in 1930 when he swung with Pinchot, guessed the winning horse and became secretary of property and supplies in the Pinchot cabinet—if only for a time.

It is no secret that the Schnader people last night, following a conference between the Attorney General and Mr. Herron, thought they had the former Mayor lined up. But during the evening Mr. Herron conferred with a gentleman interested in not only the campaign of Gen. Shannon, but that of Governor Gifford Pinchot, running for the Republican senatorial nomination, and today things are very much unsettled.

Herron Facing Real Political Predicament

Mr. Herron is in something of a predicament. It works like this:

Rightly or wrongly, Mr. Schnader is regarded as the Mellon candidate, which means he has the support of Senator James J. Coyne.

Also rightly or wrongly, Mr. Herron is associated in the public mind with Senator Coyne, though there are gentlemen intensely interested in the Shannon campaign who have benefitted as much or more through support by Senator Coyne than has Mr. Herron.

The Schnader management in this county is insisting that Senator Coyne has nothing to do with the campaign. William B. McFall, the Schnader manager, is something of a real independent, and would like to conduct the campaign on that basis. But it is difficult to disassociate the campaign from Senator Coyne when his ablest lieutenants are noted as visitors to Senator Harry B. Scott, who is running for lieutenant governor with Mr. Schnader. That is another peculiarity of this battle, the effort to make it appear that Mr. Schnader and Senator Scott are not running together, when everyone knows that had not Senator Scott been accepted by the Republican state organization Auditor General Frank Baldwin would have had none of Mr. Schnader.

Mr. Herron would like to get shut of the Coyne tag before next year. He is wondering if he can do so if he engages in a campaign which is backed by the Mellon contingent. That is a natural thought. The Schnader managers, it is understood, have told Mr. Herron that he can lead independents ipto the Attorney General's camp.

But friends of the former mayor doubt if he can do so in view of the set up which exists, and in view of the fact that his last campaign was made under the almost direct pilotage of Senator Coyne. These friends say he will have to oppose a Mellon candidate before he can be convincing as having shaken the Coyne aura.

Want Coyne Votes, Not His Presence

Senator Coyne, it is reported, has been directly told by the present active Schnader management that he should make himself scarce. His votes are wanted, but not his presence in the picture. It is a good trick if it can be done, but accomplishment is doubtful.

It is perfectly true that Mr. Schnader has been indorsed by

Dickens Revealed 'David Copperfield' and 'Dora' as Self, Maria

A nineteenth century artist's conception of Dora on her sickbed, her aunt at her side, at the time that Charles Dickens recreated her broken romance with Maria Beadnell in his novel "David Copperfield." Dora in the novel, the central character, is the Maria Beadnell that Dickens knew.

Author Recorded First Visit to Home of Boyhood Sweetheart, and of How 'They Became Engaged.'

Yesterday's installment of Charles Dickens' love letters told of the break-up of his youthful love affair with Maria Beadnell. In the decade or so that followed Dickens rose to world-wide fame as a novelist, but the tender impressions of his boyhood romance remained in his mind. So when he came to write one of his most famous books—David Copperfield—in 1850 he drew from these memories in creating the character of Dora in this novel. How vividly he did so is told in the accompanying installment.

By H. H. HARPER

SEVENTEEN years after breaking with Maria Beadnell, Charles Dickens, his fame secure in all the world, resting on a long series of brilliant novels, began to write his greatest story, David Copperfield. As every Dickens lover knows, he modelled his hero very much after himself and wove a great many of the actual happenings of his own life into the tale. When it came to the painting of David's sweetheart, to the telling of his first love affair, he turned back the pages of memory and made the never-to-be-forgotten picture of Dora from the image of Maria Beadnell, who was still enshrined in his heart.

Thus from David Copperfield we get the true portrait of Maria Beadnell. Dickens' admirers will read with renewed interest the following passages, which are now substantiated, for the most part as true history by the author himself, who later wrote to Maria Beadnell Winter:

"No one will ever be as terribly in earnest as I and David Copperfield were. People used to say to me, how pretty all that was, and how fanciful it was, and how elevated it was, above the little foolish loves of very young men and women. But they little thought what reason I had to know it was true, and nothing more or less."

Remembering Maria with her dog "Daphne," he gave Dora a dog "Jip," and reproduced Maria's fondness for her pet in Dora's love for Jip. He gave the following account of his first visit to her house, and the first dinner party:

"I don't remember who was there, except Dora. I have not the least idea what we had for dinner, besides Dora. My impression is that I dined off Dora entirely, and sent away half a dozen plates untouched. I sat next to her. I talked to her. She had the most delightful little voice, the gayest little laugh, the pleasantest and most fascinating little ways that ever led a lost youth into hopeless slavery. She was rather diminutive altogether. So much the more serious, I thought."

And when, next morning, he met her in the garden:

"I never saw such curls—how could I, for there never were such curls as those she shook out to hide her blushes!

The marriage of David and Dora in "David Copperfield," an illustration by H. K. Browne reproduced by permission of the publishers, George W. Jacobs & Co., Philadelphia.

As to the straw hat and blue ribbons which was on top of the curls, if I could only have hung it up in my room in Buckingham Street, what a priceless possession it would have been."

"I shall never have such a ride again; I have never had such another. There were only those three, their hamper, my hamper and the guitar case in the phaeton; and, of course, the phaeton was open; and I rode behind it, and Dora sat with her back to the horses, looking towards me. She kept the bouquet close to her on the cushion and would not allow Jip to sit on that side of her at all, for fear he would crush it. She often carried it in her hand, often refreshed herself with its fragrance.

"Our eyes at those times often met and my very great astonishment is that I did not go over the head of my gallant gray into the carriage. There was dust, I believe. There was a good deal of dust, I believe. I have a faint impression that Mr. Spenlow (George Beadnell, Maria's father) remonstrated with me for riding in it; but I knew of none.

"I was sensible of a mist of love and beauty about Dora, but of nothing else. He stood up sometimes and asked what I thought of the prospect; I said it was delightful, and I daresay it was; but it was all Dora to me. The sun shone Dora, and the birds sang Dora. The South wind blew Dora, and the wild flowers in the hedges were all Doras to a bud."

THOSE who may be interested in what passed between Charles and Maria during their courtship days will doubtless find it pretty accurately reported in David Copperfield in the following scenes between David and Dora. Thus when he proposed:

"I was shown into a room upstairs, where Miss Mills and Dora were. Jip was there. Miss Mills was copying music (I recollect it was a new song, called Affection's Dirge) and Dora was painting flowers. What were my feelings, when I recognized my own flowers; the identical Covent Garden Market purchase! I cannot say that they were very like or that they particularly resembled any flowers that have ever come under my observation; but I know from the paper round them, which was accurately copied, what the composition was.

"Miss Mills was very glad to see me, but very sorry her Papa was not at home; though I thought we all bore that with fortitude. Miss Mills was conversational for a few minutes, and then, laying down her pen upon Affection's Dirge, got up and left the room.

"I began to think I would put it off till tomorrow.

"'I hope your poor horse was not tired when he got home,' said Dora, lifting up her beautiful eyes; 'it was a long way for him.'

"I began to think I would do it today.

"'It was a long way for him,' said I, 'for he had nothing to uphold him on the journey.'

Accurate Version of All That Passed Between Them During Courtship Is Described in His Novel.

"I began to think I would put it off till tomorrow.

"'Yes, yes,' I said, 'he was well taken care of; I mean he had not the unutterable happiness that I had in being so near you!'

"Dora bent her head over her drawing and said, after a little while—I had sat, in the interval, in a burning fever, and with my legs in a very rigid state—

"'You didn't seem to be sensible of that happiness yourself, at one time of the day.'

"I now saw that I was in for it, and it must be done on the spot.

"'You didn't care for that happiness in the least,' said Dora, slightly raising her eyebrows and shaking her head, 'when you were sitting by Miss Kitt.'

"Kitt, I should observe, was the name of the creature in pink with the little eyes.

"'Though certainly I don't know why you should,' said Dora, 'or why you should call it a happiness at all. But, of course, you don't mean what you say. And I am sure no one doubts your ability to do what you like. Jip, you naughty boy, come here!'

"I don't know how I did it—I did it in a moment. I intercepted Jip—I had Dora in my arms. I was full of eloquence—I never stopped for a word—I told her how I loved her—I told her I should die without her—I told her that I idolized and worshipped her. Jip barked madly all the time.

"When Dora hung her head and cried, and trembled, my eloquence increased so much the more. If she should like me to die for her she had but to say the word and I was ready. Life without Dora was not a thing to have on any terms—I could not bear it and would not. I loved her every minute, day and night, since I first saw her. I loved her that minute to distraction. Lovers have loved before, and lovers would love again; but no lover had ever loved—might, could, would or should ever love as I loved Dora. The more I raved, the more Jip barked. Each of us, in his own way, got more mad every moment.

"Well, well! Dora and I were sitting on the sofa by and by quiet enough, and Jip was lying in her lap, winking peacefully at me. It was off my mind. I was in a state of perfect rapture. Dora and I were engaged. I support that we had some notion that it was to end in marriage. We must have had some, because Dora stipulated that we were never to be married without her Papa's consent. But, in our youthful ecstasy, I don't think that we really looked before us or behind us, or had any inspiration beyond the ignorant present. We were to keep our secret from Mr. Spenlow, but I am sure the idea never entered my head then, that there was anything dishonorable in that."

In tomorrow's instalment more intimate light on the romance of Dickens and Maria Beadnell is shed from the novelist's self-revelations in David Copperfield.

'STOP FOOLING POOR PEOPLE,' MAYOR TOLD

'You Know It Can't Be Done," Two Reply To Ground Request

Mayor McNair has received a thorough tongue-lashing from Council on his plan to give away city lots.

When the Mayor brought two women into Council yesterday and asked that they be given deeds for city-owned land, bitter criticism of his action flamed from both Democratic and Republican ranks.

He was accused of raising false hopes in the minds of unfortunates, of suggesting something that he new could not be accomplished legally and of fooling the people.

M'ARDLE INFURIATED

These charges were hurled at the Mayor by Councilman P. J. McArdle and John J. Kane.

After Council had listened to the Mayor's idea of deeding city properties to private individuals and the added possibility of building houses on the lots with materials from the Public Works Department, McArdle in anger said:

"I think it is about as cruel a thing as you can do, to lead this woman to believe she can put a house on a city lot when as a matter of fact you know she can't."

The Mayor at first declared that all he was suggesting was to give the applicant a vacant lot, but Theodore L. Moritz, his secretary, revealed that the complete plan was to build a house for her with city materials.

'JUST SUGGESTION'—MAYOR

When pressed for details, the Mayor said:

"Mr. Johnston (Director Leslie M.) tells me there is a lot of material lying around here. Why not build it with that?"

"All we're suggesting is to give her a vacant lot."

On questioning by councilmen, it developed that the applicant had no money with which to buy or lease the lot and no funds with which to build.

M'NAIR 'RETREATS'

McArdle said:

"You, Mr. Mayor, and Mr. Moritz are both attorneys, and you have had long experience in real estate matters. I suggest that you draw up legislation and present it in such form that Council can pass on it."

The Mayor asked:

"What's the use in doing that if you are not going to give her the lot?"

CONDEMNATION HELD UP

Raising his voice, Democratic Councilman Kane stormed at the Mayor:

"You know that it can't be done. Why fool these people."

McNair became indignant, offered to sign the deed for the lot and personally guarantee the title. Finally he said:

"If you won't give the lots, I'll stop talking about this."

McArdle replied:

"Well, I'm sorry, lady, I can't get you the lot."

The posting of a condemnation notice on the Bedford Flats, 1314-16 Bedford avenue, which was to have taken place Monday, according to Superintendent of Building Inspection George E. Evans, has been held up by Housing Supervisor Lee T. Sellars for consideration of legal phases of the case.

COUNTY TO REBUILD 'BLUNDER CURVE'

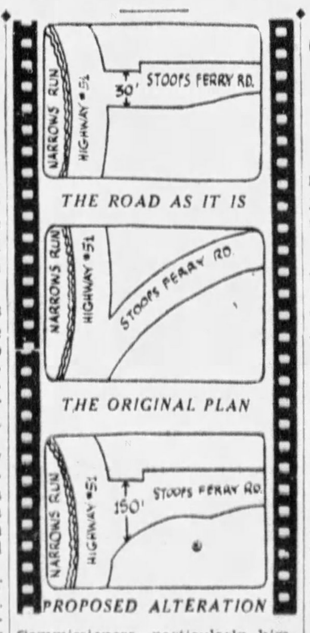
Stoops Ferry Turn Truck Wrecks Spur Action

The county will ask the grand jury next month to permit condemnations of land about the junctions of the Narrows Run and the Stoops Ferry-Shousetown roads, it was learned today.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern plans to have the junction widened so that a sharp turn, where two large trucks within a few days have met destruction, will be eliminated. Under new plans there would be 150 feet to make the turn.

At present, the Stoops Ferry road is 30 feet wide and the approach to the junction shows a grade of almost 11 per cent—a dangerous hill. The grade on most new county roads is limited to 8 per cent.

The road, which has been under construction for more than a year, was called an "engineering debauchery" several months ago by McGovern. Later he said it was built under the supervision of the Commissioners, particularly himself.



The plans were about to be submitted last November to a grand jury, but withdrawn by order of the Commissioners.

The present condition of the junction was the original plan, made several years ago by former county employes, it was understood.

But later, another plan was approved by a grand jury, giving the county 60 feet curving to the south of the Stoops Ferry road, which would have a level spot at the bottom. Steam shovels were working for weeks preparing this, when suddenly a change was made and the original plan was revived. The road was put through on property which had not been condemned, and the property now must be condemned by another grand jury, with additional property to make the junction wider.

The Commissioners also ordered an audit, which, it is reported, will soon be submitted to the Commissioners.

THE TARENTUM KIWANIANS' "HIGHWAY TO DEATH" SIGN

Tarentum Group to Wait Hearing by County

A threat to erect "highway to death" signs at each end of a two-and-a-half mile stretch of state highway Route 28 between Tarentum and West New Kensington is being held in abeyance pending a hearing before the County Commissioners.

At a meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Tarentum a committee to raise funds for the signs was told to await results of the hearing.

According to George Scheid, president of the club, 111 persons have been killed and 482 injured on the 18-foot highway since 1925. Civic organizations of the Allegheny Valley are backing a demand for county and state improvement.

Since the model sign was prepared casualties here increased.

Florist Arrested As Lottery Operator

Joseph Baker, proprietor of a florist shop at 800 Warrington avenue, was arrested by Lieut. John Casteel yesterday on a charge of operating a lottery. Police said they found a numbers book in his store. With him was arrested a customer, Orange Good, of Robert street, in whose pocket police said they found a numbers book.

SLOAN OPPOSES THIRTY HOUR WORK WEEK

BOSTON, April 26.—(AP.)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, is not in harmony with the proposal for a mandatory 30-hour week.

He says he believes collective bargaining a step forward in American industrial life, and he also favors the proposal now before Congress to place in the President's hands the authority to deal, as a business man, with other countries with respect to foreign trade.

RAPS THEORY

Our problem today, as he sees it, is not one of over-production, but one of grave maladjustment; he doubts that under normal circumstances it will be necessary "or desirable" to establish ways of stabilizing the price structure, and, above all, he urges support of the President "to the full extent of our ability and resources." He said today at a luncheon gathering at the Boston Chamber of Commerce:

"I find myself entirely out of harmony with the thinking so prevalent that the hours of labor should be reduced to absorb our unemployment.

"I am entirely out of harmony with the thought that the number of man-hours of labor is definite and that the unemployment question is solved by dividing the number of man-hours by the number of workers. No greater fallacy exists. Around this thinking comes the proposal for a mandatory 30-hour week. I do not believe in the principle underlying that proposal. On the contrary, I am convinced that the total amount of possible productive work in the United States can be definitely expanded with a continually improving standard of living

BACKS MINIMUM PAY

"No reasonable individual can disagree as to the desirability of a minimum wage, of the elimination of child labor; of a gradual reduction in the hours of labor through evolution—a reduction on an economic basis and coincident with a decline in the cost of production."

Sloan expressed "little patience" with the principle that the less we produce the more prosperous we become, or "the widely held notion that through mass production and the instrumentality of the machine, we have reached a chronic state of overproduction."

"The history of industry in this country conclusively demonstrates that, left to his own individual judgment, the American workman has in general decided that his interests are outside of a national union rather than inside one."

LAUDS ROOSEVELT

Speaking in favor of authorizing the President to deal, as a business man, with other countries with respect to the question of foreign trade, Sloan said that "to continue the policy of permitting Congress to deal with such a question (as foreign trade) is to assure a shrinkage to nominal proportions of our export activities."

He spoke of the building of a new confidence in America by the President, and the universal feeling today of people "more hopeful of a return to better conditions than we were 12 months ago."

POLITICS

some outstanding lieutenants in the Pinchot organization, including Judge John Fine, of Luzerne County, and Public Service Commissioner P. S. Stahlnecker, the Governor's former private secretary. But also is true that he has been indorsed by the same elements who have played the game with or through Senator Coyne, including Auditor General Baldwin and the Mellon faction.

Indeed, as one analyzes the fight which is joined here, noting that the county building and the Pinchot independents pretty well have turned to Gen. Shannon, Senator Coyne, whatever he may have in political strength, is about the only substantial factor in vote getting who is with Mr. Schnader.

And when Senator Coyne was sitting pretty, when he was commanding unquestioned majorities for whichever ticket he favored, he was persona grata with some of the same elements in the regular organization who now favor the attorney general. Let it be plain that this does not include Mr. McFall, for he is a late recruit. It probably is good politics to thus shunt the Senator aside—but the time to have done so, in good conscience, was sometime ago and not to wait until the Senator fell upon less fortunate days. Except for a falling off in his vote, the Senator is no different today than he ever was.

It simply isn't good sportsmanship, it isn't playing the game, but then sportsmanship has nothing to do with politics, and when you need a life preserver there are too many former friends willing to toss out an anchor.

The Schnader campaign in this county has been mangled and mismanaged woefully—before Mr. McFall took hold, a circumstance which magnifies his task.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS—

By Paul Mallon

'Three Little Pigs' No Joke to AAA 'Big Brain Men'

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The three little pigs and all their kin are no joke to the big brain men in the AAA.

There is some talk now that the government may send out reducing machines or masseurs to make the pigs of the country keep their figures within reason. At any rate the pig poundage problem is getting weighty.

The AAA now has loaned the farmers forty-five cents a bushel on approximately 262 million bushels of last year's corn. This hog-fattening food has been put under seal in corn cribs on farms. The loan contracts provide that the farmers shall pay the government back August 1.

But pig caviar is now selling for about forty-six cents a bushel in an unsatisfactory market.

The market would be revived if the sealed surplus were released either to the public or the dieting pigs August 1 or any time.

What to do?

BORROWING TROUBLE

The AAA is saying nothing about it yet. Its master mentalities are beginning to appreciate, however, that they have worked themselves into something like the mess of Mr. Hoover's farm board.

The farmers have on hand, unsealed, about 570 million bushels, which will provide the curtailed diet of the pigs until August 1. Then tthis year's corn crop will be available.

Half the insiders are inclined to do what Brazil did with her surplus coffee not long ago. They would make bonfires out of it, or toss it in the ocean—anything to keep it away from the pigs. It would cost the government around $117,000,000, but that probably would be the cheapest way out.

It only goes to show the trouble you get into when you start regimentation of the girth of pigs. Also what happens when the government starts "lending" money to its citizens.

PROSPERITY

The new corn-hog checks have just started going out to midwestern producers. That means strong stimulation of purchasing power in that section during the next few months.

These payments are for acreage curtailment and, have nothing to do with the loans on last year's crop.

WORRY

The House leaders fumed when a conservative press association recently carried a yarn indicating Mr. Roosevelt might get some new leaders for the next session of Congress.

What hurt was that the story was true, despite all the denials and confusion subsequently stirred up.

The story was inspired by persons very close to the White House. For some weeks they have been groaning backstage about the clumsiness with which the House has handled the administration business.

The leaders knew where the story came from and one was so worried he went to the White House to ascertain where he stood. When he came away he appeared somewhat glum, at least not exactly happy.

RESULTS

As usual, the leaders tried to blame the story entirely on the newspapers, as iif any newsman would sit around and dream such stuff. Regardless of how the White House itself feels, there is a considerable portion of the inside administration crowd dissatisfied with the way congressional affairs have been going.

There probably will be no change in leadership. The Roosevelt forces hardly will go to the extent of conducting an open reorganization. The immediate effect will be to stimulate White House support in the House.

NOTES

An organized movement against the American Legion lobby has been started in New York as a result of the veterans' restorations. As a matter of fact, the work of the Legion lobby on the inside was to restrain the House veterans' bloc, which wanted to grant even larger restorations. The Legion did not have to do much lobbying on that bill. The congressional leaders could not even catch any fish during their foray at Hoover's camp on the Rapidan. The only one who caught a fish worth mentioning was Representative McReynolds. The consensus was that the Hoover camp fish are all Republicans who have not heard about the change in government management.

THOUSANDS OF MOTTOES RECEIVED IN JUNIOR BIRDMEN MOTTO CONTEST

By J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander.

Greetings, Junior Birdmen. Thousands of boys and girls throughout the Pittsburgh area are busy sending in mottoes in our Junior Birdmen national motto contest and many fine slogans have already been received. While I have had an opportunity to look through much of the mail, there still is plenty to be opened and no doubt many more fine mottoes are contained in these envelopes.

Every member of the Junior Birdmen and all applicants for membership are entitled to participate in this interesting competition for the fine Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph wing awards and the national prize being awarded in this first activity of the Junior Birdmen. Send in your motto. Certainly no member will have any difficulty in sending in a list of mottoes.

I can think of many fine ones, but of course it wouldn't be fair for me to publish them in the column, or even hint what they are like. That is up to you boys and girls. We want a motto and we are asking you members to supply it for us.

Complete Rules To Be Published Again

The complete rules of the contest were published in this column Tuesday and Wednesday and will be repeated again tomorrow for those boys and girls who may have missed them. There is just one important thing to keep in mind, however, and that is that all mottoes must be in the mails by Monday midnight, April 30. That still gives you plenty of time, however, to get your entries in, and to become a member of the Junior Birdmen and write your mottoes in the advent you have not yet become affiliated with the Junior Birdmen.

Many other activities such as this, including model plane meets, an annual popular pilot poll, famous aces banquets, trips to airports, semi-annual meetings at theaters and similar events, that will fill you with the spirit of aeronautics and junior aviation are in store for you. Your wings are on the way.

Membership Cards, Wings On the Way

The first batch of memberships have already been mailed from the New York headquarters and many of you members, no doubt, are already wearing your wings and sporting your membership cards. That's the spirit. No matter where you go, be sure you wear your J. B. wings so that everyone will immediately know that you are an aviation enthusiast and a leader in model plane work. And be sure to carry your card with you too for it will gain you many advantages over non-members when attending outings and airports and things of that like which are not being conducted directly under the sponsorship of the Junior Birdmen.

If you sent in your application and have not as yet received your membership, don't let that bother you. It will be there in a day or so. It is impossible to get them all in the mails in one or two days. However, by Saturday they should all be out and you will get your beautiful gold or silver wings, membership card and leaflet explaining just how you will be able to organize your own charter, by Monday. Watch for the mail man.

Flight Charters to Be Inaugurated May 7th

On May 7, just one week from Monday, we will inaugurate our flight squadrons, and from that day on any member of the Junior Birdmen may build his or her own unit in his city, town or neighborhood.

Complete details of the organization of flight squadrons were published in this column last Sunday.

Now don't forget to get those mottoes in, members! On Sunday, May 6, I will publish the names of the lucky winners. I will also give you the list of members, selected for the national committee, who will pick the one motto to be used permanently by the Junior Birdmen of America. This motto will be chosen from the four prize-winning mottoes selected in each Junior Birdmen wing city.

The committee chosen to select this grand prize winner, who will receive the grand award offered by national headquarters, will contain the names of many prominent men.

In tomorrow's column I will give you more information about this interesting activity. Until then—

$102,000 Found In Negro's Safe

MIAMI, Fla., April 26.—(AP.)—W. D. Davis, Negro, widely known for the frugality of his mode of life, died January 4, leaving nothing to show he had an estate.

A small safe in his real estate office was opened, the Probate Court was told, and out fell $102,637.68 in cash, bonds and bankbooks. His four children will share it equally.

DIVORCE GIVEN DEAD WOMAN

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 26.—A dead woman was granted a divorce, alimony, wearing apparel and kitchen utensils in Common Pleas Court from a dead man. The strange case had attorneys hunting frantically for law books while court attaches turned back the pages of time six years. Judge Harry T. Tyler blinked his eyes and said:

"Call the case."

It happened this way:

Mary Miller was granted a divorce from Frank Miller on January 8, 1929. Clifford Belt, her attorney, took the journal entry to the court for signature, then put the papers in his pocket before official record could be made on the journal. Mary Miller died last year and the estate was up for settlement. No record could be marked official. Then it was Attorney George McKelvy today asked that the decree be granted. So the 1929 divorce case was reopened, a decree issued and found of the divorce decree, learned that Miller also is dead.

5c Cigar Output Of Penna. Doubled

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—The bureau of internal revenue announced today that Western Pennsylvania cigar makers produced 4,692,645 "nickel" cigars last March, as compared to 2,422,270 in the same month last year.

Production of higher grade cigars increased slightly less than a million for the same period, the announcement stated.

Junior Patrol

We heard a swell idea for a party the other day, fellows!

Have you ever tried eating a buffet lunch? That kind of refreshments helps to make any party where you have refreshments more fun.

Here's the way it's done. The host or the Patrol captain, if you are giving a Junior Patrol party, arranges all the food on a table so that the guests can make their own sandwiches and serve themselves.

There are usually cold meat slices, cheese and jellies in little separate dishes. Then the bread and butter is handy, too. It's easy to make yourself a sandwich right at the table and just the kind you want, too.

On other dishes, the thoughtful host arranges some relishes like small pickles, some mayonnaise, and some salad. It is a good idea to have plenty of fruit on hand, too, because that is so good for everybody.

Then there should be something refreshing like fruit punch, milk, or tea to drink. People who have been to parties where the refreshments are served this way tell us that they have a lot of fun. One of the best things about it is that there is very little food wasted.

Have you ever noticed, maybe when you eat in restaurants, how much food people leave on their plates? Some people have the silly idea that it isn't polite to eat everything on their plate and that you should leave a little bit, just to show that you aren't so terribly hungry. And so enough food goes to waste every day in a big city to feed hundreds of hungry people.

At a buffet lunch, you can take as much as you want at a time, and then if that isn't enough you can come back for more. No matter where you are eating, fellows, don't take more than you can eat so that you have to leave good food to be thrown away. You can always ask for a second helping.

Please tell your mothers and fathers that now is the time to pick the bugs off your trees, fellows. There is one bad pest called the bag worm—you can see their "nests," like little dead leaves hanging on the trees. They should all be picked off and burned.

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

A granddaughter of Pittsburgh, Elizabeth Burd Reed, daughter of the Edward Bliss Reeds, of New Haven, Conn., and a granddaughter of Mrs. William Reed Thompson, of Pittsburgh, is engaged. Her parents have made known her engagement to Borden Helmer, of New York, son of Mrs. Field Lewis Taylor and of the late Ralph Helmer.

Elizabeth went to Westover School before going to Vassar. She's a member of the Junior League and of the Colonial Dames of America. Her fiance, a brother of Mrs. Seymour Wadsworth, of New York, and of Mrs. Johannes Van Maanen, of Amsterdam, Holland, was educated at Dartmouth College and the Business School at Harvard. He's a member of the Harvard Club and the Amateur Ski Club, and a former member of Squadron A.

The Southern Club has its date already for its annual Yuletide-season charity ball—it's December 27. And the place will be the Hotel Schenley ballroom.

Doris Stratford Bride Of Harold Stuffmann

There's wedding news today. The R. Bayard Baldridges, of Farragut street, announce the marriage of Doris Stratford, of Adelaide, South Australia, to their brother, Harold A. Stuffman, of Montreal, Canada.

The ceremony took place Sunday afternoon in Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church with the Rev. Hugh S. Clark officiating. Only members of the two families and close friends attended the ceremony. The Stuffmanns will be at home in Montreal.

Roberta Ross Is Married In Club

In keeping with the vogue for coronets, a bride of last night, Miss Roberta Firth Ross, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William F. Ross, of Aspinwall, who became Mrs. Clifford Wade Dickinson, Jr., at a 7:30 o'clock ceremony in the Pittsburgh Field Club, wore a coronet of tulle petals and a cap of rose point lace, from which cascaded her veil of rose point and tulle.

She wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin, trimmed in rose point and pearls, and fashioned with a brocaded satin train, falling from a pannier. She carried baby calla lilies and lilies of the valley.

A spring-like gown of yellow organza with green satin sashes for accent was worn by the matron of honor, Mrs. B. R. Bunton, of Aspinwall. The bridesmaids, Miss Ellen Martin and Phoebe Lucas, both of Philadelphia, as bridesmaids, appeared in similar gowns of green organza with yellow sashes for accent. They carried Dresden bouquets.

Officiating at the wedding was the Rev. Dr. George P. Rowland, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Aspinwall. Charles A. Hurley, of Cleveland, was best man, and Stuart Engle, of Troy, N. Y., John A. Bottomley, Jr., of Philadelphia, and John B. Henry and Charles A. Matheny were ushers.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wade Dickinson, of Troy, N. Y.

The bride is a graduate of Hood College and studied at Pennsylvania Museum of Arts, Philadelphia. Mr. Dickinson is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

Davidson Youngsters Own Marionette Theater

Their mother made the theater, the puppets, the props and the settings. And the marionettes' wardrobe as well—all in a few weeks before Christmas.

The Davidson children's marionette theater will be taken today to the Edgewood Club, where this afternoon "Hansel and Gretel" will be a part of the marionette program. The marionette show will be included in the Edgewood Civic Club's benefit this afternoon and evening.

Omega Delta Delta Arranging Benefit

The Omega Delta Delta sorority and its junior chapter are sponsoring a benefit bridge for the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society at the Morrowfield Hotel Sunday. Miss Anita Ohringer is chairman, aided by Miss Helen Miller and Miss Bernice Harris.

Jacqueline Club Dance Tomorrow

The Jacqueline Club of St. Francis Xavier Church, North Side, is sponsoring a dance for the benefit of the church tomorrow evening in the school hall, California avenue. Miss Margaret Hallstein is chairman.

Federation Women Will Hear Mrs. King

On account of the illness of Miss Alta Schultz, scheduled as soloist, music for tomorrow's meeting of the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs will be presented by Mrs Gertrude Sykes King, soprano, with Miss Mildred Gardner accompanying and also doing piano solos. Registration is in charge of Mrs. Harold Cochrane and Mrs. Frank Smith is chairman of luncheon tickets. The meeting will take place in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

A. O. H. Sets Date For Card Party

Division 17, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians will have a benefit card party at 7133 Kelly street on Monday evening, May 7. The general chairman, Miss Mary Donohue, is assisted by Miss Margaret Reilly.

Miss Scrivens Plans Church Ceremony

Miss Ruth Scrivens will be married to James A. Jordan, of Wellesley avenue, in the Edgewood Presbyterian Church instead of the chapel of the church on Saturday. The bride-elect is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scrivens, of Edgewood, and her fiance is a son of Mrs. J. E. Jordan, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The ceremony is to take place at 3:30 o'clock with the Rev. Walter Moser officiating. Miss Scrivens has chosen Miss Christine Marjorie Griggs to be her only attendant and Robert Warren Higgins will be best man.

Ushers will include Ralph Henry Scrivens, brother of Miss Scrivens; William Carlson Jordan, of Brooklyn, brother of the bridegroom-elect; Kenneth M. Rose, of Pittsburgh, and Donald Arthur Maxwell, of Cleveland, O.

Democracy Society Arranges Benefit

College Club To Elect May 19

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. F. F. Rohrer is the nominating committee's candidate for the presidency of the College Club, to succeed Mrs. George M. Swan. Others on the ticket, which is to be voted upon May 19, are Mrs. Walter S. Church, second vice president; Mrs. Howard Beatty Smith, recording secretary; and directors, Mrs. John A. Blair, Mrs. Earl Blough, Mrs. Montfort Jones, Mrs. Clyde S. Rine and Mrs. Milton W. St. John.

May events listed at the Craig street clubhouse are to be inaugurated by an illustrated garden talk next Thursday evening, by H. O. Lehman. An international spring festival by the International Institute is Friday afternoon's program and on Saturday there's a bridge dinner.

On Friday, the eleventh, Harold A. Nomer, head master at Shady Side Academy, will talk on "The Sources of 'Anthony Adverse'." The attraction on the eighteenth will be a lecture recital on Spanish music made by Earl B. Collins, the concluding Friday affair for the season.

A slight change has been made in the procedure for the buffet supper on Sunday evening, the thirteenth. Instead of having the program first, as has been the custom all winter, it will be heard after dinner, Mrs. Edward O. Tabor, giving a costume recital of folk music.

Vera B. Bash Speaker in Dormont

It is the forties that are "flaming," not the youth of today, Miss Vera Virginia Bash, Peabody High School teacher, told the Dormont Mothers' Club at its meeting Tuesday night in her talk on "The Home as Seen from the School."

Miss Bash, who is a daughter of Mrs. Appleton Bash, founder of the club, declared this is the finest generation of youth yet known, and she begged the mothers to "find somewhere the moral courage to stop discussing the depression as though there were nothing else left to you as a family in all this universe." Children enjoy the struggle of getting along, she said.

Officers elected by the club are: President, Mrs. J. J. Hoerath; first and second vice presidents, Mrs. C. R. Hinkley and Mrs. J. O. Johnston; corresponding and recording secretaries, Mrs. Errol Dexter and Mrs. J. W. Fleming; treasuer, Mrs. W. F. Fuhs; directors, Mrs. J. E. Crawford, Mrs. Carroll C. Robertson, Mrs. M. T. Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

We're playing know-it-all today and handing out a list of 1934 fashion definitions that we think might be of assistance and interest to those of you who don't get around to the shops quite as often as you'd like to. Just so that you'll know all the answers, we are listing some of the most important changes in terms you've become accustomed to:

Beginning with GROSGRAIN. It's that stiffish corded fabric (most commonly seen in ribbon form) and is being used extensively this season as a dress trimming. 1934 term for it—BELTING!

Having gone through a period of DOESKIN and ANGELSKIN (or "peau d'ange" if you go in for the flourishes) you'll maybe be happy to hear that the all-embracing "ACETATE FABRICS" will cover the question satisfactorily. Both these fabrics are made of synthetic yarns, by an acetate process, and earn their new name that way. Especially applicable to the new sports and blouse fabrics.

"Clever, these Chinese" . . . but SHANTUNG is being changed to the newer SILK LINEN just the same! Of course, you still hear "shantung" from all sides . . . but "silk linen" IS the accepted one. Just thought you'd like to know . . . and then you can go on calling it what you like anyhow!

Colors . . . well, there's not much point in going into them in a big way because even the most ignorant soul knows that they change as often as every couple of months. BUT . . . the new COPPER CLAY is important. It takes the place of the old "terra cotta" or a form of "henna" and is altogether stunning with the season's navys. Nice in bags and belts. A soft, smooth shade reminiscent of the Indian pottery Uncle Abner brought from New Mexico.

Shoes have done some stepping. Last year's "marcella" cloth (so popular and so practical) has become MARRELE. Not quite like marcella . . . a little harder weave we think. But equally attractive and durable.

The "mandrucca" and the "sponge calf" that you all beggered yourselves to buy last summer are now classed under the more-or-less general heading of TWEED CALF. Probably influenced by the way we're all going in for tweed suits and coats these days.

And what was once "whipcord" with its sharply defined rib, has become RIBOLIN . . . and an excellent shoe fabric it is, too.

DOROTHY RANDALL.

MRS. PINCHOT'S PICKETING HIT

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—(AP.)—A suggestion that Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor, cease picketing with strikers and devote her time to studying industrial conditions, came today from Howard S. Cullman, of New York state.

Cullman, who is chairman of the commission to revise the workmen's compensation laws of New York and twice was treasurer of President Roosevelt's gubernatorial campaign committees, said:

"I understand that you in Pennsylvania are also in the stewardship of a notable liberal and that not only your Governor, but your very eneregtic and picketing First Lady, have the interests of labor at heart.

"How it is then, that these well known Progressives have permitted the compensation laws of Pennsylvania to remain in a state which seems to me, at best, slightly primitive?"

INSULL LABELS HIS EARNINGS HONEST

(Editor's Note—Samuel Insull, although talking freely about world affairs and incidents aboard ship, has remained silent regarding his own affairs during his long voyage back to the United States.

On Monday Insull broke this silence to tell International News Service of what he believes is in store for him upon his return to Chicago.

Today Insull speaks for publication again, telling just how he feels about his unprecedented rise in American business and about his spectacular fall.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

ABOARD S. S. EXILONA, AT SEA, April 26.—"I never took a dishonest dollar in my life!"

Indignantly, his bright brown eyes glinting behind horn-rimmed spectacles, Samuel Insull made this declaration to International News Service today as he discussed, in one of his rare moments of confidence, the charges facing him upon his return to Chicago. He said:

"It is possible I may be sent to prison for a technical breach of the law that has yet to be proved, but no one is going to say 'Insull quaked or quit when the going got rough'!"

TARGET FOR ALL

Sailing the Atlantic on the last leg of his extradition voyage back to America, Insull leaned forward and a note of sarcasm crept into his voice as he continued:

"It's a dog's life to be on top. Look at the target you become! The higher you go, the further you can fall. What you have done for the people, for the community, or for the nation as a whole, means nothing when powerful forces set out to get you.

"I was in the business field in America for half a century—51 years, to be exact. The year before last, when I left Chicago, I had pride in my name and in my associations—such men as Thomas A. Edison, for example.

"After 11 years in New York with Edison, I went to Chicago, which was then, as now, the metropolis of the Mississippi Valley. It was in 1892—42 years ago—that I went to Chicago.

"The capital investment in the electric light business I went there to run was less than $900,000. We had two small plants and employed a few hundred men. For years I worked 18 hours a day. Sundays never were my own. I knew not the hours of the day, or the days of the week."

Insull's eyes became softer as he recounted this past period of his life.

"I visualized cheaper electricity, cheaper gas and cheaper and better transportation. My business grew.

PRIDE IN ACCOMPLISHMENT

"At the height of the boom period late in the 20's, the capital investment in my companies was approximately $2,000,000,000. From two small plants in 1890, the business had grown to include a vast number of plants spread over 32 of the 48 states. It gave employment to between 40,000 and 50,000 men and women."

The 74-year-old man hardened again as he revealed his philosophy of business and the results it has brought him.

"I never took pride in the fact that I made money. It was pride of accomplishment, pride in doing something for the community, for the betterment of American life, and in raising the standard of living."

Insull here lapsed into silence, as if again contemplating the vast contrasts in his long life, past and present, with, perhaps, a guarded conjectural peek into the future ahead.

Judge Clears Insull Litigation of Fraud

CHICAGO, April 26.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley ruled in an opinion handed down today that no collusion or fraud had been practiced upon his court in the Insull receivership cases.

The judge's opinion ended one of several inquiries into how the Insull Operating and Securities Companies were put into receivership.

Mystery Suitor Owns Her Heart, Diva Declares

MARY M'CORMIC

SINGER LISTS '10 BEST MEN'

International News Service.

PARIS, April 26.—Mary McCormic, American opera singer, remains undeterred despite the wrecking of her marriage to Prince Serge Mdivani. She is in love again—with a New York "mystery man!"

She said today:

"I am definitely not finished with romance. I am just getting a running start, since previously I have been too busy working.

"I am not exactly engaged, but there's a man in New York who is extremely retiring and prominent. He hates publicity but admires my art. I have come to Europe in order to solve the problem of how the home and the stage can be combined.

"A friend told him that marriage to me would be like 'hanging to a comet.'"

LAUDS "SAMMIE" INSULL

Miss McCormic, who has known many men, was asked to list "the ten best" in her wide acquaintance. Her list was notable for the exclusion of Prince Mdivani.

She made Samuel Insull, indicted head of the defunct Chicago utilities empire, the first on her list, saying:

"Sammie Insull is the finest, most unselfish, most understanding, and the kindest man I have ever known, and he has done the most good.

"Harry Bannister (divorced husband of Ann Harding, American screen star) is on the list because he is the funniest man I ever have known.

"Lucien Murratore, with whom I made my debut with the Chicago Civic Opera, is the greatest tenor, but he smells like a large powder puff!

GREATEST LOVER

"Paolo Vaglissindi, well-known Italian aviator, is without a doubt the best lover I have known. Maurice Bokanowski, the late French air minister who was killed in an airplane accident, was the most brilliant.

"Morris Perez, an Algerian composer, is on my list because of the beautiful music he created. Eddie Ely, Egyptian, is the most mysterious.

"I must list Count Rodriguez Tchekyl, German racing driver, because he is so fast. And then, of course, my father must be included. Perhaps I should ist him first.

"Finally comes my 'mystery man' (the New Yorker). He's just got everything!"

MISS PERKINS CITES PERIL TO LEISURE

The profit motive, which certain Roosevelt administration advisers blame for the industrial and social evils America is suffering, is regarded by Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, as a danger to leisure as well. It is important, she says, in the May Good Housekeeping, to keep even our leisure from being exploited for profit. She points out:

"A large part of leisure for all of us is directed and developed for business and profit, movies, radios, pleasure trips, dance halls, pool rooms. Agents for certain manufacturing companies go out to organize teams and so increase the market for athletic equipment. Such projects have, of course, great value in that they stimulate out-door life, but they determine for many the use of almost all their spare time. Up to a certain point, the profit motive in developing recreation is sound, but it must not be carried to exploitation. There are other ways of human development, too, and these ways must be found.

"This is a new problem, the prevention of the exploitation of leisure—a problem of some seriousness because leisure time represents that part of life which ought to be in the control of the individual."

Those who fear the New Deal will bring a regimentation of American life to the point where even leisure will be regulated, are assured by Miss Perkins that their fears are groundless. She states positively that she believes no group of people should determine how the leisure of another group should be spent. All should spend their time doing what they enjoy, she believes. The Secretary of Labor feels, however, that many of the people will have the good sense to use leisure for music, art and culture. She says:

"Added leisure to many will almost certainly be used in part by adult workers, for further education, the courses for unemployed workers, opened a year ago by the University of the State of New York, in New York City, with an enrollment of 3,400, have now a registration of 75,000 . . . The reading rooms of the public libraries are crowded . . . Circulation departments everywhere are asking for money to replace volumes worn to shreds . . . The records of those who go through the turnstiles of the great art galleries and special museums on free days are evidence of the mass appeal of such oppertunities as exist at present."

Makes Key for Cell From Drinking Cup

Harry Wilkey, alias Harry Wilson, Negro, of 714 Taft avenue, a robbery suspect, was still in his cell in Center Avenue Police Station today despite his efforts to unlock his cell door with keys fashioned from a tin drinking cup, according to police.

Turnkey Samuel Carson said he surprised Wilkey attempting to pick the lock of his cell door with pieces of bent tin. Investigating, the officer said Wilkey had torn his tin cup into fragments with his hands.

GANDHI UNHURT AS FOES STONE HIS CAR

BUXAR, India, April 26.—(AP.) A rock smashed the windows of a car in which Mahatma Gandhi was riding today, but he escaped uninjured from a clash with persons opposing his campaign to assist India's untouchables.

It was the first time the Mahatma ever had been made the object of a physical attack.

Three Nationalist Congress volunteers accompanying Gandhi were injured in the attack, said to have been made by orthodox Hindus who bitterly oppose the Indian leader's long campaign to succor the oppressed classes.

THREATENS PENANCE

Gandhi was reported today to be threatening to undertake another period of severe penance because of growing opposition to his movement for the untouchables.

Gandhi went on a hunger strike last year when prison officials refused to grant him the privilege of carrying on his campaign from his cell.

The fast lasted only one week, and Gandhi was released from the prison where he had been held less than a month.

FASTS WON FREEDOM

After his release August 23, 1933, Gandhi was examined by physicians, who said there was no cause for alarm, despite minor complications resulting partly from the fast.

Gandhi won a release from jail by the same method May 8, 1932.

On that occasion he fasted three weeks to call attention to the plight of the "untouchables" and the government freed him in the fear of serious consequences.

Mission Planned at Sacred Heart Church

Stork 'Outbids' Grand Slam In Bridge Game

CHICAGO, April 26.—(AP.)—There's nothing like a "powerhouse" hand to grip and hold a bridge enthusiast—thought Harold Freeman until last night."

Vieing with nearly 1,100 other contract bridge players in a tournament, Freeman found himself with a grand slam hand. The bidding reached its peak and Freeman was about to play when an attendant tapped him on the shoulder.

Freeman turned, annoyed, and the attendant spoke:

"Pardon me, sir, but we have just received a message that your wife is being taken to the hospital. You are about to become a father."

Everlasting Honor Awaits Victor of Mount Rushmore Competition

4 Divisions Allow All Chance

An everlasting honor—as the writer of the historical inscription on the Mount Rushmore National Memorial—awaits the winner of the nationwide inscription competition.

It may be you or your son or your daughter. Every man, woman and child has equal opportunity. A prize of $1,000 awaits the winner while other cash and scholarship awards are to be distributed for the best entries. In sponsoring the competition, the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers have arranged the awards in four classifications so that adults, college or university students, high school students and grade school pupils, respectively, will not have to compete against each other.

STILL PLENTY OF TIME

While the closing date of May 12 draws near, still there is plenty of time for new participants to begin the preparation of their text entries. It is important that a participant read and study the rules before beginning his or her text. While the full set of rules and instructions, as well as awards, will appear in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a special free folder has been prepared for interested readers.

Awaiting the receipt of complete rules, a participant can begin the preparation of the text by bearing in mind that the nation's history to be covered in the inscription must be based on nine specific episodes. They are: 1—Writing of the Declaration of Independence. 2—Drafting of the American Constitution. 3—Purchase of Louisiana. 4—Ceding of the Floridas to the United States. 5—Rise of the Republic of Texas and its entry into the Union as a state. 6—The Mexican War and the acquisition of California. 7—Settlement of the Oregon boundary dispute. 8—The Alaska Purchase. 9—Building of the Panama Canal.

600-WORD LIMIT

No text must exceed the 600-word limit. It must discuss the effect these episodes had on the progress of the American nation. The use of dates is not necessary; neither need the episodes be repeated.

Get started today by listening to two special radio programs. Three of the episodes will be discussed by Clarence C. Klein, instructor in history at the Fifth Avenue High School, from Station WCAE at 5:45 p. m. This is the second of a series of three special broadcasts. A dramatized version of one of the episodes will be heard at 8:30 o'clock tonight on the "Voice of America" program over station WJAS.

FAMOUS QUARREL

You will hear the famous quarrel between Napoleon Bonaparte and his brothers, Joseph and Lucien, over the first consul's determination to sell the territory of Louisiana, which he had just secured from Spain, to the United States. There also will be portrayed the famous scene at the Cabildo in New Orleans, when Gov. Claibourne welcomed the Louisianans as American citizens.

Hear the details of special awards of 20 typewriters being offered by the program's sponsor, Underwood-Elliott-Fisher.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 26.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Most of the news in today's papers concern Dillinger and Tugwell.

Mr. Tugwell is just one of the nicest and most pleasant fellows you ever met in your life. All of those brain trust fellows are. But don't let 'em start explaining something to you. They get you down with theorys, and then stomp on you with phrases. You start to raise up, and they will hit in the face with a thing called "dogma."

Will Rogers

Mr. Tugwell knocked a pretty smart bunch over lately with a "pair of dogmas" called "modernized process" and "experimental approach." Einstein couldn't have had 'em as mentally goofy.

Yours, WILL.

TIPS FROM FASHION PARADES

By PRUNELLA WOOD

The dark hat, left, is rough blue straw, banded in blue net and trimmed with a tiny doll. The light hat below is white baku with a very becoming rolled brim and bound with coral red.

A very low cut frock is under the dinner jacket in the barred white organza ensemble, left. The buttons and belt are cherry red. The hat is white baku with a horsehair brim.

Mauve chiffon, with pleatings at the neck and the skirt sides, is used for this spring evening frock. The splashing sash is of clear cyclamen pink in faille ribbon.

TO THE RIGHT is what might be termed an artist's sketch leaf from one of the innumerable spring fashion shows that shops arrange druing the hectic pre-spring and Easter season.

They are all highlights of a parade of wearable outfits that were gathered together to please the sports woman, the dowager, the sub-deb, her big sister and even the bride and her attendants—for all style shows have a wedding procession finale; it's the happy custom.

USUALLY THESE shows are intimate affairs, to which women are invited by smart cards. Usually, too, there is a bar or a tea table doing duty before and after the pretty models parade, and often as not music for the paraders to step to. All is not vanity in such occasions, however, for each girl has the proper accessories for every costume she wears, so that the keen observer can get an authentic idea of jsut how attractive or personal the ensembles can be.

* * *

IN THESE models sketched there is a grand hat—the blue one—for wear with any 5 o'clock city costume in the navy blue tradition. The white baku hat is a perfect number for the dark frock or for the spring foulard in gay colored stripes or print. The mauve evening frock is a honey for dining and dancing purposes, and any bridesmaid, graduating girl, or house-party guest in the suburbs could use the white organza model effectively.

Man Found Dead In Moultrie Street

In a sitting posture, Charles Weiss, 55, was found dead on the steps of a building at rear 7 Moultrie street early today. His room-mate, Harry Rankin, of 2200 Fifth avenue, said that Weiss, who was a roofer, had been ill for a week. There was nothing to indicate violence.

Contract Bridge :-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Exits and Entries

In the play of a hand at Contract Bridge exit cards sometimes are fully as important as entry cards, and the player who fails to conserve the former almost as jealously as he does the latter is not likely to do at all well.

Mr. Max Schank, of New York City, submitted the hand below, which he played as Declarer at a contract of three notrump, a contract which was fulfilled due to the unusual distribution of the cards and to the line of defense adopted.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 6 5 2 ♡ 8 7 ◇ 7 2 ♣ Q J 9 8 6 3
♠ K 7 3 ♡ K 5 4 ◇ K J 9 3 ♣ A 5 2	West North East South	♠ J 10 9 8 ♡ J 10 9 3 ◇ 8 6 4 ♣ 7 4
	♠ A Q 4 ♡ A Q 6 2 ◇ A Q 10 5 ♣ K 10

In the bidding South did not open with a bid of one heart, but showed his five honor-trick hand by a bid of one notrump, and when North responded with two clubs, bid three notrump. The bidding unquestionably was very strong, but the play, as it actually occurred, permitted Mr. Schank to make his contract.

West opened the diamond 3, and South won the trick with the Ten. He then led the King of clubs, which was permitted to hold, and followed with the Ten. West again ducked, and South overtook in the Dummy with the Queen. Another club was returned and South discarded a heart, West winning with the club Ace. At this point West shifted to a small spade, and South won with the Queen, laid down the Ace of spades and put West in the lead with the King of spades, which he had retained. West now led a small heart, which South won with the Queen, and South now followed with another end-play, laying down the Ace of hearts and leading the third round, which compelled West at the end to lead up to the Declarer's major diamond tenace.

The play is correct enough then up to the point where West won the third round of clubs with the Ace and then shifted to another suit, as obviously the continuance of the diamond suit could serve no good purpose. The spade suit was as good a choice as any, and South's play, of course, was perfectly correct. But West by this time should have seen the dangers in his type of holding, and when South led the Ace of spades, should have appreciated the trap that was being laid for him and played the King of spades. Now South's plan of putting West in the lead with the third round of spades would have failed. The spade seven would have proved a very acceptable—and more than acceptable—substitute for the spade King, as had West retained that card it would have afforded him an exit from his own hand and an entry into his partner's, so that not only could two spade tricks have been cashed, but a valuable lead through one of South's tenaces assured. With East in the lead the contract, of course, must be defeated, and while West is not to blame for failing to choose an undesirable lead from a three-card suite rather than an undesirable lead from a four-card suit, he certainly should have studied the situation with more care on the later rounds of playing to avoid the series of forced leads which gave to South his over-ambitious contract.

"REGULAR" PAIN? MY DEAR, THAT DATES YOU. LET ME TELL YOU WHAT TO DO!

"Regular" pain is out. So is even discomfort at this time. That's a fact, and it's just too bad for the girl who hasn't learned how she can keep her dates, and keep comfortable.

Just watch the calendar. Before your time, take a Midol tablet and drink a glass of water, and you may escape the expected pain entirely. If not, a second tablet should relieve it in seven to ten minutes. That is how rapidly this remedy works, and Midol relieves even those who have always had a difficult time. Relief is such that two tablets should see you through the worst day. Yet they contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be fooled by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for such suffering! Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

Do as your dentist does . . . when he cleans your teeth

USE POWDER

- 100% Cleansing Properties Twice that of tooth paste
- No Grit—No Pumice Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel
- Lasts Longer—Costs Less Outlasts tooth paste 2 to 1

POWDER CLEANS AND WHITENS TEETH—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. Dr. Lyon's cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay. Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

Parents' Choice Too Old For Girl, Rival Thinks

Too old for her. That is what her younger boy friend thinks. And he is justified. June and December do not mix well. We only love our own kind. There may be an exotic interest in the wisdom that years of experience has given to an escort. There may be a compliment, deep and insinuating when the person of accumulated seasons singles us out for his or her heart interest.

But there is always that gulf between. The gulf of times laden with other friendships, other heart interests, other living when you or I were a thing apart.

Miss Brunot

I may be romantic. But I sanction the young loving the young And the middle-aged seeking people of the same quality of years.

There may be circumstances when this does not fit. There are those born too soon, and others born too late. They are out of gear with their own. Then these must look elsewhere. But will they ever be so comfortable. Will their lives smoothly flow like the big river through the worn channel, like the trickling stream over the mountain side. Or will they be geared to too great or too slow activity.

Our problems for ourselves are difficult to settle. And even more so is the weight of another's woe. And so I ponder over each letter coming to me . . . and here goes one that I have given double thought:

Dear Miss Brunot:

Being a constant reader of your articles in the Sun-Telegraph, I've learned to respect your frank and helpful advice. My problem is: Several months ago I met a girl of 23. I'm 31, and we were at once attracted. Upon attempting to negotiate further dates, although she expressed her desire to see me, she honestly told me there were complications. But she would let me know whenever she had an evening open. She has faithfully lived up to this, but we average together not more than one evening a week.

FAMILY APPROVES

The complications pertain to the fact she keeps steady company with another man who is 42, and she admits although she likes him, there is no deeper affection. She says she will never marry him, either. On account of the great difference in ages. But to make things worse, her family approves and sanctions him.

She says she knows from past experience life around her home would not be fit to live if she lets this other man go. I know from her actions she dreads fearfully such a situation.

You now have briefly the background of my trouble!

About a month ago we declared our love. Yet the complications still exist, and when we meet it is unbeknown to her family. And she has to "fib" about her going out. And she becomes disturbed over this. It is not the other man she thinks about. But her people. Now, I am a man of action, and as this has been going on now for much over a month and I see no end of it, I want to know what to do. I don't relish the situation. I don't want to do anything that would ruin this girl's life, nor do I want to spoil what may turn out all right. On the other hand I hate long dragged out affairs. And I can't tell when the break will come for us.

I'm resolved to be a good sport. But being forced to play a waiting game isn't any fun. Regardless of whether I win or lose, I couldn't hate the girl. As "Andy" would say, "If this ain't a mess, I neber seed one." Please help me, and thanking you, I am, U. P.

If you and this girl intend to keep on going together and finally to marry, I agree with you that dragging things on gets you nowhere. Have a plain talk with the girl, and offer to go with her to her parents and explain matters.

TOO OLD FOR HER

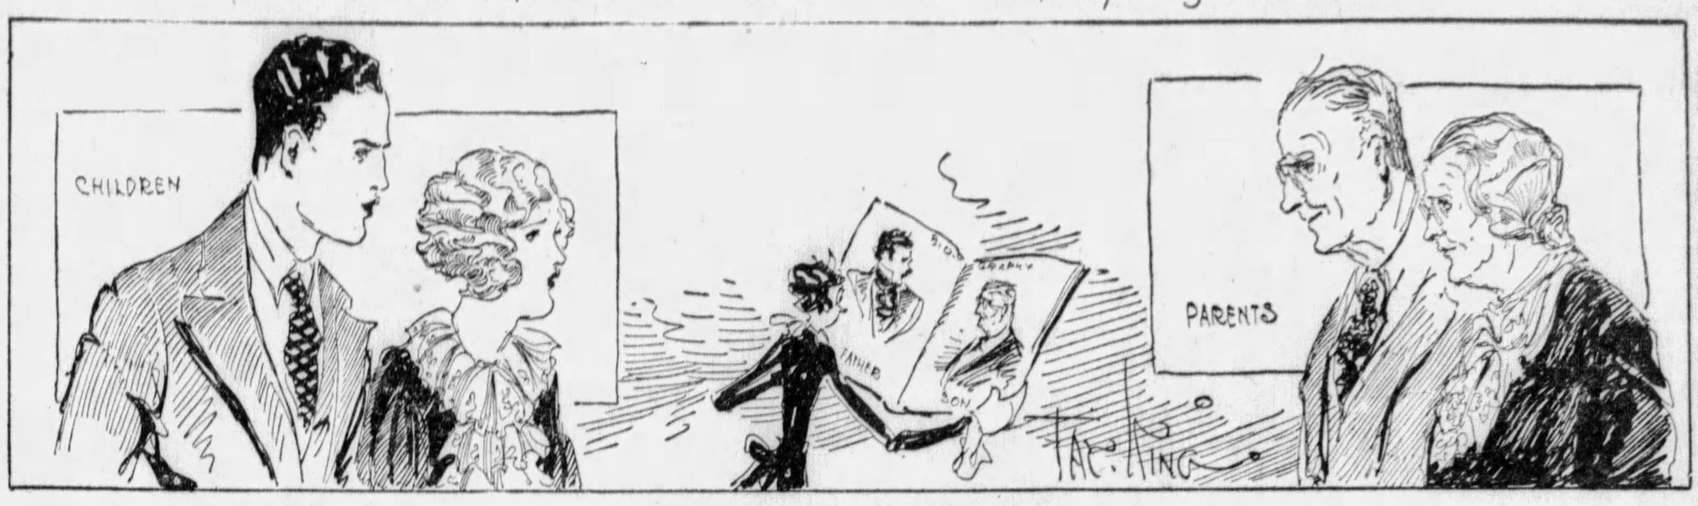
The man of 42 is too old for her, and no doubt the affair between him and her is entirely parent-arranged. I believe in marriage for love. All marriages have their tribulations, and where love is not deeply rooted, there is bound to be tremendous unhappiness. It is your time now, U. P., to call a halt to all this. Make a stand. That will be the real sporting thing to do.

To Lil:

Dear little Lil, I cannot blame you for not wanting to stop the friendship you have had with this other girl for six years. Personally I believe the world in which we live would be a very narrow and uncomfortable place, if we only chose companions from certain religions and certain nationalities. The World War broadened us in this very thing. Yet the fact that you are so very young and that your parents are so set against this girl has a side that cannot be underestimated. Why don't you try staying away from her for awhile, and see if you can forget her. When one isn't as yet 16, although you may think you are very wise, yet there are so many facts not understood, that often it is the best way to accept older people's advice. Or at least to give it a try-out. I feel sorry for any girl who craves a chum. It is natural to have someone of your own age to talk things over with. There is a PAR VALUE to such friendship that exists nowhere else.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

Remember, Your Parents Were As You, Fay King Tells Us



By FAY KING

The difference in ages between parents and children is usually at least 20 years, and often more.

Twenty years changes the helpless infant to a self-reliant adult. It changes sparkling youth to settled middle age.

Young persons find it hard to picture their parents once young as themselves. But they, too, were bright and gay and popular at their children's age.

It is a contrast that could be given of every child and every parent—in time. For all parents were once young, and all children will grow old.

Think sometimes of your parents as they were when young like yourself!

Artful Avis Wins Invitation

I have seen girls who, everybody agreed, were so inane that they bored people to tears with their silliness, but never have I seen anyone possessed of the infinite possibilities in asinine behavior that Avis Arlen displays.

Her appeal to Hugh Grantland, when he and Harry Underwood were carrying Dicky to the car which was to bear him to the hospital, was, I felt, the capsheaf of her moronic impertinence. And from the face of the others near us, I gleaned that they shared my feeling.

If Hugh heard her ask him if there were not something she could do, with the added ridiculous comment, in the presence of Katherine's trained professional efficiency, that she had taken first aid, he gave no indication that her words had reached him. With his eyes fixed upon Dicky, as were those of Harry Underwood, he plodded onward with the big man, sharing the burden of Dicky's wounded body.

Even her mother must have realized the ridicule which the girl was inviting, for she called sharply:

"Avis! Come over to me, dear! Can't you see you're bothering them?"

"Oh, Mumsie darling!" Avis turned to her mother with a prettily protesting air. "Please don't make me come away from here. This is so thrilling, and I just know there's something I can do to help Hugh—and poor Mr. Graham," she added, as if by an afterthought.

TOLD HOW TO HELP

"I am sorry to disillusion you, Avis," Katherine said suavely, "but the only way you can help us just now is by going over to your mother, as she has so wisely suggested. We want to get Mr. Graham to the car and the hospital as soon as possible."

Avis shot one rebellious glance at her, then made a slinky little rush to Hugh's side.

"Even if I can't help, Hugh," she cooed, "won't there be room for me in the car? I've never seen anything like this—an emergency case in a hospital—and it will be such a wonderful opportunity for me to observe things. I'll be just as quiet as a little mouse, and I'm so slender I can squeeze myself into the smallest possible space. I know the doctor wouldn't mind my coming along. Would you, doctor?"

I doffed a mental chapeau to her astuteness. Hugh Grantland's face had not changed a muscle at this, her second appeal to him. If he had not heard her, he was giving a marvelous imitation of deafness. And in a flashing instant, she had changed the objective of her campaign and was sending a languishing, appealing glance to the young surgeon, whom I knew she never had seen before.

AVIS THEATRICAL

That he was a susceptible young medic I saw, as his eyes widened slightly at the sight of Avis in her exquisite gown, leaning toward him, her eyes with their skillfully adjusted artificial lashes lifted appealingly to his. And in his voice, when he answered her, there was the promise of a victory for her.

"There won't be room for you in the car with the patient," he said. "We shall have to be most careful about crowding him on account of his arm. But—if you don't mind sharing my runabout, I shall be delighted to let you accompany the party. I don't know how much you will learn; but I'll let you see all I can."

Avis clasped her hands theatrically, while her eyes said unutterable things to the palpably impressed young surgeon.

"Oh, doctor, how perfectly heavenly of you," she gurgled.

But Mrs. Arlen, usually a helpless nonentity in dealing with her daughter, was patently aroused to the necessity of saving her from ridicule and the censure of those of us whose only concern was the safe transit of Dicky to the hospital.

She made no further effort to dissuade Avis from going with the surgeon, but I saw her speak softly to Philip Veritzen, and by the time we reached the car the great producer, who was now the employer of Avis as well as her father's friend, was at her side.

"Come, my dear," he said, softly. "It is utterly impossible that you should go on this trip. You must come back with me to your mother."

Pleurisy Is a Serious Ailment

When I was a medical student, pleurisy was considered an unimportant ailment. The physician was rarely consulted and the patient relied upon home remedies and self-treatment for relief. Fortunately, we now know more about pleurisy, respect it and treat it as a serious and not a trivial affliction. In fact, many specialists believe that repeated attacks of pleurisy should arouse suspicion of something more serious.

Dr. Copeland

In springtime and fall attacks of pleurisy are prevalent. It is probable that sudden change in weather, exposure to cold and dampness, drafts, fatigue and neglect of the common cold are a few reasons for the prevalence of this affliction during these seasons.

Pleurisy, as its name implies, is an inflammation of the pleura or lining of the lung cavity. The inflamattion can be traced to germs which reach this delicate tissue. They may come from a focal point of infection elsewhere, as the nose, throat, tonsils, teeth or nasal sinuses. Occasionally, the germs are carried through the lungs by the air inhaled, but usually by the blood circulating through the body. There are different kinds of germs and different types of pleurisy. The type of pleurisy depends on the resistance to the specific germ and on general health.

Unlike the common cold and other respiratory disorders, pleurisy occurs suddenly and without any warning. Occasionly, the victim may go to bed feeling well and without any complaint. During the night or upon arising, he suddenly complains of a severe pain in the chest. This pain is increased on deep breathing and is lessened when the depth of inhaling and exhaling is restrained. When this sign is present, you can be almost sure the disorder is due to pleurisy.

Fever, cough, general body ache and fatigue, are other symptoms that must not be overlooked. A milder form of pleurisy was more common in former years and is a type that requires little medical attention.

Regardless of what form of pleurisy you have, my advice is immediately to seek medical advice and follow the instructions given to you by your physician. Bear in mind, that neglect of pleurisy may lead to pneumonia and other serious complications. Medical attention in the beginning will save a great deal of unnecessary suffering and prevent repeated attacks.

Sometime it is difficult to determine accurately whether the pain is due to inflammation of the pleura of the lung or the result of some other disturbance. A great deal of confusion can be avoided and accurate information obtained by resorting to the X-ray machine. Its use is especially advisable in cases of repeated attacks of pleurisy.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

White Flannels for the Groom?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Would it be correct for the bridegroom to wear white flannels and a dark coat at a simple church wedding to be held the last week in May? The bride is to be in the usual white, having just one attendant.

2—Would a maid of honor of 15 years of age and a best man of 17 be too young as attendants? There are certain reasons for wanting these two as attendants if their ages do not prohibit it. K.

1—If by the "usual white," you mean that the bride is to be dressed formally, in a white wedding dress and bridal veil, then this attire of the bridegroom would be appropriate, especially for such an early-in-the-season wedding, and a church wedding. To be dressed consistent with the attire of his bride, the bridegroom would wear formal day clothes, cutaway coat and dark striped trousers, for a day wedding, and a tail coat for an evening wedding.

2—Since the bride and bridegroom especially wish these two young attendants, I see no reason why they shouldn't have them.

Telling the 'News'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am plannig to have a birthday party soon and I intend to write my own invitations. Will you please tell me a good way to word them? I also intend to announce my engagement at the party and would like to know how this should be done? W.

Are you going to mention in your invitations that the party is to celebrate your birthday? Many people don't like to do this, but it is a question of choice. Your invitation, if you don't mention the birthday—idea in it, may read something like this:

Dear Mary:

It would make me very happy if you will come to an informal party at my home on Friday, the first of May, at about 9 o'clock. Please say that you will come. Mother and I are looking forward with special anticipation to welcoming you. Dearest love to you. Devotedly,

If you wish to say that it's a birthday party, you might word the first sentence, "It would make me very happy if you will come to an informal party that I am having to celebrate my birthday on——"

The simplest way, and one of the most charming ways, of announcing your engagement is to put on your engagement ring after you see that all of the guests have arrived. This will "tell the news," delightfully.

Here's news for all of you who have yellowish, discolored teeth—who have tried perhaps a dozen different ways to brighten teeth, give them attractive sparkle and whiteness.

Start brushing your teeth with Kolynos. Use it just as you would ordinary toothpaste—with two exceptions. Use only half as much and put it on a dry brush. Don't wet your toothbrush. Brush your teeth this Kolynos way and see how astonishingly quick your teeth become sparkling.

This scientific dental cream cleans and whitens teeth so quickly and effectively because it contains cleansing properties not found in any other toothpaste. It is antiseptic and acts to remove from the teeth the "bacteria-plaque" that makes teeth look dingy, dirty and yellow.

This extra-cleansing improves the appearance of your teeth as nothing else can. You'll find it makes your teeth whiter—shades whiter—in a hurry.

We say try Kolynos. See how it gives teeth new lustre, new clearness and makes them more attractive than you believed possible. Get a tube from your druggist today.

Frank Fay and his wife, Barbara Stanwyck, were never much for uppity doings . . . They have never forgotten the miseries of being poor . . . At their new mansion in Brentwood, near Hollywood, these nights, however, they are surrounded by friends who 'knew them when'—all of whom are invited to enjoy the Japanese Gardens, the swimming pool and the other trimmings . . . These friends are not the swanky sort (the swanky set is snubbed), the friends invited are those who haven't had such sugary luck, and who are going through the heartaches. Barbara is like that.

Where to Ogle Your Favorite Persons: Dinner-time at the Colony almost nightly: Lillian Gish, George Jean Nathan . . . At the Ritz bar: Edna Ferber, Frank Sullivan, Frances Langford . . . At LaHiff's Tavern: Bert Lahr, Postmaster General James Farley, George White, James Montgomery Flagg, Ripley, Bugs Baer, Fannie Hurst, Jack Benny and Mary Livingston, Paul Whiteman . . . At Dinty Moore's: George M. Cohan, Irving Berlin, Lou Holtz, Babe Ruth . . . At Lindy's: Ruth Etting, Jimmy Durante, the Marx Brothers, Eddie Cantor, Abe Lyman, George Jessel, James Roosevelt, and any songwriter . . . At Dave's Blue Room: The Ritz Brothers, Bob Benchley, Heywood Broun, Paul Gallico, Billy Rose, Gertrude Neisen, Eddie Duchin, "Curley, the Whistle" and most of the show and chorus girls from the late spots after 3 a. m. . . . At Reuben's: Phil Baker, Lee Shubert, Marilyn Miller, Gloria Swanson, most of the judges, politicians, show folk, and any of those above mentioned . . . At Gallagher's ditto . . . The autograph seekers will enjoy this paragraph and so will the restaurants listed . . . The celebrities will be robbed of a nickel each by the press clipping services—who will charge them a nickel for each clip from the various newspapers on the syndicate—and those who actually think they're celebs will ask me why they were omitted.

Louise Fazenda, one of the better known movie players, wishes that she could save many a Hollywood star, who squander money while they're making it. Miss Fazenda would have a huge sign across Hollywood's main stem read: "It Won't Last Forever!" . . . Quoting this, a writer had a scenario turned down by an exec, who added: "What we want is a good bandit story like 'Viva Villa'!" . . . "We might have better pictures," said the writer, who knows his Oscar Wilde, "if we had a sign across Hollywood boulevard reading: 'Stop Copying the Other Guy! You Can't Repeat An Emotion!'"

Dick Watts, Jr., the movie sentinel, is among others who offers a list of Things He Can Do Without, which includes Ida Lupino, a recent importation to Hollywood from Britain. Watts is reminded that the stories from Hollywood telling of the merry pranks she plays on her guests, particularly when she pushes them into her swimming pool, are offensive even for that land of the practical joke.

It seems that Miss Lupino, who has a delicious sensayuma, indulges in this charming form of gayety to find out which of her visitors are Good Sports. If they come up laughing, they are voted Jolly Fellows and, heaven help them!—invited back. If, however, they are grave people who can't take a joke as well as the next one, they are set down as killjoys and are never asked to return. It would be a pleasure.

Anyway, Watts suggests that Miss Lupino be exiled to that desert island, but I wish he would finish his sentences. Some of the others I'd recommend as companions for Ida would be The Guy Who Hurts Your Hand With A Tight Grip when You Shake Hands With Him. . . . The Strangers Who Walk Right Up And Interrupt Your Conversation Just Because They Listen To You On The Radio. . . . And by all means—The Girls Who Have No Heart And Who Know You're A Married Man But Who Keep Rouging Their Lips Between Kisses Anyway!

Drama Clubs Clash In Battle

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Bernard Shaw and Molnar, with a young Pittsburgh playwright, helped three of Pittsburgh's dramatic clubs last night to make histrionic history. It was the opening night of the Drama League's tenth annual amateur tournament. The well-equipped stage of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement was the field of battle. B. Iden Payne was the Zeus who throned above the conflict and will distribute the laurels of victory when the war is over on Friday night about 11:21 o'clock.

Mr. Seibel

The Bellefield Mimes, who have won the first prize several times, presented "How He Lied to Her Husband." In this one-act epigram Shaw pokes fun at his own "Candida." The playlet calls for smooth and polished voices and manners—which Frances Heckert, Reginald E. Stanborough and Herbert Osgood were fully competent to impart and did.

A one-act farce by a young Pittsburgher, G. S. Kaufmann, was the vehicle for St. John the Baptist Dramatic Club. "New Year's Revolution" opens on New Year's Eve in the room of two college students. Stacy is both a souse and a Communist. While waiting for the girl who is going to take him to a New Year's frolic, he falls and becomes unconscious. His chums put him to bed and make him believe, when he comes to, that he has been unconscious for 10 months. When at midnight the New Year's racket begins, they make him believe the Communist revolution has started. The little play is an elaborate practical joke with some good character dialogue, and William Mahoney put lively comedy into the leading part, as did Virginia O'Brien into the role of a fake nurse.

The Studio Players of Bradford Woods gave the second act of Molnar's comedy, "The Play's the Thing," substituting a squeezed lemon for the famous peach. George D. Lobingier did smooth work as Sandor, while Bronwyn Burns acted very well as Ilona. Milton Young, Knox McKain Kehew, James C. Wilson and Raymond Marter were the other players, and their ensemble work removed any doubts as to the wisdom of taking part of a play into the contest.

"Vindication," which the Dracomitra Players were to present last night, will form part of the program tonight, along with "Submerged," by the Irene Kaufmann Players; "The Singapore Spider," by the Epworthians, and "The Bishop's Candlesticks," by the Little Theater of Beaver. The large turnout and discriminating applause last night augured well for the success of this year's tournament.

DRUNK DRIVING ON INCREASE

In the March traffic accident report released today, Lewis W. McIntyre, city traffic engineer, says police figures indicate that five times as many drivers and twice as many pedestrians were having accidents which involved liquor in 1934 as compared with 1933.

McIntre points out, however, that revised methods by the Police Bureau has resulted in a greater number of accidents being reported for the first three months of 1934. This, he says, possibly justifies a reduction of the ratio.

Traffic deaths in March, 1934, were 40 per cent under March, 1933, there being nine persons killed last month as compared with 15 in March, 1933. The total number of traffic deaths for the first three months of 1934 is 30 per cent above the same period of last year, it is shown.

STUDY CONTROL OF PARK FORUM

Some method of regulating the use of the proposed shrines of free speech on the North Side to prevent disorder in the event that two organizations tried to exercise their rights at the same time is being considered in City Council.

Attorney Ward Bonsall and Sidney A. Teller have requested that no formal permit be required for the meetings. Free speech should be unrestrained, they declare.

Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall has predicted trouble if two rival organizations should collide at the shrines. Recently a delegation of North Siders objected to the location of the forums in South Diamond street or in West Park, and suggested as an alternative that the speaking be conducted at the Point or on the wharf.

Father of Actress Drowns in River

The body of Phillip Yuritch, 65, of West North avenue, was taken from the Ohio River, near Ambridge, yesterday, according to a Coroner's report. His daughter, known to the stage as Polly Lux, reported him missing two weeks ago.

Grand Old Party To View Scenes Of Bygone Days

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Republican campaign committee will meet in Washington. The scene of its boyhood triumphs.

'Tis there the lads whittled their initials on the government payrolls.

Happy days gone beyond recall and referendum. When the Treasury was the old swimming hole, and the budget was a diving board.

Surrounded by hostile Democrats the committee will gaze into the crystal ball and meditate. It seeks a Cincinnatus for 1936. But from present indications the old boy can take a much longer lease on his plow.

Students to Visit Express Agency

Students in transportation, business engineering and domestic science classes of eight Pittsburgh high schools will be taken on an inspection tour of the Railway Express Agency, Twenty-sixth street and Liberty avenue, today. H. L. Heed, express agent, will conduct the trip. A similar trip will be made by another group of students Friday.

DAYS ON RANCH IN DIVORCE SUIT

From her dude ranch in Wyoming, Mrs. Mabel McFarland came to Pittsburgh to describe how David K. Bryce, of 6909 Kelly street, thought he was a cowboy during his honeymoon three years ago.

As a witness for Mrs. Louise Bryce, 6826 Kelly street, in her suit for divorce, the dude ranch proprietress testified that Bryce lost his temper one day, kicked at his wife, but hit Mrs. McFarland.

After Mrs. Bryce told Judge John P. Egan of other indignities, Judge Egan took the matter under advisement.

'Math' Teachers to Be Dinner Guests

A dinner of the Pittsburgh section of the Pennsylvania State Education Association will be held in Carnegie Inn, Woodlawn avenue, tomorrow night, attended by teachers of mathematics in colleges and high schools of the Pittsburgh district. Speakers will be Dr. Arnold Dresden, of Swarthmore, president of the Mathematical Association of America, and Dr. J. Linwood Eisenberg, president of the State Normal College at Slippery Rock.

Miss O'Day Gets Chance To Come Back and Says It's Tough

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, April 26.—Hello! Trying for a comeback in Hollywood is like attempting to escape the gangster's spot! The finger is on one, and there seems to be no escape from the mysterious onus of having held fame and lost it—or having put it aside.

So says Molly O'Day, and Molly should know. Fame was hers in the day of the silent pictures. As a mere youngster of high school age, she swept to the brink of stardom by playing the feminine lead in "The Patent Leather Kid" with Dick Barthelmess. Then Molly slipped from the limelight.

She is back again, and headed for the top, with a featured role in "The Life of Vergie Winters," Ann Harding's RKO film. But it wasn't all so simple as returning to Hollywood and renewing acquaintance with the studio casting offices.

"Making a comeback is three times as hard as starting from scratch," she said. "New players have an immeasurably better chance than those who have made something of a name in Hollywood and then slipped from sight."

George Stevens, the RKO comedy director, had a certain gag stolen so many times by radio comics, he is announcing that he may again use it "with permission of the copy-cat owners."

About two years ago little Jean Parker was in high school. The other day she went to visit some of her chums. As fate would have it, the dancing class, of which she was director while in school, was arranging a program for that afternoon.

And so Jean joined the cast and put on what is known as a bit of interpretative dancing.

Movieland meanderings—Ethelreda Leopold, the Warner platinum blonde, bought herself a second-hand bicycle to ride to the studio every day . . . Gene Fowler's burning since learning that the chap making an adaptation of one of his yarns gets twice the salary . . . The movie extras on the "Thank Your Stars" ("The Great Magoo") set got a real treat. A banquet scene used real caviar and lots of fancy food—and did they eat!

Peeping around Hollywood corners—Mrs. Patrick Campbell gets a featured role in "The Green Hat" at M-G-M . . . For the first time in 16 years Neil Hamilton is working under Ed Sedgwick's direction. It's in "Here Comes the Groom," Jack Haley's stellar flicker. Sixteen years ago, Neil was an extra and worked with Sedgwick, who was directing "The Life of Pershing" at the old Fort Lee studio . . . The Fox Studio spent oodles of money fixing up a swell dressing room for Will Rodgers, but the gumchewing star has not yet been in it! . . . Sally Eilers bowed out of her contract with Fox and I wouldn't be a bit surprised to hear that she signed with Warner's, where hubby, Harry Joe Brown, got a ticket as an associate producer.

Kinema-knick-knacks—Faith Bacon, billed locally as the "original fan dancer, is getting plenty of ogling from the movie chorines. Faith is getting lots of ribbing, too—all the would-be clowns of the village are phoning her, claiming to be Clark Gable, George Raft and other sheiks asking for dates . . . Bette Davis' mama, A. W. K. portrait photographer, is a-visiting the cinema city . . . Henry O'Neil, Warner player, is vacationing it back to Newark, N. J., his home town . . . Goodee Montgomery gets a nice break in "Funny Thing Called Love" at Universal.

The Scales Balance

GAZE, if you will, upon blackout situation number one—recommended and approved by all members of the Revue Sketchwriters' Association, Inc. On a divan in her apartment sat Mrs. Dottie Williams. Beside her, in fond embrace, was Bill McCoy, the heavy lover. Friend husband was nowhere to be seen.

"Do you love me, Bill?"

"Nuts about you, kid. Nuts about you."

Mrs. Williams sighed with contentment. This was so nice. She had thought about it so many times—and now, here it was. Her husband was away for 10 days, and Bill McCoy would be with her for the same length of time. What a beautiful thing life really was!

She smiled to herself. She had been very clever about this thing; so clever that its was almost a stroke of genius. Charlie—the unsuspecting husband in the case—had told her that urgent business in the St. Louis office would take him away for the aforementioned 10 days. And she had thought very quickly.

"Oh, Charlie," she had said, "I'll be so lonesome without you. The apartment is so empty when you're not here. I think that, since you must go, I'll run up to the country and stay with the folks until you get back.

"And you'll hurry back, won't you, darling?"

It had all been just as simple as that. She had kissed her husband a fervent goodbye. And he wasn't gone two hours when she was kissing her lover a fervent hello. I leave it to you as to which kiss carried the most dynamite.

Dottie knew, of course, that she was doing an extremely wrong thing. Her husband was a generous provider and a kindly man. But he was dull. That was the word. Dull.

She poured a drink for her companion and snuggled closer to him.

"Yeah, he replied brilliantly. "Yeah."

You know what's next, dont you? Right you are. Blackout situation number two. The door opened and in walked Charlie, the dull husband. He saw the two upon the divan, and he nodded.

"Remain just where you are," he said pleasantly enough. "Sorry to interrupt your little party—but these things are sometimes necessary, you know."

He motioned toward the door, and three other people walked in. One important-looking man, and two women.

"Permit me to introduce my friends," he went on as though he were playing a part. "This is Detective Smart and two ladies from his office whom we brought along as witnesses."

He nodded toward the divan.

"Over there," he told the detective, "sits my wife, Mrs. Dottie Williams. Beside her is Bill McCoy, whom I have long suspected of being her lover. I don't think we'll need much more in the way of evidence."

On the divan, Bill McCoy—ever-cheerful, ever-gay — had suddenly turned green. He could do nothing but fumble with his robe. The woman beside him was sobbing softly.

"Oh, Charlie," she cried. "I'm heart-broken. I—I didn't mean any harm. I—I was just lonesome."

Her husband whirled savagely.

"Lonesome, were you" he glowered. "Well, you'll have a chance to be good and lonesome now. More lonesome than good, I guess."

In another moment, he and his witnesses had departed. Dottie was still crying. Her lover—always carefree, always joyous—was pouring himself a drink.

"Nice mess you got me into," he growled. "I'm clearin' outa here as soon as I can get my things together. And if you don't stop that cryin', I'll hand you a sock in the nose."

In a taxi, Charlie and his three witnesses were riding downtown. The husband was still complaining bitterly.

"It just goes to show you that you can't trust a woman. I've given her the best years of my life. And what do I get? Infidelity."

One of the girls nudged him.

"Stop your squawking, Charlie," she laughed, "and give yourself a litte credit for some fast thinking. I amost died when you introduced Harry here as a detective, and Flora and me as two witnesses."

A slow grin crept over the husband's face.

"That's right," he agreed. "I sure did think fast. Can you imagine how Dottie would feel now if she knew that I thought she was really home with her folks—and that the four of us were geting ready for a 10-day party?" . . .

Nose Valuable To Fields

Tales multiply about W. C. Fields and his stooge, Tammany Young. The comedian won't go on with his act at Hollywood affairs unless the master of ceremonies also gives Young credit. Young has more influence than anyone else over the comedian, and as a last resort, the studio appealed to him the other day to try to get Fields to appear for costume fittings.

"Mr. Meadows, I want you over here immediately."

"You wouldn't talk to me like that if I were there."

"Oh yeah? If you were here, I'd punch you right on the nose."

HERE'S NEW HEALTH FOR YOUR LIVER

Now banish bad breath, pimples, constipation; feel like a million.

That tired, frowsy feeling in the morning, that "dark-brown" taste in the mouth—if you would banish them and win back buoyant health, don't expect relief from salts, mineral oil, or candy and chewing-gum laxatives.

For such remedies only move the bowels. While chances are, you're one of the thousands suffering from sluggish liver, which does not yield sufficient bile—causing pimples, blemishes, headaches, bad breath and a general run-down feeling.

What you need is something which acts thoroughly but harmlessly upon the liver. And in Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets you will find that "something" which stimulates the bile flow.

A successful substitute for calomel, these famous tablets are compounded of pure vegetable ingredients, and have been praised for years by millions.

To get and keep the bile flowing freely—correcting constipation, skin troubles, and win back that "fine-and-dandy" feeling of youth—go to your druggist for Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets today. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Many Penna. Towns Fight Daylight Time

Guilty Plea By Union Heads

Three officers of the Independent Motion Picture Operators Union, Local 131, pleaded guilty late yesterday in Criminal Court to transacting the business of a foreign corporation without a certificate of authority from Pennsylvania. Visiting Judge William T. Darr suspended sentence upon payment of costs, amounting to nearly $1,000.

The trio had first elected to stand trial and the state had presented testimony from about 40 witnesses, who said the union was a branch of a Minnesota organization. Some termed it an "outlaw" union.

Those pleading guilty were W. G. Littell, Pitt street, Wilkinsburg, president of the local; Martin J. Joyce, Lonergan street, treasurer, and Daniel Gross, Franklin street, Wilkinsburg, secretary. The prosecutor was W. H. Thompson, Sheridan avenue, Bellevue.

Lewis Invited to Talk to Convention

The biennial convention of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, will be held in Moose Temple next Tuesday. An invitation to speak has been sent to John L. Lewis, international president of the organization.

Speakers will be P. T. Fagan, district president; Councilmen Charles Anderson, John J. Kane and Thomas Gallagher; Charles Miller, vice president of the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union; the Rev. J. J. Hughes, of Chicora, and Philip Murray, international vice president, and Thomas Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer of the national organization.

Stirring Up Bad Blood Won't Help

By B. C. FORBES

IS IT WISE for Washington to go out of its way to stir up hostility against men of affairs?

Mr. Forbes

Walking through Union Square, New York, I noticed two big crowds. Curious, I discovered that each was being addressed by a fiery radical. Each was vehemently denouncing "capitalism." Each was striving to incite workers to rise up and take command in this country.

Revolutionary, communistic sentiment is not confined to public park idlers. Many letters received by this column reveal that there are people who are eager to bring about the complete overthrow of our existing form of government and institutions. Here are sentences from a postcard received a few minutes ago:

"You are a hypocrite and liar. You have no principle. You are on Morgan's payroll and must do his bidding. Your column is lousy. Of course, you are old and broken in spirit. When we Bolsheviks get the whip, you will ride the rail, as well as ——," mentioning one very large employer.

This week it has been publishing "holders of silver." The first list contained the names of some of the largest banks in America. The deduction which the public would naturally draw was that these banks had had "inside" or "advance" information that Congress would pass legislation helpful to silver prices, and that, therefore, the banks had loaded up with huge speculative holdings. The effect upon public sentiment can readily be realized.

The truth was and is that the banks were not even remotely indulging in gigantic speculation in silver. Whether the prices went up or down meant little or nothing to them, as they convincingly explained.

But the Washington news will reach many people who will never see the banks' explanation.

Moreover, the Washington official statement did not convey the fact that many holdings by corporations were part and parcel of their normal operations.

Therefore, the net result will be to intensify the already-widespread ill-will towards banks and bankers.

HOW WASHINGTON can hope to inspire confidence, enthusiasm, enterprise throughout the financial and business world by such tactics, passes the comprehension of normal mortals. Nor is it possible to conceive how Washington can figure out that unemployment can be cured unless and until business, individuals and concerns, become imbued with faith in the outlook.

Recovery should be placed ahead of recrimination.

The problem confronting the United States, namely, the restoration of business and employment prosperity, is sufficiently difficult to warrant the best co-operation on the part of politicians, bureaucrats and business men.

Needless inciting of strife and ill-will cannot possibly contribute towards the desired objective.

America can win out if all parties exercise a rational degree of statesmanship and magnanimity. But persistent inciting of trouble might conceivably bring more trouble than could be effectively handled. Let everyone strive to help, not hurt.

PHELPS DODGE HITS NEW ORE

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP.)—Louis Cates, president of the Phelps Dodge Corporation, confirmed reports today that the company had struck an important new ore body at Bisbee, Ariz.

While Mr. Cates declined to comment in detail on the new ore find, it was understood the find was similar to the Campbell find made some eight years ago, and that the ore appears to average 9½ per cent copper and carry some silver and gold.

The ore was said to have been discovered in a drift on the 2,200-foot level at a point about 3,000 feet south of the junction shaft.

COMMODITIES PROVE DRAG ON STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP.)—Stock market sentiment was clouded today by further heaviness of grains and silver and most categories moved irregularly lower after holding fairly steady in the first hour or so.

Wheat dropped a cent or more a bushel, cotton was somewhat unsettled and silver futures were off around 1 cent an ounce at one time. Rubber came back moderately following early declines. Bonds were mixed and quiet. Foreign exchanges were uneven. French francs rallied, but the British pound eased.

Shares of Industrial Rayon reacted around 5 points and du Pont and Celanese were down about 2 each. Phelps Dodge got up a point and Kennecott and Anaconda recorded some improvement. Pennsylvania and New York Central were a little higher. Santa Fe canceled an advance of a point and Southern Pacific sagged. American Shipbuilding and New York Shipbuilding were in demand on prospects of naval expansion. United States Smelting and Howe Sound lost about 2 each. The alcohols and most of the utilities were easy. Losers of around a point or more included Case, Pullman, Liggett & Myers B, Chrysler, Columbian Carbon, Pathe, United States Rubber and Westinghouse. Liquid Carbonic was active at a point gain. American Telephone, United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors and many others did little.

The compromise wage agreement reached at Washington by the conference committee of railway managers and union officials removed one of the worries from the financial sector, but there was no rush to accumulate the transportation stocks. The reduction of the Consolidated Gas dividend from 75 to 50 cents was not particularly surprising to market observers.

With the new copper code going into effect today, renewed interest was shown in some of the copper issues. Phelps Dodge was aided by news that an important new ore body had been discovered in the company's property at Bisbee, Ariz.

Selling of various textile stocks was attributed partly to the recent downward pressure on rayon prices due to low silk and acetate rates.

The Bethlehem Steel report, to be made public after the close of the market, was awaited with much interest by traders and many guesses were being made as to the improvement of the corporation's business in the first quarter. At the same time Wall street was wondering if the directors might not decide to make a partial dividend payment on the Bethlehem preferred stares.

Foreign trade figures for March were considered rather optimistic, although comparisons with the same 1933 month were difficult because of the different valuations of the dollar. Exports of merchandise during the month totaled $190,000,000 against $108,015,000 in the corresponding period last year, while imports amounted to $158,000,000 compared with $94,860,000. Imports of gold totaled $37,612,000 as against $14,948,000 in the 1933 month.

FOREIGN BUYING AIDS COTTON

NEW YORK, April 26.—Cotton futures opened steady, 2 to 9 higher in response to steadier Liverpool cables and foreign trade buying. May 11.03; July 11.19; October 11.32; December 11.42; January 11.46; March 11.60.

The initial demand was supplied by overnight selling orders attributed to further liquidation of old long accounts. After selling up to 11.21 cents, with active months ruling about 2 to 3 points net higher at the end of the first half hour.

Liquidation continued later in the morning, increasing on slight bulges, and the market worked gradually lower. Selling orders came from the south in increased volume, while except for further price fixing for the trade or covering, the market seemed without much support. At midday June was selling around 11.02 and December 11.26, with active months showing net loss of 8 to 12 points.

LIVERPOOL, April 26.—Cotton, receipts, 1,000 bales, American, nil. Spot increased in demand; prices 12 points lower. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.57; good middling, 6.27; strict middling, 6.12; middling, 5.97; strict low middling, 5.82; low middling, 5.57; strict good ordinary, 5.37; good ordinary, 5.07. Futures closed steady. May, 5.71; July, 5.72; October, 5.66; December, 5.65; January, 5.65; March, 5.65.

Connellsville Coke Recession Checked

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 26.—(AP.)—The decline in Connellsville coke production was reported checked today but operators were undecided whether or not there will be any immediate increase.

It was pointed out the check may be only temporary but again it may reflect the coming of a season in which demand will be greater.

Last week's production of 8,130 tons was a slight increase over the previous week, in which 8,000 tons were produced, the high for the year was reached in March with 13,280 tons.

DISABLED VETS JOIN FIGHT ON LEAGUE

Indorsement of the Sun-Telegraph's stand against entrance of the United States into the League of Nations and World Court was received from members of Liberty Chapter No. 22, Disabled American Veterans of the World War. Curtis Haube, commander of the chapter, indorsed the move, as did many of his comrades. A petition bearing the signatures of the veterans, and a letter from Commander Haube were sent to the Sun-Telegraph.

The letter stated:

"In behalf of the members of my chapter, allow me to congratulate the Sun-Telegraph for their participation in a movement that would wipe out future wars in which the United States would be involved as a result of entering into foreign entanglements."

"Every member of this organization is an ex-service man who was wounded, gassed or otherwise disabled as a direct result of their service in the World War, and though they suffered much in defending the country they love, they have a greater right to protest against any movement of our government to 'fight other nations' battles'. America first, last and always, and minding our own affairs is a policy we should follow, and turn a deaf ear to the war lords of foreign nations."

Many petitions are still being received each day at the Sun-Telegraph office and many more are being sent out daily to all parts of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Members of American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts and the auxiliaries of the three states have petitions for circulation.

Volunteer workers also have petitions for circulation among their friends and neighbors. Any person wishing to join in this patriotic duty can obtain petitions from the League Court Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

NAME ADDRESS

Additional names may be added to this petition by pasting a sheet of paper hereto. PRESENTED through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PRANKS LAID TO SUN SPOT

CHICAGO, April 26.—(AP.)—A sun spot since last Saturday was found to have increased in diameter from 16,000 to 35,000 miles.

This, Prof. Philip Fox, director of the Adler Planetarium, said, may—

Head radio back to the days of crashing static disturbances, such as prevailed five to seven days ago;

Bring magnetic storms so intense they will disrupt transcontinental telegraph wires;

Bring a magnificent display of the Northern Lights;

A marked decrease in ultra-violet radiation from the sun;

History Textbooks Subject of Treaty

BUENOS AIRES, April 26.—(AP.)—The chancellory approved a treaty with Brazil concerning the revision of history and geography textbooks in order to eliminate references which might hurt the Brazilian national sentiment.

It also provides for exchange of cultural delegations to foster friendship between the two countries.

Grant's Kin Speaks Here Tomorrow on Defense

Tomorrow is the anniversary of the birth of President Grant and the occasion will be marked here by the visit of his granddaughter, the Princess Cantacuzene-Speransky.

The Princess is listed as one of the speakers at the national defense mass meeting to be held tomorrow night in Carnegie Music Hall.

The meeting is being held by the American Legion Auxiliary with the co-operation of more than a score of other patriotic organizations and groups.

The County Council of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has asked the public to display the American flag tomorrow as a tribute to the former president and Civil War hero.

In addition to Princess Cantacuzene-Speransky, speakers at the mass meeting will be Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, of the Officers' Reserve Corps and Gen. Churchill B. Mehard, of the Pennsylvania National Guard.

Congressman J. J. McSwain, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, who also was expected to speak, will be unable to be present.

Five-Story Building Burns in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, April 26.—(AP.)—A five-alarm fire fought by 21 downtown fire companies early today destroyed a five-story brick building occupied by the Mutual Drug Company.

Fire Chief James E. Granger said the arson squad has started an inquiry. Residents of the Alpine Hotel, nearby, were routed until the the blaze was brought under control.

PILES

Reduced without surgery!

Suffer no more! Here's real relief at last for all forms of Piles—Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding. Pazo Ointment does all the things necessary, in the manner necessary. First, it soothes—relieves the soreness and inflammation. Second, it heals—repairs the torn tissue. Third, it absorbs—dries up excess mucus and reduces the swollen blood vessels which are Piles.

In other words: Pazo doesn't merely relieve—it tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole.

The method of application makes it doubly effective. Special Pile Pipe attached to tube enables you to apply ointment high up in the rectum where it will reach all affected parts. Thousands say Pazo is the only thing that ever gave them real relief. Thousands say it saved them the need of an operation. Get Pazo today and suffer no longer.

Pinkham Medicines HELP!

Your grandmother and mine depended upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Modern women like Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets: : : chocolate coated : : : purse size package . . . for the relief of periodic pains and discomfort and female irregularities.

MRS. V. ARTHUR
54-7th Ave., Carbondale, Pa.

"I am 57 years old. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was so bad I could hardly walk around and I cannot praise it enough. I have also used the Sanative Wash and got wonderful help from it."

ANGELINE G. LAROSA
1313-5th Ave., McKeesport, Pa.

"For four years I suffered with periodic pains. My left side used to feel paralyzed and I would stay in bed two days. I had no appetite, just drank about six cups of coffee a day. I was weak and nervous. I tried all kinds of medicine without results until I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. They gave me strength and appetite. My nerves are much better and I am so relieved that I do not suffer as I used to. I recommend your medicine to every woman I come in contact with."

the new GAS REFRIGERATOR

THERE'S only one automatic refrigerator on the market today that will operate for a cost as low as 2c a day. It's the new GAS Refrigerator!

There's only one automatic refrigerator on the market today that is silent—and will always be silent. It's the new GAS Refrigerator!

There's only one automatic refrigerator on the market today that has no moving parts to vibrate, get noisy and wear out. It's the new GAS Refrigerator!

If you want the latest and most advanced type of refrigeration, you MUST choose the Gas Refrigerator. It gives you everything that other refrigerators give, plus three advantages that you simply cannot get in any other refrigerator. First, it costs only 2¢ a day to operate; second, it is completely and permanently silent because there is nothing in it that moves—nothing that can possibly make noise; and third, it has no moving parts to vibrate, to get noisy, to wear out and to require costly repair, adjustment or replacement.

So, before you buy any refrigerator, be sure to inspect the new GAS Refrigerator, and compare it point by point with other types. It is on display at your dealers—and at your Gas Company salesroom. See it today—or send in the coupon below for complete details of sizes, prices and convenient terms.

MAGIC: The same Natural Gas that serves you so well, so faithfully, and so economically in cooking your food on your Gas Range, also safeguards your food in the Modern Gas Refrigerator. A tiny gas flame operates a refrigeration system which is so simple, so silent, so safe and so economical that you ought, by all means, to investigate it before you buy any refrigerator.

FAVORITE DISHES IN ALTERED GARB

Rhubarb adn Stuffed Baked Tomatoes Enticing

With the vegetable season looming enticingly in the near-distance and gardens beginning to really look like something, housewives are delving among their recipes for dishes that will make the summer popular. Mrs. Hilda Gohl of Etna, chooses stuffed baked tomatoes for her favorite list, while Alice Rupert takes the less popular rhubarb with which to make a cobbler.

No matter what the season, eggs are always part of our daily food supply, so Prudence Penny knows you'll welcome any new and different way of preparing them. She liked Miss Elizabeth Shultz's egg a la buckingham, especially, and so is making the recipe available to you.

Why not take some time off right now and send Prudence Penny, at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, your favorite recipes. It will be well worth the time, you'll admit, if you win $5 or a $1 prize. No recipes are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. HILDA GOHL,
76 Wilson street, Etna.
STUFFED, BAKED TOMATOES

Six large tomatoes.
Two tablespoons butter.
One onion sliced.
Bit of parsley.
Two cups chopped, cooked beef or veal.
One-half cup of corn.
Two crackers, rolled.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Cut the tops off tomatoes, scoop out insides. Place butter in a frying pan and add onion and tomato pulp. Cook until onion is almost tender. Add other ingredients and cook until thick. Fill tomatoes, put tops on, and bake in moderate oven until tomato shells are tender and tops slightly browned. Serve at once.

Five $1 Prize Winners

Verona.
RHUBARB COBBLER

Two cups flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
Two tablespoons sugar.
Four tablespoons shortening.
One egg.
Three-fourths cup milk.

Mix flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening and add rest of ingredients. Spread over top of rhubarb mixture. Make four holes in top to allow steam to escape. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven, serve warm.

RHUBARB MIXTURE

Four cups diced rhubarb.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Three tablespoons flour.
Three tablespoons lemon juice.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Two tablespoons butter.

Mix rhubarb, sugar and flour. Add rest of ingredients and pour into shallow buttered baking dish. Cover with crust

MRS. C. MONIEWSKI,
10 Brightridge street.
FRUIT CANDY ROLL

One-fourth pound pitted dates.
One-fourth pound dry figs.
One-fourth pound raisins.
Eight pitted dry prunes.
Eight cooked or canned apricots.
One-half cup maraschino cherries.
One-fourth pound candied orange peel.
One-fourth pound candied lemon peel.
One-fourth pound candied pineapple.

Force ingredients through food chopper. Mix well and mold into one or two rolls measuring about one and one-half inches in diameter. Roll the rolls in ground nutmeats, powdered sugar or cocoanut. Put away in a cool place for 20 hours. Slice and serve. Each sliced piece may be wrapped in heavy wax paper.

MISS ELIZABETH SHULTZ,
Box 103, Oliphant Furnace.
EGGS A LA BUCKINGHAM

Make five slices milk toast and arrange on a platter. Use recipe for scrambled eggs—having eggs slightly underdone. Pour eggs over toast and sprinkle with four tablespoons grated mild cheese. Place in oven to melt cheese and finish cooking eggs.

MRS. GEORGE DALE,
112 Sixth street, McKeesport.
LANCASHIRE BUNS

Cream together one cup brown sugar and one cup white sugar, one scant cup lard and a little salt. Add one egg and mix well. Add one cup seedless raisins or currants, a level teaspoonful of cloves and allspice, a rounded teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, two level teaspoons of baking soda dissolved in two cups of sour milk and two cups of sifted bread flour. Mix thoroughly; drop from a spoon into greased tins. Sprinkle with brown sugar and bake 20 minutes in medium hot oven or until well done. It will make about 2½ buns.

W. J. HUGHES,
2311 Glenmore avenue, Dormont.
LOBSTER AND CAULIFLOWER

One head cauliflower.
Juice of one lemon.
One pint water.
Three tablespoons butter.
One cup lobster meat.
Three tablespoons flour.
Two cups milk.
One teaspoon salt.

Wash and trim cauliflower, leave it whole, soak in cold water with lemon juice. Put pint of water in a saucepan and add one-half teaspoon salt. Stand the cauliflower erect with the flower side up. Steam for 30 minutes. Remove to a chop plate. Surround with lobster sauce. For the lobster sauce heat the butter in a pan. Stir in lobster meat. When hot stir in the flour. When blended add the milk and one-half teaspoon of salt. Dust with pepper. Serves four.

BRUINS BEAR OUT TRAINING CAMP PREDICTIONS

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Same Fate for Two Vets.
Beaten By Buc Homers.
Luck Against '40' Group.
Lucas Pirate Yardstick.
Turf Tongue-Twisters.
Golf Economy's Effects.

Even while rejoicing over the Pirate victory, local fans had a feeling of sympathy for 40-year-old Jess Haines as he walked dejectedly from the mound at Forbes Field Tuesday, a two-run lead and a perfectly good ball game snatched out of his grasp at the last minute because he gave Freddie Lindstrom one pitch that was just a little bit too good. It was an unlucky break for one of the oldest and smartest pitchers in the majors in his efforts to get a foothold for another season. By a strange coincidence, another 40-year-old member of the Cardinal hurling staff, has had a similar experience this spring against the same Pittsburgh opponents. Burleigh Grimes gave the Bucs only one hit in three relief innings at St. Louis last week, but that one hit was a home run by Cookie Lavagetto and it cost Grimes the ball game. Thus, two 40-year-old pitchers on one club, trying to keep going for another season against younger foemen, were beaten by the same opponent within a span of only seven days, each defeat coming on a single pitch that was hit for a homer.

Jess Haines

The experiences of Grimes and Haines bring to mind that the early breaks of the season have been pathetically against the majority of the members of the 40-year-old circle in the big leagues. Babe Ruth and Sam Rice have made good starts, but the fates have dealt harshly with several others in addition to the two Cardinal pitchers. Jack Quinn was forced to the minors. Eppa Rixey and Urban Faber gave up. Rabbit Maranville will be out for many more weeks with a broken leg, if not stopped for all time. Dazzy Vance has lost his first two games. Sam Jones was walloped for four runs in the second inning of his opener, enough to cause defeat. Herb Pennock took a lacing from his former Yankee teammates, Ruth, Gehrig and Chapman all landing on him for doubles as a greeting. Joe Judge started the season at first base for the Red Sox but was benched after two games. So far, it has been a tough spring for the old boys.

FINDS MINORS BARREN OF GOOD UMPIRES

If Umpire Bill Stewart, bought from the New York-Pennsylvania League, makes good for John Heydler, the National League will have the laugh on the American, for the latter passed up the entire field of available men.

The American League chiefs would replace two or three of their umpires if substitutes could be found, but agents report that it would be easier to find some .350 hitters. Tommy Connolly, head of the staff, spent six weeks last summer scouring the minors for umpiring material, and says he did not see an official in the little leagues who could be termed as good as the lowest-ranking umpire in the American.

HORNSBY PUTS BUC CHANCE UP TO LUCAS

Elaborating on his recent sizeup of the National League race, in which, while saying the Cubs should win the pennant, he expressed the opinion that all rival clubs would have to look out for Pittsburgh, Rogers Hornsby puts the Pirate chance up to Red Lucas. The Rajah declares that if Lucas can win a dozen games for the Bucs, the Pittsburgh club will be the one to beat. If nothing more than that were necessary, local fans would be warranted in feeling pretty confident about the flag, as only twice in his major league pitching career, and then while with a weaker team than the present Rovers, did Lucas fail to win more than 12 games in a year. He won only eight in 1926 and 10 last year for the Reds.

Rogers Hornsby

Discussing his own club, the Browns, Hornsby pays a tribute to Tommy Thevenow by picking out the Pirate infielder as a standard of comparison in praising the work of one of his new infielders. He says Alan Strange has bolstered the Browns at shortstop by his excellent play, adding that "the kid is such a sure and steady fielder he reminds one of Tommy Thevenow." Hornsby played alongside Tommy in the Cardinal lineup in 1925-26.

ODD NAMES CHOSEN FOR RACE HORSES

The approach of some of the year's big turf events brings to attention again some odd names selected for race horses. Here and there you find a tongue-twister. A standing joke is to ask what some of our modern oral bookmakers and players would have done if they had been required to pronounce "Volodyovski," the name of William C. Whitney's English Derby winner of 1901, but that name is not to be compared with some of the others. The oddest name sought for a horse this year is "Syzygy," applied for by Charles Bachrach, New Orleans stable owner. And syzygy is a good English word, appears in all unabridged dictionaries, and has a variety of meanings—astronomical, zoological, algebraic, biological and poetic.

In the early days of the current century, Alfred H. Morris owned a horse bearing the name of "Huitzilopochtli," the name of an Aztec god. And in 1919 H. L. Knapp registered a steeplechaser under the name of "Houyhnhnm." This name is taken from "Gulliver's Travels," and is supposed to resemble the sound made by a whinnying horse.

MENTAL ATTITUDE MAY HURT GOLF PLAY

While the chances of the United States Walker Cup golf team have been improved by the decision of the U. S. G. A. not to require the squad to use the larger American ball on the windy St. Andrews course, some golf leaders see a possible bar to success in the mental attitude of Capt. Francis Ouimet's players. Like the Olympic athletes in one of the foreign meets, the golfers resent the economy program on which they are being sent abroad, with only $600 allowed for the expenses of each man, instead of $1,000, as on previous trips.

Francis Ouimet

The slow boat and second-class cabins made no hit with the Walker Cup players. Max Marston took one glance at the tiny room reserved for him and made a rush to engage a first-class stateroom at his own expense. It was expected that others who could afford it would do the same before the end of the trip. There has been much criticism of the economy program on the ground that the U. S. G. A. has $40,000 in its treasury and signs point to a big year for receipts at the national championships. Many think the heat of competition and the American will to win will cause the players to forget all about it when the time for the big matches arrives, but not a few argue that a disgruntled and discontented state of mind is not conducive to peak golf.

Jack Portney vs. Georgia Gibbs and Buster Brown vs. Harry Serody, 10 rounds each, Atlantic City.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

It doesn't take Ben Jeby long to get into people's hair when he blows into a town. He arrived here yesterday morning, worked out in the Pittsburgh Lyceum gym in the afternoon and before nightfall was telling everybody within earshot that it was just too bad and couldn't be helped, but he was afraid he would have to knock out A. Green, of Homestead, sometimes called Anson Green, in their 10-round main bout in the Motor Square Garden ring tomorrow night.

The man who recently lost to Ted Yarosz in a tough fight in Duquesne Garden the night A. Green tucked away Al Rossi in a punch says he knows all about Green and his wallop, and that Anson will have to carry a club into the ring with him to make an impression, adding:

"Say, what do you think I've been working out with Maxie Rosenbloom, Bob Olin and Harry Ebbetts for in New York the past week? Rosenbloom for speed, Olin for a guy who crowds you and Ebbets for his punch. Now there is a real puncher for you, that Ebbetts fellow.

KLAUS BOOSTS GREEN

"Green? A pushover. A sure-fire knockout, with Green on the receiving end. Say, is it really true that they were figuring on matching him with Yarosz? What's the matter — doesn't Teddy want to fight any more good men?"

Well, you sort of get the idea. If he'd been permitted to continue talking, he would have wound up insulting everybody in Pittsburgh, including Mayor McNair. So just switch the dial on your listening apparatus to the station which is broadcasting the Green rejoinder to this salutation and expression of good feeling and fine fellowship. Dan Clark, manager of Green, is too burned up to trust himself to say anything, and all Anson can do about it is to give everybody dark looks. He's absolutely Green with envy of a guy who can't talk such a confident fight before a single blow is tossed. But there comes to the rescue of the speechless pair one Franklin Delano Klaus, of Braddock, former middleweight champion of the world.

Says Klaus, who sometimes is called Frank for short:

"Tell that Jeby guy to go back to New York and tell that to the smart fellows there. The last time he was here he walked into a hole in the paving of one of the city streets. He's not so smart. And he'll be a lot less smart when Anson pops him with either fist. They all look good and talk all right until Anson biffs 'em, and then they wake up and say there ought to be something done about ceilings that fall on you.

ANSON INSPIRED

"I've been advising Green in his workouts all week and have had Carl Montebano working with him, and I want to go on record as saying that if he doesn't win by a knockout he'll make it the hardest fight we've seen around here in a long time. He knows none of those fellows can hurt him and that he can knock them out, and that's a great feeling to have. As a result of his new routine he'll be in finer condition than he's ever known before. I've been giving him wind sprints and other exercises, and his boxing has been brushed up with special work on developing his jab, left hook and

HELEN JACOBS TO SEEK FOUR NET TITLES

MELROSE, Mass., April 26.—(AP.)—A campaign on four international tennis fronts without a defeat, a typical Helen Wills Moody grand slam, is the 1934 ambition of that other famous California net star, Helen Jacobs, the national women's champion and captain of this year's Wightman cup team. She said:

"It's going to be a terrific job, with all of these brilliant young players springing up overnight, but I hope to be able to not only lead the Wightman Cup team to its fourth straight victory over the British but also win the British, French and Italian titles and, as a climax, gain my third straight national champoinship at Forest Hills."

Miss Jacobs, who spent the winter here with friends, dividing her time between her literary work and tennis, plans to sail for Italy Saturday, about two weeks ahead of her teammates. She had entered a tournament in Milan, along with Elizabeth Ryan, and from there she will go to the French hard court championship at Auteuil, starting on May 24. Then she will go to Wimbledon for the British championships and the international team matches.

British Golf Body Bans Enid Wilson

LONDON, April 26.—(AP.)—The Ladies' Golf Union today declined to accept the entry of Enid Wilson, defending titleholder, for the British women's golf championship, beginning at the Royal Porthcawl links, May 11. No reason was given.

Schenley Course Opens

PUBLIC WORKS DIRECTOR JOHNSTON DRIVING FIRST BALL

THE GAME OF SOFTBALL

—What It's All About—

This is the sixth installment of a series on the rules of softball being published in connection with a district amateur tournament which the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will conduct this summer, the winner of which will represent Pittsburgh in the national tournament in Chicago in September. Players are urged to clip and preserve the series.

RULE 9—FAIR HIT

1—A fair hit is a legally batted ball which settles on fair ground between home and first base, or between home and third base, or that is on fair ground when it passes first or third base, or that falls on fair territory beyond first or third base, or that, while on or over fair ground, touches the person of an umpire or player. A fair fly must be judged by the relative position of the ball and the foul-line, and not as to whether the fielder is on fair or foul ground at the time he touches the ball.

2—Any legally-batted ball which settles on foul ground is a foul, except that should a ground hit roll from foul to fair territory before it passes first base or third base, it shall be a fair hit.

3—Any legally-batted ball which strkies first base, third base, or a player occupying one of these positions is a fair hit, no matter where it finally settles on the 45-foot diamond. (A ball which hits the pitcher's slab and bounces foul before passing first or second base or being touched by a fielder is a foul ball).

4—Home plate is fair territory, and any legally-batted ball which hits home plate and settles in fair territory is a fair hit, provided it is not on foul ground when it passes first or third base.

RULE 10—FOULS

1—A foul is a legally-batted ball which settles on foul territory between home and first base or home and third base, or that is in foul territory while passing first or third base, or that, while on or over foul territory, touches the person of any player or umpire.

2—A foul tip is a ball hit by the batsman while standing in his box, which goes sharp and direct from the bat to the catcher. Foul tips, whether caught by the catcher or not, are strikes unless the batter already has two strikes called on him. Any foul tip which is caught before touching the ground, or before lodging in the catcher's equipment shall be called a strike.

ATHLETES LEAD IN STUDIES

By JULIUS LEVIN

Two seniors at East Pittsburgh High School, both sterling athletes, have proved to the student body that participation in sports does not serve as a barrier to scholastic attainment.

Joe Grabowski, star fullback of the 1933 football team, which was defeated in a post-season game for the class B championship of the W. P. I. A. L. by Mt. Pleasant High School, will be graduated with highest honors, this boy having compiled an enviable average of 95 and a fraction for his four years in school.

Running second to Grabowski for scholastic laurels is none other than Robert Clougherty, brilliant end on the football team and star forward on the basketball team, whose four-year record averages 94 and a fraction. Clougherty, besides his sterling play on the football team, has been a member of the basketball quintet which has won the Section XVII championship three years in succession and which has been undefeated in league competition during that period of time.

Both Clougherty and Grabowski plan to continue their studies in college. While neither has made any definite announcement as to where he plans to matriculate, Clougherty is said to be headed for Duquesne University while Grabowski likely will enroll at the University of Pittsburgh.

Only one date is open on the 1934 football schedule at East Pittsburgh High School and this date, October 12, likely will be filled before the season gets under way. The eight games already slated follow:

September 14—South Fayette at East Pittsburgh.
September 22—McKees Rocks at East Pittsburgh.
September 29—Freedom at East Pittsburgh.
October 6—East McKeesport at East Pittsburgh.
October 12—Open.
October 20—East Pittsburgh at Elizabeth.
October 27—East Pittsburgh at Jeannette.
November 3—East Pittsburgh at Edgewood.
November 10—East Pittsburgh at Glassport.

Yesterday's Stars In Major Leagues

Danny MacFayden, Yankees—Held Athletics to eight hits to win 3-2.

Pat Malone and Bill Jurges, Cubs—Former held Reds to six hits, latter clouted home run and double.

Monte Pearson, Indians—Limited Browns to seven hits, fanning six.

PAY REDUCTION, JOB THREATS SPUR CUBS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The furious pace of the undefeated Cubs has set the baseball world agog, but the drive of the Bruins is not in the nature of a surprise to the Pirates who battled the Chicogoans in California.

Chuck Klein will be heralded as the big reason for the rejuvenation of the Bears, and while Chuck has been coming through with a lot of timely swats, the members of the Pittsburgh club look elsewhere for the cause of the victory march.

Drastic cuts in salaries for many of the Cubs owning heavy pay checks, together with an ultimatum to stay in condition to deliver, are pointed out by the Buccos as the real reason for the reversal of form shown by Lefty Grimm's team.

OFFICIALS WARN ATHLETES

One of the star hurlers of the Chicago team was forced to take a cut of something like $8,000 this year, and another signed at a $5,000 reduction. In the latter case the hurler was told he would have to stay in condition "or else."

And you see what has happened. Grimm's fireball sharpshooters, and he has plenty, have been throwing the ball past the enemy hitters to date. When the Cubs riddled the Reds in three straight games, there was a feeling that they would be slowed up when they ran into top competition. But they raced over to St. Louis and took the measure of Frisch's Cardinals in two games, before they went back to stage the home opener.

The Buccos and Bruins fought to a standstill in eight clashes staged in Los Angeles, each team winning four games. But Klein was hitting like a pitcher in these games. In any event, the Pirates were convinced that the Cubs were set for a big year.

ROOKIE OUTFIELDER STARS

Klein doubtless will be a big aid to the club, but a kid named Tut Stainback may steal the show from Chuck and the other bigtimers ere the season is half done. This fleet-footed boy is another Cuyler in that he does everything correctly and apparently he loves the game. Stainback is "in there" and Cuyler has been out with injuries. When Kiki returns it is possible that Babe Herman will be relegated to a seat on the bench, although Boss Charley is not apt to unlock a winning combination.

Stainback, like Cuyler, can play any of the outfield positions. He is a ball hawk and the good baserunners of the league will think twice before they take any liberties with his arm.

The Cincinnati Reds will make their season's bow in Pittsburgh tomorrow when they open a three-game series with the Pirates. The third game will inaugurate Sunday baseball in Pittsburgh. Many notables will attend this epochal contest, including Judge Landis, commissioner of baseball, and John K. Tener, former Governor of Pennsylvania and one-time president of the National League.

ALLISON BEATS LOCAL NETTER

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 26.—(AP.)—Four ranking tennis stars have won their way to the semi-finals in the singles division, while the same four became the finalists in the men's doubles of the Virginia state tennis tournament.

In singles matches Shields defeated Walter Martin, of Toronto, 6-1, 6-4. Stoefen won from J. Gilbert Hall, of New York, 7-5, 7-5; Van Ryn whipped Edward Fuller, of Salem, Mass., 9-7, 6-2, and Wilmer Allison defeated Charles Lockhart, of Pittsburgh, 6-3, 6-2.

Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER
Former Star, Now Coach of the Pirates

To the Sports Editor: Baseball's one business, or game, where they won't be able to do away with competition. Just let a player slump and see how soon his competitor for the job takes it away.

That's why I like it. Everybody knows that unless they are on their toes every minute they'll be sitting on the bench. Honus Wagner

How would it be if we had, say, one Senator, and two substitute Senators. Then, if the Senator doesn't keep up the good work in Washington, why, he would be told to sit on a bench say, along the Potomac river, until he gets back his voting eyes.

But I'm not going to try to kid anybody in these dispatches because I think those fellers are trying their best and that's all you can ask of anyone.

Regards,
HONUS WAGNER.

BRAVES HIT STRIDE, GAIN IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

YANKS TAKE FIRST PLACE IN AMERICAN

Associated Press.

Despite the manifest difficulties of having to get along without Rabbit Maranville, who is something of an institution as second baseman and "sparkplug" of the Braves, Bill McKechnie and his club are acting as if they intended to go places in the National League.

The Braves swung into their stride Sunday when they gave the Giants their first defeat of the season, and since then they have added a pair of victories over the Dodgers to go into a tie with Brooklyn for fourth place in the standing. They spotted the boys from Flatbush four runs in yesterday's encounter, then rode up from behind on Hal Lee's slugging to win, 9-4.

LEE HITS HOMER

Lee made it almost a personal triumph. He smacked Van Mungo for a homer with two mates aboard in the fourth to tie the score, then pounded in two more runs with a two-bagger in the seventh.

The Chicago Cubs continued their perfect start-off-season by downing the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 1, for their seventh consecutive triumph. Except for Pat Malone, who hurled six-hit ball, the Cubs didn't do a lot to help themselves, but the Reds made sure of losing by committing five errors.

The New York Yankees, still in the unfamiliar role of a "hitless" club, continued to furnish the American League headlines by trimming the Athletics, 3 to 2, and going to the top of the standing. The Yanks got only six hits off young Alton Benton and Bob Kline, but bespectacled Danny MacFayden hurled expertly and Benton's wildness in the fourth started a two-run rally.

TIGERS BEATEN

Detroit and Cleveland wound up in a second-place tie as the Indians defeated the St. Louis Browns, 5-1, and Chicago's White Sox handed the Tigers a 3-2 setback.

Cold weather forced postponement of the Boston-Washington clash in the American League and the St. Louis-Pittsburgh and New York-Philadelphia games in the National.

P. T. A. CONFAB ON TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The third meeting of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association executive committee in as many Thursdays is on schedule this afternoon at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club. As in the previous conclaves, discussion will center around make-up of the three wheels of the Inter-Club League and it is hoped that on this occasion a final decision may be possible.

Word from Dr. W. S. McElroy, chairman of the P. A. A. tennis committee, confirms absolutely the continuance of the championship Winged Head squad as a contender for circuit honors. Doubt as to whether or not the organization would have courts available this summer was solved favorably at a pow-wow of P. A. A. authorities earlier in the week and the announcement that Dr. Dave O'Loughlin will once more lead his well-balanced host in quest of the Davis Keg promptly was forthcoming. There is even, indeed, an outside chance that the Red and Gray will sponsor a new second crew in the lower division.

Feasibility of another pre-campaign doubles soiree patterned after the highly successful indoor affair at the Pittsburgh Golf Club last May also is likely to come up for determination. It is most probable that such an event, featuring pick-up doubles and buffet supper, will be staged.

Meanwhile Dr. Dave O'Loughlin's Pitt varsity net host is primed for two-day invasion of West Virginia. The Panthers cavort with West Virginia University at Morgantown tomorrow and with Bethany on the Bison campus Saturday. Wash-Jeff visits Bethany tomorrow and treks cross-country to Beaver Falls for a clash with Geneva the ensuing day, while the Dukes await long-postponed action on the Bluff asphalt, whither Grove City will jaunt for the local inaugural Saturday. Carnegie Tech, whose opener with the Dukes was adjourned from yesterday till next month, will not get under way until next Tuesday, when the Skibos will travel to little Washington for struggle with W. & J.

No college competition is slated for today, but the Interscholastic Conference, cheated of its Monday inaugural card by wet grounds, is down for action. The following tilts are booked this afternoon in the three suburban sections:

Section I—Arnold School at Duquesne University Preps.

Section III—Wilkinsburg at Munhall; Swissvale at Turtle Creek Union.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: CHURCH OF THE PAVEMENT STONE—Tsar Alexander II was assassinated by a nihilist on March 13, 1881. An expiatory church was erected on the spot which is the most sumptuous in all Leningrad. It is all marble, silver, gold and precious stones, richly ornamented. At the entrance under a baldachin of precious marble lies the bloody pavement stone and a piece of the balustrade on which the emperor leaned when he was struck down. This is the most important exhibit in the church and the grandiose edifice was built for the purpose of housing it.

SWEENEY WINS TWO BOUTS

Leo Sweeney, hard-punching Allegheny Mountain Association senior lightweight champion, of the Pittsburgh Boys' Club, pulled an iron man stunt last night as he boxed and won two bouts on the program of the Spartan Club, of Wilkinsburg.

Leo first whipped Andy Tortortice, of the Monon Valley A. C., and then came back to leather Charley Burley, A. M. A. junior-lightweight champion. The summary:

112-pound class—Abe Russell defeated Eddie Tuscher.

Rangers Capture Scottish Soccer Title

LONDON, April 26.—(AP.)—Glasgow Rangers yesterday completed a double in Scottish Football Association competition as it added the league championship to the cup it won Saturday.

By defeating Falkirk, 3-1, the Rangers made victory certain with only two games left to play. Motherwell, holder of second place, already has completed its schedule.

POLLY BROWN REPORTED IN BOOKS' FOLD

Polly Brown, who last year cavorted for the Gillespies, of Brentwood, in the City League, and the Scott Morgans in the Greater Pittsburgh circuit, is reported to have signed to play with the champion Book nine in the City loop this year.

With Walter Kimmick signed by Harrisburg, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, and Jiggers Welsh, star utility performer, scheduled to handle the first base job, it is believed that Eddie Buch has secured a valuable performer for his outfield in Brown.

Brown has had plenty of experience in the City League and is a great favorite out Bloomfield way. Polly is a timely hitter, getting extra base drives that count heavily at Olympia Park. With Soapy Heyl, Gibson and Brown, the Books will have a trio that will compare with any outfield in the league.

The Beltzhoover club posted its forfeit yesterday with President Everett Sweeny, of the league. All of the clubs have their playing nights set and the league prexy is working on the schedule. The schedule, with its three nights of action one week and two the next, and the problem of keeping the clubs from playing in competition with other circuits, is difficult to complete.

All managers must have their list of players who will take part in the opening games in President Sweeny's hands by next Monday. The league pilots have been hampered to a considerable degree by the cold weather, which has prevented many real practice sessions being held. The managers are being swamped with telephone calls from players who count themselves City League talent.

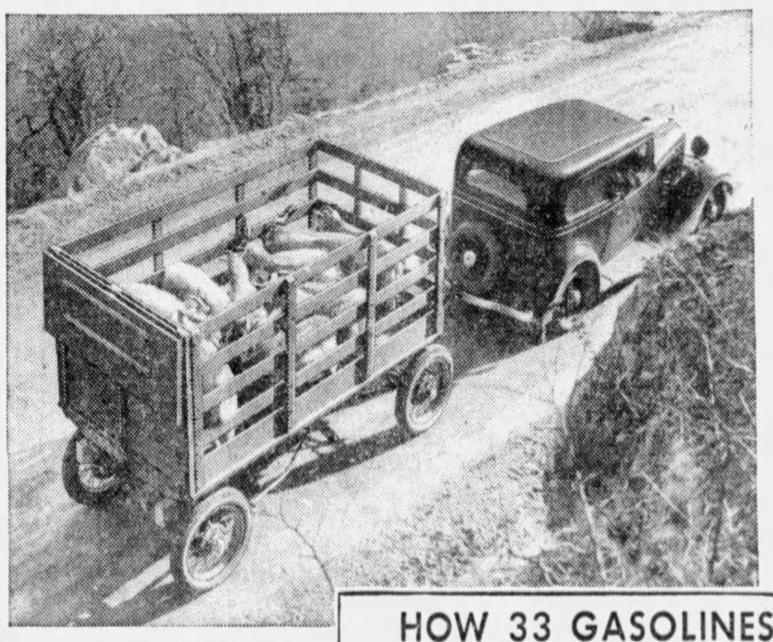
33 GASOLINES TAKE "HILL TESTS" GULF WINS 7 OUT OF 12 TIMES!



LOOKOUT MT., TENN., where a borrowed Chevrolet, running in high gear and hauling 3200 lbs of goats, tested 13 brands of gasolines. GULF WON!

IS there a difference in gasolines? READ THIS

Tests on famous American hills—from Massachusetts to South Carolina—prove that the power of gasolines selling at the same price vary widely!

In each of these tests, gasolines bought from local service stations competed to see which could propel a car and heavy load up hill farthest before the motor stalled. Results?...

SCHENLEY LINKS OPEN

PUBLIC COURSE IN FINE TRIM FOR SEASON

By TOM BIRKS

Frigid breezes failed to dampen the enthusiasm of Schenley Park golfers this morning when, to the accompaniment of the cheers of hundreds of golf devotees, Leslie M. Johnston, director of Public Works, drove the first ball down No. 1 fairway, and the season as far as the municipal links is concerned officially was on.

Mayor William N. McNair, introduced to the crowd, refused to hit a ball from the first tee. Supt. J. J. Moore, of the city parks; Walter Phillips, John J. Burke, Joan Wallerstedt, Bobby Merker, Bob Graham, Marty Boschert, Mrs. Margaret Curry, Women's city champion, and Johnny Filbin hit balls down the first fairway. J. D. O'Neil, public links commissioner of the United States Golf Association, introduced the notables.

PHILLIPS PRO

Walter Phillips, city champion in 1931, greeted golfers as the new professional, replacing Bob Graham. Johnny Filbin is handling the clerkship job and also that of caddiemaster, replacing Tom O'Keefe and Andy Petrolio. Direction of the caddies and their duties will come under the control of four captains to be named by Phillips and Filbin.

Greenskeeper John Kauffmann has the course in great shape, in fact it was the opinion of veteran golfers that the Schenley layout never looked better. The closing of the roadway across the Nos. 2, 3 and 4 fairways, long advocated by golfers, has added much to the [illegible] of the course.

This is opening day also at the Greensburg Country Club. Professional Perry Del Vecchio has scheduled many tourneys for the season. A match and medal play event, together with a kickers' handicap, attracted a large turnout to the popular Westmoreland County course. The day of golf is to be followed by a dinner and bridge in the spacious club house this evening. A membership drive has added many members to the club.

The Chartiers Heights Country Club is holding a stag tonight, with plenty of entertainment planned for the members.

The University of Pittsburgh golf team made it three straight at the expense of the Carnegie Tech niblick wielders yesterday afternoon, the Panthers taking the Tartans into camp by a 16-to-2 score.

WOLFF WINS AGAIN

Regis Wolff, Panther captain, garnered all three points from Jack Reese, while Claude McKee, No. 2 player for the Blue and Gold, took the same number of points from Joel Haverstick, the Tartan captain.

King, of Tech, got one-half a point from Wasco; Decker, of Pitt, collected two points from Herron, and Ferrera, of Pitt, lost half a point to Pally, of the Skibos. Bryan, of Pitt, a newcomer to the lineup, collected all three points from Hart, his Plaid opponent.

Wolff and McKee had two great rounds, the Panther stars each having a 77 which is mighty good golf on a slow course.

Denny Shute, British open champion, was another golfer to discover that beating Emil Loeffler at Oakmont is a tough job. Denny paired up with his manager, Pete Henry, yesterday, while the famous Dutch had H. C. Fownes II for a partner. The Oakmont combination won, 1 up.

The home pair was 1 up at the turn, and maintained that advantage until the finish of the match.

U. S. Soccer Team Practices in Philly

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—(AP.)—The pick of this country's soccer players are practicing together preparatory to the world championship tourney in Rome next month.

Reporting yesterday, they went to the University of Pennsylvania field for a brief workout. Sunday they will play the Eastern Pennsylvania and District team, and on Wednesday will meet an all-star lineup from the Pennsylvania League. Leaving for New York next Thursday they will play the New Jersey State Association the next day and sail Saturday.

Springfield Adopts Name of Pirates

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 26.—(AP.)—It's the "Pirates" now as the tag for Springfield's team in the Middle Atlantic League.

The change from the "Chicks" was made in deference to Pittsburgh of the National League, which is backing the club here.

A. A. U. Notes

The Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. senior swimming championships will be awarded at a meeting at A. A. U. headquarters in the Vanderbrink Building Sunday.

The Oriole A. C., of Duquesne, has applied for membership in the A. A. U. It is preparing a team for the track and field season.

Local Star Loses In Pinehurst Play

PINEHURST, N. C., April 26.—(INS.)—Dick Wilson, former Georgetown ace, has gained the final round of the mid-April golf tournament here by defeating Halbert Blue, Pittsburgh veteran, yesterday, 6 and 5.

His opponent today will be Francis C. Robertson, 52-year-old Manchester, Vt., player, who eliminated R. P. Davidson, Washington, 3 and 2, with a great rally after being 4 down at the end of the first six holes.

Pitt Stars Depart For Penn Relays

Enough track and field stars to form five relay teams left the University of Pittsburgh this morning for Philadelphia to represent the Panthers in the Penn relays. The squad is traveling in machines.

The Panthers' mile quartet will be composed of Bill Keller, Freddie Kiger, Harold Connelly and Everett McDonald.

Reds Sign Rookie On Prof's Say So

BERKELEY, Cal., April 26.—(AP.)—Because a University of California professor, Charles E. Chapman, is willing to back his baseball judgment against that of owners of the Oakland club, Mervyn Connors, young infielder, is en route East today for a tryout with the Cincinnati Reds.

PENN STATE WINS

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 26.—Fine relief pitching by Petke, who checked Muhlenberg's heavy hitters in the last inning, enabled Penn State's varsity nine to defeat Muhlenberg here yesterday, 8 to 7.

DERBY RANKING JUSTIFIED BY CAVALCADE

BALTIMORE, April 26.—(AP.)—With a smashing, record-equaling performance, Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade, highly regarded eastern candidate for the Kentucky Derby, justified his short odds in the future books yesterday when he soundly whipped six other eligibles in the Shenandoah Purse at Havre de Grace.

Starting his 3-year-old campaign, after a successful juvenile career, Cavalcade sped around the mile and 70 yards in 1:41 4-5 to equal the track mark, hung up by Osculator in 1932. At the finish he was breezing two lengths in front of Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian, second in the Florida Derby. Another four lengths to the rear followed C. V. Whitney's filly Jabot.

Cavalcade looked like a champion under the guidance of Mack Garner as he came from off the pace to score as his rider pleased.

Panthers Get Rifle Awards Tomorrow

The University of Pittsburgh R. O. T. C. rifle team will receive cups and medals for winning the Third Corps Area R. O. T. C. and intercollegiate sectional titles at a ceremony in connection with the weekly review at Ruskin Field, opposite the Cathedral of Learning, at 1 p. m. tomorrow. Col. Harry N. Cootes, Third Corps Area R. O. T. C. officer, will make the presentations.

The following members of the R. O. T. C. team will receive awards: A. R. Davis, R. R. Weitershausen, C. Zoller, Jr., W. A. Frabotta, D. A. Atkinson, A. T. Duff, L. A. Shapira, J. C. Duff, L. C. Truman, A. R. Dixon.

The following members of the varsity squad that won their shoulder-to-shoulder sectional title at Cincinnati will receive medals: C. Zoller, Jr., A. R. Davis, R. R. Weitershausen, J. C. Duff, J. P. Mastrucci, W. O. Frabotta. The two title winning teams were coached by Lieut. A. E. Wilson and Sergt. A. A. Gunter.

Cronin Benches Three Regulars

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP.)—Three punchless erstwhile regulars of the Washington Senators were scheduled to take their baseball on the bench in today's game with the Boston Red Sox. Manager Joe Cronin said:

Names in News

The OIL CITY Y. M. C. A. volleyball team is on its way to Knoxville, Tenn., to compete in the national tournament scheduled in that city.

Answering a suit for judgment against him for $1,116, JACK KEARNS, former manager of JACK DEMPSEY and now handler of MICKEY WALKER, announced in court at Los Angeles that he was penniless.

MERCERSBURG ACADEMY has declined an offer to appear in an EAST-WEST football game in Los Angeles on December 22.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LIV.

"When you're not busy, I have something to show you."

Pippin shoved the books from her, got up from the stool and followed him. It was Saturday. She had been working since noon. It was now 6 o'clock. This was the first time she had seen Kevin.

"It's interesting, isn't it?" said he, putting a slide under the microscope and making room for her. "You've probably not seen that before. That's the way blood looks in pernicious anemia. You notice all those young cells? Nature, desperately trying to make up the deficiency, manufactures them in the marrow and flings them into the blood stream. A brave but a lost battle."

"Do you mean this patient is going to die?"

"She is dying now. Any moment it will be all over."

"I hope," said Pippin, "that it's an old woman who has lived richly with many loves and many beauties in her life."

"It's a young woman—a very attractive woman. She's been married four years and is leaving a man of 27 with two babies, one of them just six months old."

Inquires About Bill

"Does she know she's dying?"

"She knows it but she won't give in. Sheer fight, sheer beautiful nerve has kept her alive this last month. She can't hold out more than a day or two longer."

He was standing just behind her and now, seeing her sag a little, put his hands on her shoulders, lowered his head so that his cheek almost brushed hers.

"I didn't mean to be so depressing."

She stood very quiet with her heart racing and a wonder in her mind. What was there about Kevin's hands, about his face near hers that swept her with fire; made him different from all others—unique, overwhelming, beloved? She knew that he smiled and looked at her closely.

"You've been having a good time, haven't you, Pippin?"

"Yes—wonderful."

"I heard that Bill flew here from Boston. He must be a good pilot. Do you like flying?"

"Yes. There's only one thrill I've ever had that surpasses it."

"And what was that?"

"When you skied with me down the steep, steep mountain and we seemed winging through space. That was a greater thrill."

"I think so, too. I flew quite a bit in Europe. There's nothing that surpasses the excitement and joy of flying across the English Channel and finding yourself in a few hours transported from French to British soil. But it's even more inspiring to skim through the air on your own. Next year, I'll teach you to jump."

Surprised in Bill

For no reason at all, Pippin found her heart singing a gay little tune. Kevin said, "Next year I'll teach you," so casually as though nothing in the world had power to interfere with his plans. He alone was the master!

"You went right back to Palo Alto Thursday, didn't you?"

"Yes. How did you know?"

"I phoned Thursday night. I had the evening free. Thought maybe you were home and would spend it with me. I was very much surprised in Bill."

"In what way?"

Kevin's eyes narrowed teasingly: "You didn't do him justice. I was prepared for a mere boy."

Said Pippin reddening: "It's nearly three years since he went away. He seems so much older, so much stronger."

"And so much more attractive, Pippin? Do you think you would like flying as a career? You may forsake science? I've been a bit worried about that."

She looked quietly into Kevin's eyes. "I love to fly. I've had a gorgeous time. But I'm not giving up science. I've not made the slightest change in any of my plans!"

She loitered as she put on her hat. She dabbed powder on her nose, wiped it off and brushed it on again . . . deliberately slow; wondering if Kevin would ask a date for tonight—this Saturday which she had denied to Gregg; denied to Bill, all in the hope Kevin would be lonesome and want to take her out.

Refuses Date

He came from his desk and stood at the entrance of the tiny dressing room. He held her coat and arranged the bunch of ringlets, closing his fist over them and opening it as though he liked the silky texture.

"Is your car down town? Too
I wanted to drive you
?"
o you want to come and dinner with us?"

"No. I can't take that much time. I have some work here that must be finished. Besides you'll be going out dancing."

"That's a bright idea. Make up for lost time."

She felt painfully, unaccountably red with shame.

When Bill phoned at eight o'clock with a happy: "Thought I'd take a chance, Pippin. Have you changed your plans? Would you like to go dancing somewhere with me?"

She answered quickly: "I'd love it!"

Half an hour later came a box of orchids—a mass of them with deep purple centers. They were arranged to droop over the shoulder. With them came a pair of flower-pins. These were set with amethysts.

"And now you don't quite know what to do about it?"

"What do you mean, mother? Why do you look at me in that odd way?"

But Chickie was thinking of Jake; the royal gifts he threw at her feet. How airily she dismissed him.

Pippin said loyally: "I like Bill enormously! I LOVE to go out with him. He's very carefree, so it's altogether pleasant!"

She put on a new white tulle that had a sash of lavender velvet. It was a gauzy, delicate thing and with her hair fluffed out as Bill liked it, she looked etereal — dewy — startlingly young.

She ran down the stairs, hearing the bell ring. To her surprise—to her shock, Kevin and not Bill entered.

When he saw Pippin, he stood perfectly quiet, staring at her. Then he said in an odd tone: "How are you? I've never seen you in white." And followed her into the little room with a casual: "Where are you going?"

"Dancing."

"I thought you were staying home to study."

Kevin Compliments Her

"I intended to—then Bill wanted the date."

"You have your hair fixed differently. Why have you changed it?"

"I didn't mean to startle you, Pippin."

But he walked up to her and stood very near, looking down at the flowers and her averted face.

"They're lovely," he said, taking a petal and pressing it in his fingers. "What time are you leaving?"

"Soon—any time."

"Where is your father?"

"In his study. Did you come to see him?"

"Yes. We're going over this paper. I thought you knew it. I thought you might help with the phrasing. You're good at that, aren't you?"

She answered, aching and her eyes suddenly filled: "No one told me!"

"Would you have stayed—given up the dance?"

"Of course I would!"

Then Kevin laughed: a happiness grew in his rich dark eyes. He stooped down and whispered with his lips near Pippin's ear: "Then it's all right, sweetheart! Now I'll be able to work. You look beautiful. You are beautiful!"

The memory of his hands, of his eyes, of his voice caressed her, weaved through the dance like a dream of joy.

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college and has Vivian Drake as a room mate. Vivian's love affair with Sherry wanes. Vivian disappears and sends a suicide note. Kevin returns. Edward's family and Pippin disapprove of his choice of a bride. Kevin kisses Pippin while on skiing party. Kevin disappoints Pippin, but saves a man's life.

CUSTER'S LAST STAND AGAINST THE SIOUX INDIANS (1876)

Besides political struggles, Grant's administration was disturbed by continuous Indian uprisings, over Western expansion of the Whites. In 1876 the war with the Sioux and Modocs under Chief Sitting Bull (their 'great medicine man') ensued over the invasion by miners of the Black Hills (Wyo., S. D.) upon discovery of gold. The most disheartening event was the massacre of Gen. Custer and his entire command of about 270 men, at Little Big Horn, Mont., June 25, 1876. Sitting Bull escaped to Canada. Not before 1887 could the Indians be pacified, when the Dawes Act made citizenship, homestead or maintenance on reservations available to Indians. Sitting Bull, pardoned, returned in 1880, again incited Indians and resisting Indian police was killed 1890.(U.S History)

VICTOR EMMANUEL II MEETS GARIBALD (1860)

Italian patriots—their uprisings against Austria in the first half of the 19th century crushed—looked upon Victor Emmanuel II, King of Sardinia, as promising leader in their struggle for a united Italy. Emmanuel's great statesman, Count Cavour, had secured an alliance with Napoleon III, French Emperor (1852), friendship of England by participating in the Crimean War (1854-1856). With French help Sardinia warred successfully in 1859 against Austria, gaining Lombardy. Guiseppe Garibaldi, an Italian patriot, brought Naples and Sicily under his dictatorship in 1860, but withdrew in favor of a united Italy under the reign of King Victor Emmanuel II. Map shows the Italian Independencies with dates of annexation to Sardinia, fused to the Kingdom of Italy. (World History)

BATHROOMS, OLD AND NEW—AMERICA AND THE BATHTUB

Norsemen assembled in a log-clay wash-hut, water was poured on heated stones; in steam so generated they beat each other with soft switches, finishing "bath" with shower.

The bathtub was invented by Lord Russel of England (1830), introduced in the United States by Adam Thompson, who built a lead-lined mahogany tub in his house. Va. taxed bathtubs $30 annually. Boston made bathing unlawful except on med. advice.

Today the bathroom with enameled or porcelain tub and other appliances is standard requirement of home-hygiene.

LEATHERSTOCKING TALES—LAST OF MOHICANS

Leatherstocking Tales (publ. 1826-1841) by James Fenimore Cooper are great novels of the wilderness and contributions of original characters to the literature of the world. The hero Natty Bumpo (modeled perhaps after Daniel Boone) the backwoods philosopher, though unschooled, is moved by noble impulse, piety and justice; he is the first real American in fiction. Cooper created the Indian of literature. Chingachgook, Uncas, Hist and the Huron warriors, rather idealized than true, will live forever. (Eng. Lit.)

CELLS IN HUMAN BLOOD; THEIR ORIGIN

Besides red and white blood corpuscles, human blood contains small, colorless, amoeboid platelets (2-400,000 per cu. mm.), which furnish some substance necessary for clotting; also "blood dust" haemoconien), small colorless granules, having rapid Brownian movement in the serum. Their purpose is not known. Red cells originate before birth in liver, spleen and red marrow of bones; after birth in endothelial cells of blood capillaries or in red marrow. From the white cells, the leucocytes derive from bone marrow, the lymphocytes from reticular tissue of lymph nodes of the body. 64-III-A

BLAST FURNACE WITH AIR-PREHEATERS

Iron is obtained largely from its oxides (mostly hematite), freed from oxygen by carbon monoxide and from most of the impurities with limestone (the flux), which fuses with them, forming slag. This process is carried out in the blast furnace, giving pig-iron (so called from the chunks, cast formerly in sand around furnace, the scene resembling little pigs about their mother). Sand is used as flux, if ores are basic; carbonate ore (siderite) is converted first into oxide by roasting. The blast furnace is a round, tall, fire-brick structure in a steel shell (above).

Its main parts (from bottom up): 1 Crucible (holds molten iron, has tuyeres, pipes, through which hot air is blown-in; tap hole, for discharge of molten iron and a cinder-notch to let out slag). 2, Bosh (hottest part for combustion and fusion). 3, Stack (for fill of coke, flux, ore). 4, Charging-floor (for receiving and dumping material). Combustion gases of blast furnace contain CO; they are led into stoves with checker brickwork; CO is burned with air to heat bricks. Then air is pumped through, is preheated and compressed to furnish the hot blast led by the tuyeres into the bosh. (Chemistry)

Bottles, Ceremonies and Boats

We watched with interest the first launching ceremonies under the newer and wetter conditions.

Which include a bottle of champagne and a bit of toast. For 14 years our boats were dedicated with nothing stronger than a siphon of soda and a fond hope.

Naturally, when repeal burst into bloom, the cry went up, "Who remembers how to dedicate a battleship?"

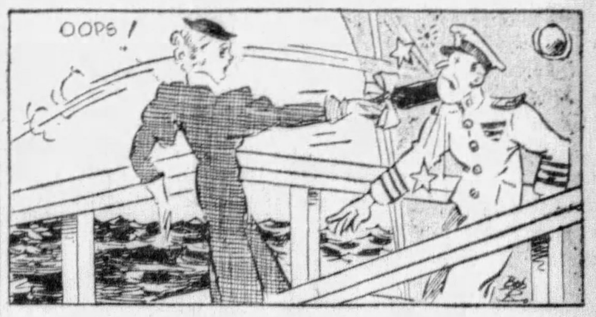
You've got to be slim and pretty in the marine chutes They finally decided to grab one young and train her. Handing her a bottle of shampunk they taught her a stance, an approach and a follow through.

Her first swing with the bottle looked like an abortive attempt to brain the butler.

Her second swing missed the boat and lowbridged the admiral. He was smacked on the chest so hard his epaulets fluttered three times and then flew away.



Her next and last strike crashed in the hull of the boat. If the rehearsal hadn't been in dry dock all hands would have sunk.

However, she did pretty well on the crucial day of the real launching. But it proves that battleboat dedicating is an art that is conquered only with much champagne and should be taught in public schools.

We're sending a memo to Congress on that item now. We must not allow foreign nations to say that we haven't got a gal who can swing a bottle of wine either in fun or in anger.

The proper finesse in cracking the decanter is to spray both the boat and the guests with the juice of the grape. An admiral standing under a shower of champagne looks very grateful and well fed

One bottle to a boat is the ratio. That's not much to waste. Nevertheless, it is waste. And, when a lady is about to smash a bottle of wine we think a gentleman should grasp her arm.

We know they will continue to crack bottles in spite of this protest. But, remember, they are doing it over our veto,

An Obsolete System

Many Counties, Formed in Oxcart Days, Should Be Consolidated.

How best to modernize the obsolete system of county government, under which nearly every state of the Union suffers today, is one of the vital problems under discussion at this year's session of the institute of public affairs, which is conducted annually by the University of Chattanooga.

One of the speakers before the institute—Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority—is a convincing advocate of reform in county government by means of consolidation.

Investigation by the Tennessee Valley Authority of the counties within its jurisdiction shows that they were organized to fit transportation methods now obsolete.

Dr. Morgan's belief is that a quarter as many counties would be sufficient to serve that area and would greatly reduce the tax burden of the citizens who support this system of government, which is a hand-me-down from the days of the oxcart.

In support of his recommendation for county mergers, Dr. Morgan says:

"Our counties were organized more than a century ago when there were no good roads. Counties were large enough so that one could ride horseback to the county seat and get back by nightfall. With modern roads and automobiles a man travels as far in half an hour as one did then in half a day.

"We have made investigations in counties in the Tennessee Valley area. We find that in some of them the work of an entire week can be done in half a day. In some courthouses, the officers are present only on Saturdays. The people of the county are straining themselves to keep up the costs of a county government that is busy only one-tenth of the time.

"They are going without essential services in public health, in public schools, in agriculture and other services, where this money might be used if county and local government were properly organized. That is a problem so obvious that it doesn't take much imagination to see it.

"A consolidation of counties would more than cut in two the cost of local government, and greatly improve its quality. It would, however, interfere with personal interests to make such a simplification. There would be officeholders whose positions would be eliminated.

"Of course the Tennessee Valley Authority has no control over county government in the region except the control of suggestion and fact-finding. We can find the facts and say to the people of this region, 'Your officials are working for you less than 10 per cent of the time. You could consolidate five or 10 counties so that those people could be working full time. If you still want to pay the taxes, you can pay them for things more vital than paying people for sitting on the steps of the courthouse doing nothing."

In state after state today, our overburdened taxpayers are "paying people for sitting on the steps of the county court house" doing nothing. To tax our citizens for the support of such political parasites is "legalized larceny."

And one way to stop this waste of the people's hard-earned money is by the consolidation of counties in every state in the Union and by the abolition of the country unit in metropolitan areas.

Dangerous Drivers

Not Only Drunken Men, But Drinking Men Are a Menace on the Highways.

There were 30 per cent more traffic deaths in Pittsburgh during the first three months of 1934 than in the first three months of last year. Child fatalities in this period were 10, as compared with six in the first quarter of 1933.

FIVE TIMES AS MANY DRIVERS AND TWICE AS MANY PEDESTRIANS WERE IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS INVOLVING LIQUOR THIS YEAR AS IN THE CORRESPONDING PERIOD LAST YEAR.

With the exception of crossing in mid-block, liquor, the bureau reports, was the greatest single factor involved in adult pedestrian accidents.

It is unsafe to use the highways either as a motorist or pedestrian unless in full possession of one's wits.

Not only the drunken driver but the drinking driver is a menace. A motorist may be able to walk straight and to talk coherently; he may not be drunk as many define the word; and yet if his mind is the least little bit befuddled as the result of alcoholic indulgence he may be incapable of giving that close attention to the road that is essential to safety.

The many accidents now occurring at night during what the Bureau of Traffic Planning calls "the recreation hours" teach this lesson:

Persons who have been drinking during the evening, even not drunk, should let someone else do the driving, or take street car or taxicab. It is dangerous to go home on foot, if is necessary to cross streets on which there is much traffic. Liquor and automobiles do not get along well together.

A Costly Blunder

The Mistake Made in the Stoops Ferry Road Should Be Corrected Immediately.

Because of a blunder made by the county authorities in the reconstruction of the road between Stoops Ferry and Shousetown—a road used by County Commissioner C. C. McGovern in going to his Moon Township farm—two men have been injured this week, two large trucks wrecked, and their cargoes destroyed.

Instead of following the route first planned, in coming down the long steep hill into Stoops Ferry—a route involving a long gentle curve and over a right of way that had been authorized by the grand jury—the road builders, in a mistaken zeal for straightness, trespassed on private property and effected an abrupt right angle junction with the Narrows Run road.

It is difficult for large trucks, and awkward for passenger cars, to make the turn without leaving the pavement; and that fact has been responsible for the wrecks.

Pending a final adjudication of the dispute over the route, the turn at the junction point should be made reasonably safe.

We note with satisfaction that Commissioner McGovern has promised to do something about it. It is hoped it will be done immediately.

The Barrier

(Copyright, 1934.)

Here you see the plight of Everyman in America today—and you know at a glace that HIS humor is very bad indeed.

The obstacles before him of too much government and too much taxation have become actually insuperable. And this condition cannot continue.

Echoing an editorial published recently in the Hearst newspapers, the current issue of "Automobile Topics" comments as follows under the heading "Outcry":

"To the rising tide of protest against taxation in many forms has now been added the suggestion that citizens of all political faiths band together in a non-partisan league against taxation.

"Popular indignation, slow to rise, but embittered by the constant levying of new taxes, rose to a new pitch . . . when Congress first rejected and then accepted Senator Couzens' proposal for a 10 per cent addition to all income taxes next year.

"This would be—of all things—a tax upon a tax.

"It is estimated that there are 229,721 taxing bodies in the United States. Taxes are levied by the Federal Government, by each of the 48 States, by 3,074 counties, 10,598 incorporated municipalities and by about 200,000 special districts.

"Each imposes several taxes already, but when they begin to lay on double the burden becomes TOO GREAT TO BEAR IN SILENCE."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 26.—The quick bound of the red-headed Detroit choir boy, Joe Penner, to pinnacles of stage and radio fame has done more to hearten the performer than anything during the depression. A small-time artist, knocking about in the uncertainty of split weeks and sleeper jumps, he is today shogun of his profession.

When he jumped from a $100-a-week radio performer to a salary of $850 a week he had reached a peak beyond his wildest imagination. That it should in a very short space balloon to $8,000 a week, plus his equally enormous stage earnings, becomes the greatest salary phenomenon known to show business.

Just his crazy line "Wanna buy a duck" caused two toy factories to drop standard outputs to turn out toy ducks of every description. The odd thing is that his appeal was designed almost solely for children. No one thought of it catching the enthusiasm of the adult mind.

His stage appearances have created a greater furore than Bernhardt's. Not only have all box office records been shattered in the movie houses where he was billed, but the overflow filled neighboring houses. And no one is so amazed as Penner himself.

Queer upshoots in the amusement world make it the fascinating slumbering volcano it is. There was Ziegfeld's Midnight Frolic, a haphazardry the wiseacres hooted, that lasted 10 years. Christopher Morley's Hoboken experiment of producing forgotten mawkish melodramas in a abandoned theater and bringing New York's ermined blase on the run. The Flea Circus in the boil of sophisticated Forty-second street. Chauve Souris, a tacky cabaret of the Moscow cellars. Don Dickerman's Barn. And so on.

Contrarily, there are the amusement Waterloos no one understands. The Century Theater, for example. Designed, executed and exploited by the shrewdest minds, it could never get going and after wallowing in failures for 20 years was torn down.

The arrival of Anna Gould de Castellane de Talleyrand in America again emphasizes the vast gulf between her and her sister Helen Gould. Anna's pink-veined marble palace, so showy to all who drive along the Bois de Boulogne, has long been the haven for the serried ranks of expatriates of the French capital. While her social wings have been clipped time after time, she still flies high. The Helen Gould town house is, outside of the Wendell home, the gloomiest remaining avenue mansion.

Every street in New York offers a paradox and a surprise, at least for a country boy. This morning, sauntering, northward on Park avenue, I happened to glance up and there waving from a hotel, in the summer breeze alongside our own Stars and Stripes, was the flag of Soviet Russia. The wind whipped them both out strongly, with equal partiality. In the sunshine the yellow of the hammer and sickle and the single star loomed on its bright field no less clearly than our own red, white and blue. In a nosey mood, I stepped in and asked the clerk why. Mr. Troyannovsky, the Soviet Ambassador to the United States, was spending a quiet week-end at the hotel, and it was the management's way of showing they were glad to have him.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

What Price—'Being Wronged?'

The following is a letter from a young lady who considers herself wronged and is about to sue for damages.

"Such tripe," you will doubtless say, "should have no place in important columns."

You are right. Nor should it have place in Superior Courts—or in Taxpayers' budgets. But under our present system, it rates heavy in both these departments. And has become a Public Peril Number One. Therefore, we present—Bessie and her Bleat.

Dear Miss Robinson—

I am just another woman who has sacrificed her all for love and I am desperately in need of advice. I'm 27. From the time I was 19 until I was 25, I worked as a stenographer. I am considered attractive and dress well, so I was always able to get good positions. I certainly enjoyed life during those years.

Then I met the man I'm in love with and all that carefree time ceased. I know I should have known enough about men by that time to protect myself, but he seemed so different and I completely lost my head.

It all began with some harmless picnics. But he showered me with attentions and called me up at all hours of the day. Our love was so fine and true! We both are very modern in our viewpoint—he is 38—and we felt we had a right to do with our lives as we chose. So we started living together.

Although I did not see him regularly, he gave me every attention a wife might expect. I had my own little apartment and my charge account. We took off on wonderful week-end trips. Whenever he was out of town he wrote me the most beautiful love letters.

Then, suddenly, without a word of warning, my little world crashed. After all I had done for him he fell in love with a silly little thing and one morning I opened the paper to read of his marriage.

So now I'm alone and frantic. I have a few jewels, some good clothes—but the best years of my youth are gone. Worse yet, my reputation is ruined. I gave up everything for him, including a chance to marry a fine man who now wouldn't look at me.

OF COURSE, NOTHING CAN EVER REPAY ME FOR WHAT I'VE SACRIFICED AND WHAT I AM SUFFERING NOW, MISS ROBINSON, BUT DON'T YOU THINK THAT SUCH MEN SHOULD BE MADE TO REALIZE THAT THEY CAN'T GET BY WITH A CRIME LIKE THAT FOR NOTHING?

MANY OF MY FRIENDS TELL ME I SHOULD SUE FOR A GOOD BIG SETTLEMENT. THEY POINT OUT HOW SYMPATHETIC JUDGES AND JURIES ARE TO WRONGED WOMEN LIKE MYSELF. HIS LETTERS ALONE WILL PROVE EVERYTHING. WILL YOU GIVE ME YOUR HONEST OPINION?

ELIZABETH A.

No, I will not give you my "honest opinion," lady—for no Nice Editor on earth would dare print it. But wild horses couldn't stop me from giving you a General Notion of what I think of you and your kind. Which is that—

YOU'RE A DISGRACE TO YOUR SEX AND A MENACE TO THE NATION.

YOU'VE NO MORE RIGHT TO USE COURT SERVICE AND TAXPAYERS' MONEY TO COLLECT YOUR PAY-OFF, THAN ANY OTHER GANGSTER.

AND COMPARED TO YOU, THE LOWLY LOUSE IS AN HONEST, UNIONIZED WORKER IN GOOD AND REGULAR STANDING.

Your story doesn't vary, by one syllable, from the yelp of all your tribe. You're all bright girls with modern view points—so modern that you can dispense with old-fashioned foolishness like marriage ceremonies. And why are you so modern?

BECAUSE WELL YOU KNOW THAT YOU COULD NEVER ENTICE THE WARY, MODERN MALE INTO AN UNCONVENTIONAL AFFAIR, WITH ITS ACCOMPANYING PERQUISITES OF APARTMENT AND CHARGE ACCOUNT, UNLESS YOU DID CONVINCE HIM THAT YOU WERE "BROAD-MINDED."

So away you go on your week-end trips—working overtime to get yourself "wronged" and "wrecked"—and, figuratively, thumbing your noses at every honest wife and hum-drum marriage.

Then comes the inevitable dawn—with the wedding bells ringing for the Nice Girl who didn't have Advanced Ideas, and the bye-bye note for you. So what? So immediately you Go Modern and put up a pitiful moan about Wronged Womanhood, Outraged Purity, Blasted Honor, etc.

Phooey! If your "purity and innocence" were worth a hoot, you'd never drag them through the filth of breach-of-promise cases. If you had any respect for womanhood, yourselves, you'd never cheapen and commercialize it.

The simple truth is, you're calculating cut-throats using the hard-earned dollars of decent citizens to help you work a rotten racket. And as one of those taxpayers, with an interest in my dollars and the dignity of my courts—I PROTEST!

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Often you object to what you term the "surliness" of the boss.

You wonder why he is not more affable and companionable.

You have had the experience of watching him outside of working hours and you know that he can be a pleasing fellow.

But you cannot understand his change of attitude as soon as he takes up his workaday duties.

It's likely that the course he follows on the job is necessary because of those who would take advantage of good nature should he exhibit it.

Perhaps you are not earnest enough in your work.

You think of it so lightly that you do not concentrate fully upon it, and your mind wanders to outside matters.

A successful boss cannot permit himself to do anything of this sort.

His whole heart and attention must go to the work in hand.

The office or shop is not a place for pleasantries.

The work of a growing concern is too serious and the spirit of it is too demanding to allow anything but constant effort to be injected into its management.

Take your job more seriously.

'Snakes of Alien Intrigue' Menace United States

By James T. Williams, Jr.

Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence, I conjure you to believe me, fellow citizens, the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake; since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government.—George Washington.

CONGRESS will have to answer to the American people, both in the summer primaries and in the elections next November, if it adjourns without providing for a fearless probe of all sapping expeditions to undermine the government of the Constitution and incubate disloyalty to the flag among the rising generation of Americans.

A mass of evidence can be adduced to show that "the snakes of alien intrigue" are crawling through the very corridors of the Capitol and of the public buildings that house the executive departments at Washington.

Proof has been produced that the snakes of alien intrigue are nesting on the campuses of dozens of universities and colleges. These institutions are maintained by the state, or exempted by the state from taxation, solely upon the theory that their common purpose is to train loyal and intelligent leaders for the several states and for the great American family which is the nation.

Alien Intrigue In Public Schools

FACTS in plenty have been assembled which reveal that the snakes of alien intrigue are today rearing their ugly heads in the very cradle of American citizenship—the public schools which are supported by the state, and also in many non-public schools that are exempted from taxation by the state.

Meantime, foreign governments are known to have appropriated large sums of money which are being expended to pollute American education, poison the channels of public information, influence the action of public servants, shape the course of foreign policy, disrupt and weaken the common defense, and broadcast to other countries anti-American propaganda.

Only Congress can ascertain who the ringleaders of this alien intrigue are, who are its agents. What men and women professing to be loyal and intelligent Americans are aiding and abetting these anti-American activities, only Congress can find out.

This is no longer a joking matter, if it ever was. This is no trifling or transitory threat. This is a challenge on American soil to every thing that loyal Americans profess to "love, honor and obey."

Senators and representatives in Congress who are deaf, dumb and blind before this challenge, who pretend to make light of it, who are too fatuous to comprehend the sinister menace of its ramifications, have no place in an American Congress because they no longer heed the admonition that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

Farewell Address Still Good Advice

THE counsels of the Farewell Address were not for an occasion. They were bequeathed by George Washington to the American people for all time.

In that immortal valedictory the father of his country said:

"In offering to you, my countrymen, these counsels of an old and affectionate friend, I dare not hope they will make the strong and lasting impression I could wish; that they will control the usual current of the passions, or prevent our nation from running the course, which has hitherto marked the destiny of nations. But if I may even flatter myself, that they may be productive of some partial benefit, some occasional good; that they may now and then recur to moderate the fury of party spirit, to warn against the mischiefs of foreign intrigue, to guard against the impostures of pretended patriotism; this hope will be a recompense for the solicitude for your welfare, by which they have been dictated."

Has the Congress now hastening toward adjournment forgotten "these counsels of an old and affectionate friend," or are its members too deep in the mire of pork barrel politics and the muck of personal publicity to follow them and to act upon their timely warnings and admonitions?

Human Side of the News

The Origin and Notable Two-Century History of the Hudson Bay Company

By Edwin C. Hill

NEXT to Nell Gwynne, Charles the Second loved the sea. And so the tale of the young Frenchman thrilled him, as it had thrilled Prince Rupert, the cavalry leader of England's Civil War. For Pierre Esprit Radisson had been to the New World and had returned with a new story of wonders. The adopted son of an Indian chief, he had traveled far into the Northland, into the waters where Capt. Hendrik Hudson had been left to die by his crew in his search for the Northwest passage.

Going back to France, Radisson told of a paradise of fur-bearing animals and of the riches to be gained in trade with the Indian hunters. But the Parisians mocked him for a dreamer, just as the Genoese had laughed at Columbus. But in London town King Charles was on the throne, with his ear ever sympathetic to one who would talk of navigation or colonial expansion. A little ship of 50 tons—the Nonsuch—was fitted out, and in 1689 it sailed from Gravesend to return in due course into the Thames with a cargo of beaver pelts to be put on sale in Garraway's Coffee House, and to establish London as the center of the world's fur trade.

Thereupon, King Charles put his seal to the charter of "The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England Trading into Hudson's Bay" and by so doing, gave to Prince Rupert and 17 others, dominion over three-quarters of the North American Continent.

Furs Shipped Yearly Since 1726

TWO hundred and sixty-three years have passed, and a gallon or two of water has flowed into Hudson's Bay since the Nonsuch sailed back. Yet not a year has elapsed since 1726, but that the Company of Adventurers has sent a vessel across the ocean to bring back a cargo of furs. The trek of the trappers to the posts of the Hudson Bay Company is now on. Five hundred miles beyond the Arctic Circle, Eskimos in their kayaks are heading back with their pelts.

Across the Dominion, from the Mackenzie River to Baffin Land, Indians, half-breeds and whites are finishing up their five months of solitary labor in the icy wastes, and piling their furs on pack horses, dog-sledges or into canoes. Mink, muskrat, silver, white and blue fox, otter, weasel, skunk, raccoon and bear skins—they are taking to the 150 posts scattered from the Arctic to the borders of the United States.

At each post, a collection of wooden buildings with a large store, the company's manager, usually a native of the north of Scotland, will appraise the pelts, and the trapper who has a good catch will receive from three thousand to five thousand dollars. For this he has labored since the first of November, over a line of several hundred traps extending, perhaps 150 miles, covering his lonely beat on snowshoes about 20 miles a day, sleeping and finding shelter in log cabins and leantos in his territory.

In its early days, the company did not trade with silver and gold. The skin of the beaver was the currency of the Northland and the price of a gun was about 10 skins. Today price quotations go out by radio and telegraph to the company's agents, broadcast in code from Canadian cities. Rich in romance and in profits is the history of the Company of Adventurers. The King's charter was not enough to keep a rival out of the field and the competition of the Northwest Fur Company, in the eighteenth century, led to a demoralization of the Indians by whisky and constant trouble.

21 Killed In Battle in 1816

THE climax came in 1816 when, in the Battle of Seven Oaks, Gov. Semple, of the Hudson Bay Company, and 20 of his attendants were killed. Five years later, Hudson Bay absorbed the rival and continued as sovereign of a domain, 3,000 miles long and 1,000 miles wide. That lasted until 1869, when the Dominion government came into being. Civilization was pressing westward and the company had to turn north for its furs. It took $1,500,000 and the rights to 7,000,000 acres of arable lands as the price of its sovereignty over an empire.

The oldest commercial corporation in the world, this—"The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England Trading Into Hudson's Bay"—has gone on through two and one-half centuries pretty much in its original form, with one of its ships today carrying the original oak and brass-bound box of the Nonsuch.

Pretty much like old England itself, the Hudson Bay Company has weathered the storms of politics, wars and panics until now, with justifiable pride, her Governor announces a profit for the past 12 months—the first shown in four years.

"The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England Trading Into Hudson's Bay" . . . What a panorama of romance and drama that quaint old title summons up—the stirring, colorful history of that most admirable nation, Canada, itself—the Jesuits and the Red Indians; the voyageurs of the lonely forests—the very fabric and texture of the magnificent tapestry of high adventure.

ISN'T IT SO?

When a man steps aside and gives a woman the sidewalks he shows courtesy. When he pulls over and gives her more than her share of the highway, that's good common sense.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

One With Eternity

Safe on the golden sand by the sea,
Never to rove again
Or to wait, with the roses, the song of the bee
Or with April, the kiss of rain!

Winter nor summer is here;
Only the music the great waves bring
Endlessly, year on year.

Weary of time and of change-filled days,
Here would I ever be,
Watching the foam-flowers that bloom always,
One with eternity!

Text for Today But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.—I Corinthians, xv:57.
